Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report
The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down. Some feel they must work too hard to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburbs are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them, the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 53 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $5,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 48 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live.

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

Petition to add part of corridor

Long Grove moves to defeat annex bid

Long Grove village officials hope to head off plans for a Miller Builders development in Buffalo Grove by annexing part of a corridor of land before Buffalo Grove gets to it.

Attorneys for Long Grove have filed a petition in Lake County Circuit Court seeking annexation of 100 acres that is part of the corridor Buffalo Grove had hoped to annex to bring its boundaries up to the Miller site.

Miller plans to build 415 units on the 140-acre site and Long Grove is opposing the density of the development.

Village Pres. Robert Coffin of Long Grove said Monday the village filed its petition because "we're unhappy with the proposed type of annexation."

RICHARD WEXLER, a Miller attorney, said the Long Grove action was "malicious abuse of process." He indicated that he may file suit against Long Grove and charge it with trying to "confiscate" the land.

Wexler said a suit may be filed in the next two weeks to disconnect a portion of the property from Long Grove that was annexed several years ago but never serviced by the village.

The Miller site borders Long Grove east of Old Hicks Road between Old Checker Road and the Lake-Cook county line.

A court decision still is pending on the annexation method because Miller attorneys had to withdraw and resubmit their petition following Long Grove objections to discrepancies in the legal description of the land and to annexation petitions signed by property owners.

Coffin said the Long Grove annexation will "take precedence" over Miller's annexation petition because it was filed after the Miller request was withdrawn in court.

"They (Miller) withdrew their petition and filed a new one and in the meantime we (Long Grove) filed a request for annexation in the same general area," Coffin said.

Wexler said both sides will appear again in Lake County Circuit Court, Dec. 16.

Village agrees to rental of golf course apartments

The Buffalo Grove Village Board, in a 4-3 vote, agreed Monday night to permit the rental of 283 apartment units around the Buffalo Grove Golf Course if the developer proves an economic hardship.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong cast the deciding vote to allow Phoenix Construction Co. to rent a third of the 849 units planned on three tracts adjacent to the course if the firm is unable to sell them. The other 566 units would remain for sale.

Trustees Clarice Rech, Edward Osmon and Randall Rathjen opposed permitting Phoenix to rent units and cast the dissenting votes.

Phoenix officials have said that economic conditions may make it difficult to obtain financing to build all ownership units. The trustees agreed to permit the firm to rent some of the units as long as it demonstrates an economic need.

The new agreement also calls for a 4.3-acre donation by the developer to the village for the public works garage. Originally, a 4.8-acre donation was agreed upon, but it was later determined the village won't need that much land.

The board deferred action on authorizing Raymond Knoepfel, an Arlington Heights architect, to draw plans for the garage until it accepts title to the land.

Monthly low water bills go up Sunday

Monthly minimum water bills in Buffalo Grove will rise from $3 to $7.50, effective Sunday.

The village board Monday night raised the rates to make up a projected $140,000 deficit in the water system's emergency repair fund.

The new rate schedule is $7.50 for the first 5,000 gallons of water used; $1.20 per 1,000 gallons up to 30,000; and 90 cents per 1,000 gallons over 30,000.

For a typical monthly household use of 6,000 gallons, the new rates will mean an increase of $3.15.

Contributions fall off

Local United Fund drive may not reach $20,000 goal

Contributions to the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund have fallen off in the last few weeks and officials are concerned the campaign may not reach its $20,000 goal.

United Fund Pres. James Bauer Monday said $16,800, or 84 per cent of the goal, has been collected. The drive ends next week.

"Things have really started to slack off and I'm a little worried we aren't going to reach our goal," he said. "Our residential campaign is pretty much over; so we'll have to count more heavily on business and industry."

THE UNITED FUND has asked for contributions from every home, business and industry in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, Bauer said. Starting this week, officials will contact by telephone all businesses and industries that have not yet donated. He said he would like to contact all the households that have not contributed as well, but there is not enough manpower.

"We feel if we get some response from our telephone calls, we can still make our goal," he said. "But it's going to be a little tougher than last year."

This year's goal is $8,000 higher than last year's. In addition to the local goal, Bauer said $65,000 will be given to the local drive by the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Money raised by the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund will help support Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Northwest Suburban Homemakers Service, Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Countryside Center for the Handicapped, Northwest Mental Health Center and the Salvation Army Family Counseling Service.

Contributions may be sent to the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund, P.O. Box 56, Wheeling.

For now, the front yard. Tomorrow—who knows?—the Big Ten.

Hilton to take over Arlington Towers

Hilton Hotels Corp. will take over operation of the Arlington Park Towers and the O'Hare International Tower hotels effective Dec. 16. The two hotels will be renamed the Arlington Park Hilton and the O'Hare Hilton. Madison Square Garden Corp. will retain ownership of the two properties. Alan N. Cohen, president of Madison Square Garden, called Hilton "the best professional management available," and predicted that the two hotels would benefit from Hilton's computerized reservation system.

Petitions to support Whipple

Backers of John Whipple, former Dwyer School psychologist, are circulating petitions asking State Schools Supt. Michael Bakalis to reject a state certification board recommendation and let Whipple keep his state psychologist's certificate. The board found that Whipple had acted as an administrator without an administrator's certificate when he headed the controversial school.

Driveway dispute goes on

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree. Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 16 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any such compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 16 feet.

Parks want to cut fees

The Elk Grove Park District is looking for ways to cut fees for recreation programs to give residents a break from inflation and rising prices. Park officials held a brainstorming session Monday to come up with ways to reduce costs. "We're concerned especially right now with keeping the cost down and maintaining the quality of programming we've always had," said Richard Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation. "It's a case of how to give people the most for the least amount of dollars."

Law to end attorney's dual roles?

Ald. Alan Abrams of Des Plaines said Monday night he will introduce an ordinance prohibiting City Atty. Charles Hug from doing outside legal work in an effort to end Hug's role as attorney for both the city and the Des Plaines Park District. Abrams announced his recommendations after a city code and judiciary committee meeting which heard from several other city officials who expressed differing views on the matter.

Library vote urged

More than 63 per cent of the 636 persons responding to a survey on the need for a new Mount Prospect Public Library said the issue should be put to the voters in a referendum. Results of a Herald survey showed that those responding were also split in the need for the new library: 37 per cent said it is needed and 59 per cent said it isn't. The village board has authorized a $4 million library bond issue, which does not require a referendum.

Mikva wins by slim margin

The Illinois Board of Elections made it official Monday: Democrat Abner J. Mikva won by a slim 2,860-vote margin out of more than 100,000 ballots cast in his successful challenge of U. S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10.

County officials getting hefty raises

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's recently elected officials will receive pay increases of $5,000 to $12,200 each when sworn into office Dec. 2.

The County Board unanimously approved the raises Monday at the board's final meeting of the fiscal year.

Largest increases went to two Democratic incumbents who were elected to new four-year terms Nov. 5. County Board Pres. George Dunne and Sheriff Richard Elrod will receive $12,200 a year, an increase from $30,000 a year.

County Clerk Stanley Kasper and assessor-elect Tom Tuilly will receive $10,000 a year, up from $30,000, and Seymour Zaban and Harry Semrow of the Board of (Tax) Appeals won raises to $27,500 from $22,500.

BOARD MEMBERS who approved the raises also increased their salaries from $20,000 to $25,000 a year.

The board's finance committee chairman, Chicago Democrat Jerome Hipert, will receive $27,500, a $5,000 a year increase.

Salaries of the officials were frozen in 1970 by state law, which prohibits elected officials from voting pay increases during a term in office. County officials are elected for four-year terms.

Two years before election of State's Atty. Bernard Carey, the board approved a salary increase to $42,200 for the position.

Suburban Republicans Monday said that the state's attorney, board president and sheriff are the three top officials in county government and should receive equal salaries.

"I'M DELIGHTED to see the board president's salary increased to put him at a par with other elected officials in the state," Comr. Carl Hansen said. Hansen was the GOP candidate for board president in the Nov. 5 election.

Dunne's $42,200 will be less than Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's 1975 wage of $50,000 a year and Gov. Daniel Walker's $58,000 a year.

"The cost of living between September 1970 and 1974 has gone up more than 26 per cent," Comr. Floyd Fulle said. "The salaries of county employees have increased 25 per cent in the last four years."

The commissioners' increases will keep salaries above the level of state legislators who now receive $17,500 a year. Legislation to increase legislative salaries $5,000 a year to $22,500 is expected to pass in the Illinois General Assembly before adjournment in December.

DESPITE OUTSIDE business interests, both Fulle and Hansen said that they are "full-time" commissioners. "There is no elected job that's defined (as full or part-time) that I know of," Fulle said. "There is no job description for elected officials."

"I don't sit in this office 40 hours a week, but I consider this a full-time job," said Fulle, who publishes a suburban newspaper. "When I'm at home, I get calls every 15 minutes. When tax bills go out, I can't explain how much time I put in. When I get a complaint on zoning, I meet with the people." Hansen, who owns a management consulting firm, said "the amount of time spent on county business varies with the time of year. I may spend time at home, analyzing county reports. On an average it's 40, 45 or 50 hours a week."

Hansen said that the county should examine the "constitutionality" of cost of living increases for elected officials. Atty. Gen. William Scott has said that the hikes would be constitutional, but the proposal has not been tested in court.

FULLE, HANSEN AND the three other suburban board members voted against a contract for repairing and converting about 1,400 voting machines for the Nov. 5 election. Two Democrats — John Stroger and Frank Chesrow — "passed."

Kasper did not bid the $180,000 contract with International Election Systems Corp. of New Jersey that was approved by the board.

"The county clerk must learn to follow board procedure," Hansen said. "These were necessary, good changes, but we don't know if there was another qualified bidder. This was never before the board until today."

Kakuei Tanaka, Japan's prime minister resigns

Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka resigned Tuesday, assuming responsibility for political confusion in Japan, triggered by charges against him of corruption. There have been calls for Tanaka's resignation since last month when a magazine article accused him of amassing a vast fortune during the 28 years he has been a politician.

Three men, Masayoshi Ohira, finance minister; Takeo Fukuda, former finance minister, and Takeo Miki, former deputy prime minister are widely considered potential successors to Tanaka.

British outlaw IRA; 3 bombs injure 20

The British government announced Monday it is outlawing the Irish Republican Army, and three bombs exploded soon afterwards in different areas of a London braced for reprisals. Police said 20 persons were injured. All bombs exploded in mail boxes. One at Piccadilly Circus, another near the Victoria railroad terminal, and a third in Caledonian Road, a north London working class district.

Rocky's nomination hits opposition

Nelson Rockefeller's nomination as vice president was opposed Monday by a variety of public witnesses who criticized him on counts ranging from his wealth to his attitude toward abortion. Arthur Eve of Buffalo, a state legislator, said Rockefeller's nomination should be rejected because of his handling of the Attica prison riot where 43 inmates and guards died. The hearings move into the fourth day today before the House Judiciary Committee.

Court rules on Mexican farmworker case

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that Mexican farmworkers can be admitted to the United States on a daily or seasonal basis without violating immigration laws. The decision was a blow to the United Farm Workers Union, which had brought suit seeking to bar temporary admission of Mexicans to compete with union members.

U.S. aircraft carrier in Persian Gulf

For the first time in a quarter century, a U. S. aircraft carrier is sailing the Persian Gulf just off the world's richest oil fields, the Pentagon announced Monday. The sailing of the Constellation was officially labelled a "routine deployment" by the Pentagon.

Armed Services unit to question Haig

The Senate Armed Services committee voted Monday to summon Gen. Alexander Haig Jr., White House chief of staff in the last months of the Nixon presidency, for questioning about his suitability to be commander of NATO forces in Europe. Haig critics feel he may be too closely identified with the Nixon White House for him to be effective.

Lesser charges are dismissed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica Monday threw out part of the Watergate cover-up indictment against John N. Mitchell and John D. Ehrlichman, but ordered the trial to go forward on the main charge against all five defendants — conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Sirica's rulings, shortly after the government rested its case at the eight-week-old trial, cleared the way for the defendants to present their cases to the sequestered jury.

Ruling the government had failed to present sufficient evidence to justify the charges, Sirica ordered that Mitchell and Ehrlichman be acquitted of counts charging that they lied to the FBI in unsworn statements in the early days of the bugging investigation.

He said the jury, which had been excused from the courtroom, would be informed that the two counts had been dropped "at the proper time."

But at the same time, Sirica denied routine motions from four of the defendants — Mitchell, Ehrlichman, Robert C. Mardian, and Kenneth W. Parkinson — that all charges against them be dismissed for insufficient evidence. Only H.R. Haldeman did not ask for a directed judgment of acquittal.

Mitchell was expected to take the stand as the first defense witness today following an opening statement on behalf of Haldeman.

U Thant, former U.N. chief, dead at 65

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U Thant, the quiet devout Buddhist schoolmaster from Burma who for a decade served as the third Secretary General of the United Nations, died Monday in New York at the age of 65.

Thant, who had cancer of the cheek, died at New York's Columbia Presbyterian Hospital after contracting pneumonia, a U.N. spokesman said. His death came not quite three years after his retirement. Funeral arrangements were pending.

The General Assembly scheduled a special commemorative session when Thant's successor Kurt Waldheim returns from the Middle East.

Since his retirement as secretary general on Dec. 31, 1971, Thant lived in suburban Harrison, N. Y. He is survived by his widow, a daughter and son-in-law and four grandchildren.

Thant assumed the top U. N. post as acting secretary general after Dag Hammarskjöld's death in 1961. A year later he was unanimously named secretary general in his own right and he insisted that his five-year term be dated back to the time he first went into office. Re-elected to a second term, he served longer than anyone as U. N. chief executive.

His U. N. accomplishments included bringing the Congo crisis to an end without the secession of Katanga province, persuading the Africans not to force South Africa out of the world organization and bringing Pope Paul VI to the General Assembly for his dramatic "War-never-again" appeal.

Thant was head of the Afro-Asian committee which aided Algeria's fight for independence from France, and he engineered its entry into the United Nations.

The son of a Burmese landowner, Thant was born at Pantanaw, Burma, on Jan. 22, 1909, and was educated at Rangoon's University College before launching a schoolteaching career.

Open hearings on sugar prices

Typical food basket cost up 9.8%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual retail cost of feeding a theoretical family of 3.2 persons rose $4 in October to a record $1,779 due mostly to rising farm prices, the Agriculture Department reported Monday.

The report said the increase in farm prices more than offset a slight dip in middlemen's margins during the month.

But the figures also showed that increased marketing charges were the main factor in pushing the typical food basket cost to 9.8 per cent above the level a year ago.

In September, for example, the retail cost of the market basket had risen 1.4 per cent above August because marketing margins rose 2.3 per cent while farm prices were falling 1 per cent.

The $1,779 rate consumers paid for the market basket in October — 0.2 per cent above September — was divided into $734 for farmers and an estimated $1,045 for middlemen.

The market basket represents a selection of U.S. farm-produced foods needed to feed a theoretical household of 3.2 persons for a year. It is not intended to represent the actual grocery spending of any average family, but is regarded as a barometer of up and down trends in consumer food bills, marketing costs and the farm share of the consumer food dollar.

For 1974 as a whole, economists estimate food marketing costs will average about 20 per cent above 1973, the biggest one-year increase on record.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability opened hearings Monday to trace the roots of a situation which has prompted sugar prices to jump 400 per cent during the past year.

William A. Quinlan, general counsel for the Associated Retail Bakers of America, warned the council that as many as 15,000 neighborhood retail bakeries may go out of business if sugar prices keep going up. He said the industry "faces disaster" unless the government steps in to subsidize the price that both consumer and commercial buyers pay for sugar.

Meanwhile, Senate Republican leaders accused Democrats Monday of delaying President Ford's economic program, but 12 Democrats announced they would seek swift approval of a tax overhaul going beyond Ford's program.

In other economic developments Monday:

- United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller summoned his rebellious bargaining council back to Washington to rule on a revised coal contract worked out under the gaze of Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

- The four U.S. automakers reported mid-November sales were down almost 35 per cent from last year's already depressed levels, and Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II said the bottom of the auto slump has not yet been reached. Up to 200,000 U.S. and Canadian auto workers will be off for parts or all of December as automakers try to bring their huge inventory of unsold cars into line with slumping sales.

- With investors apparently preoccupied by concern over the nation's recession, the New York Stock Exchange had only light trading with falling prices. The Dow Jones Industrial average lost 3.36 points to 611.94. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.07 to 68.83.

Official cites reasons for arms curb

From United Press International

The Russians accepted the Vladivostok strategic arms limitations agreement in part because they wanted to get off to a good start with President Ford, a high American official said Monday.

Ford and Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev reached a tentative agreement in Vladivostok for a 10-year curb on the number of offensive nuclear weapons.

The official, who talked to newsmen aboard the plane carrying Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to Peking, said Ford will brief congressional leaders next week on the exact number of missiles, bombers, and other strategic nuclear offensive weapons limited by the accord.

Other reasons why the official felt the Russians signed the agreement were: the Soviets felt they had enough nuclear might to afford the agreement; and a Soviet fear that if an agreement was not reached at Vladivostok, there might not be another chance.

At a state banquet Monday night in Peking, Kissinger assured Chinese leaders the three-year-old diplomatic thaw between the United States and China is firmly part of Ford's foreign policy and will continue.

Kissinger is briefing Chinese officials on the Vladivostok summit and discussing the general scope of Sino-U. S. relations in view of changes in Chinese and American leadership.

Meanwhile, in the United Nations, North Korea denounced President Ford Monday as a "war monger" and asked for the immediate withdrawal of some 38,000 American troops from South Korea.

Addressing the U. N. General Assembly's 138-member main political committee, North Korean Vice Foreign Minister Li Jong Mok said the U. S. troops were no longer needed since South Korea had an army of 700,000 and another 2.5 million men in the reserves.

Ford's journey to South Korea, he said, was "a trip for war expansion and a trip for aggression, which revealed without reservation his true colors as a war monger."

In Washington, the President shifted to domestic matters after his Far East summit and concentrated Monday on ways to trim federal spending in a bid to ease inflationary pressures without adding to the recession.

His press secretary, Ron Nessen, said Ford was spending most of his time making final decisions on a series of proposed budget cuts that he will outline today in a message to Congress.

Nessen also indicated that Ford was working at a less rigorous pace than usual after getting back Sunday night from his eight-day, 16,500-mile journey to Asia. He said the President showed up "a little late" at his desk and kept his schedule free of formal appointments throughout the day so he could confer easily with top aides.

Happy undergoes surgery, she's OK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Margaretta "Happy" Rockefeller underwent her second breast removal operation for cancer Monday and her doctor said she has a 90 per cent chance of full recovery over 10 years.

Dr. Jerome A. Urban, head of a four surgeon team which removed Mrs. Rockefeller's right breast less than six weeks after her left breast was similarly removed, said, "It's out and that's the end of it."

Urban, acting chief of breast services at Sloan-Kettering Memorial Hospital where the surgery was performed, said the second operation for the wife of Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller was simpler than the first and preliminary lab reports were that the cancer had not spread to lymph glands under her arms.

"She's O.K. It's all over," Rockefeller said minutes after visiting his wife in her room. "I'm so relieved. I'm so grateful. I'm thanking God and especially the doctors and the nurses."

President Ford called Rockefeller Monday to express his concern over Mrs. Rockefeller. Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford and his wife Betty, who recently underwent similar surgery, called about 11 a.m. as Mrs. Rockefeller was being wheeled from the operating room.

Nessen said the Fords wanted "to wish Happy the best" and quoted the President as saying: "Give her our love. Our prayers are with her. When you get a little clearer picture, call us back."

Urban, who also performed the first operation Oct. 17, said Monday's operation was a "simple mastectomy," in which only the breast tissue itself was removed, as opposed to last month's "modified radical" mastectomy in which much of the major pectoral muscle and lymph nodes were removed.

• President Ford Monday nominated Frank G. In a few years if I can. The thrust of my job now is to make it possible for the younger guys to move up, to advance. I like doing that very much."

The teacher

"I'm 25 years old. I'm satisfied with my life. I like teaching. It's fun and not like a job. But teaching isn't a profession to me. It's a way to make money and have free time to go out and have fun. My parents want me to get married."

"I used to teach in Peoria but I didn't like the small town. I like living here. The suburbs are very materialistic, fast-moving, fast-paced; there is an excitement about them. I play tennis, to-boggan, ice skate and love to shop. What more could you ask for with Woodfield right in your backyard?"

Would you change your life if you could? "I think I would change my life completely. I would go to a bigger school and would have picked a more demanding, challenging field."

Do you like the way you live? "Some days, yes, some days, no. I think there are a lot of things wrong with this country, but I've been to Europe twice and I wouldn't live anywhere else than here. I'm proud to live here. I admit the U.S. is not like anything I learned in civics class but I've learned to live with it, the good and the bad. It's a nice place to come home to."

"All I can remember is a quote I heard once that happiness isn't a place, it's a direction."

The prep football coach

"When I wake up in the morning I look forward to going to work. I never think of work as a drag. People want to know why I go to work so early. I get there an hour early and generally they have to throw me out at night. I know as early as elementary school that I wanted to be in sports. I think I have a fine record and a good rapport with the players. I have no remorse or frustrations about what I am doing."

Any complaints? "Everybody's got complaints, but I'm down on people who think this is a terrible place to live. People who don't like this country shouldn't stay here. They should go to other countries and see how it is there."

"If it comes to defending this country I will go and I am 35 years old. If Uncle Sam says, 'Hey, it's time for you to go,' it's right or wrong I'll go."

"Things don't come to you. You have to get what you want through hard work. I've got a nice home in Palatine, a great marriage of 18 years and two fine daughters. To have a son would have been nice."

What about inflation? "I'm baffled by the cost of food. Raises aren't bigger than the increased costs of living. But things will change for the better, I know. I think something should be done about fiendish crimes and the drug and pornography overload that seems like it's swallowing us up. Sometimes I get awfully depressed about it."

"But things are good, generally, I'm sitting here in beautiful Palatine, my wife has chicken in the oven and my kids have nice shoes."

The career woman

"I had an out-of-the-ordinary family with out-of-the-ordinary values. My father retired to do what he wanted at age 35 — I'm one year younger than that now. My father was interested in ecology long before anyone knew what the word meant. He was an all-around naturalist. It did cause problems; my Dad was hard to compete with."

"I always expected to be married and have children until I graduated from college. I was engaged then and realized I didn't want to marry the guy. So I went to Europe and lived in Rome for awhile, just bumming. And there were times when I would envy those who were pretty happily married. But I would rather be single than be involved in a bad marriage like the ones I've seen. I do miss having children, though."

"I didn't want to struggle in a strange town with 12 million other people... I want to be financially comfortable. I may never get there but I'll enjoy and savor the steps I took toward getting there. Nobody can ever tell me I can't make it."

and they may not know enough to turn to each other for help."

"People are really in a state of uncertainty. Especially those people who have moved here during the past five years, many of them with husbands in middle management jobs."

"The old farm families seem more stable in times of stress. They are very much family oriented and they aren't wealthy, they've worked hard for what they have."

"It's the young people I'm worried about. You wonder if their backgrounds and training have prepared them well enough for setbacks. So many of the young adults are so involved in their own lives, in their own interests that it will require a lot for them to adjust to hard times."

"Even those young families who think they are community-minded through involvement in the Little League are really in it because of their own children, not for the community as a whole."

"I think there are hard times ahead, but one thing to remember, we'll come out of it."

The elderly woman

"I came to the nursing home two years ago — I'm 72 now. I help out with the secretarial work here at the home and I can still play the piano, which I enjoy."

"I think you make your own life. If you take the attitude that things are always bad, you will go through life a very unhappy person. I always try to look up and see what's bright in the world. I am very fortunate in being very active in my life. I am agile for my age. I'm happy. I'm satisfied. Life's too short to be bitter."

Would you do anything different with your life? "I don't know. I'm satisfied with my life and I'm happy. I have often thought that maybe I would not have gotten married. But now I am glad to have my family. I will never be lonesome."

Isn't there anything you would have liked to have done? "Well, I always wanted to be a dancer. A tap dancer. When I was younger I loved the stage. But I had a straight-laced family and they looked down upon that."

"But I didn't do it, so I didn't do it — it's nothing to regret. I made the best of my life. I won't say it was a bad bargain."

What do you do when you get up in the morning? "I hop out of bed and get cutting."

The housewife

"My husband works for Ford and we are apprehensive about what will happen to the economy and to the company. I'm 35 years old and I have three children. We moved here from a suburb of Detroit on a job transfer. We live in suburbs because of the children."

"I'd really prefer to live in a major

EPA complaint

Permit lack cited in landfill charge

by JOE FRANZ

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has filed a complaint against a sanitary landfill near Wheeling, charging it has been operating without an EPA permit.

The complaint was filed with the Illinois Pollution Control Board against Landfill Engineering Co., Milwaukee Avenue and Deerfield Road, and its owner, William Freeding. The case will be handled by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott's office.

Richard H. Briceland, EPA director, said Monday this and similar cases are designed to protect citizens from problems that accompany improperly operated landfills and illegal garbage dumps. The case is part of a statewide effort to ensure proper operation of solid-waste disposal areas, he said.

Freedling said Monday he has not applied for an EPA permit because the landfill was supposed to close about the time the state law took effect. "It took us a little longer than we thought to complete the landfill, but we're almost through now," he said.

THE LAKE COUNTY Circuit Court, he said, issued an order allowing him to finish the landfill. He said he expects to close the landfill by the end of the year.

"We haven't taken any garbage there for about a month and a half," he said. "All we've been taking there lately is dirt to cover the site."

After the landfill is closed, Freeding said he will attempt to sell the site for some kind of development.

"Garbage dumps can cause both air and water pollution and can serve as breeding areas for rats, mice and insects," Briceland said. "Health and safety hazards and visual blight at garbage dumps are quickly becoming a thing of the past in Illinois."

"We intend to take legal action against all sites operating without permits in violation of the law."

KURT ADAMSON, an attorney for the EPA Division of Land Pollution Control, said Monday that Landfill Engineering has been in violation of Illinois law since last July. The Illinois General Assembly, he said, passed a law July 27, 1973, giving operators of garbage dumps and sanitary landfills one year to obtain EPA permits.

The case has been filed because we have no record of them applying for a permit," Adamson said.

The attorney said there is no evidence the landfill is a threat to the public safety, but without a permit, the EPA cannot be sure it is being operated properly.

"The case has been filed strictly on the issue of them not having a permit," Adamson said. "It does not take into consideration whether they are complying with our standards."

On the requirement of EPA permits, Briceland said, "These permits are more than mere pieces of paper. They provide the best means to achieve compliance with state pollution control regulations. They also provide assurance that each site is developed and operated in the most environmentally sound manner."

ADAMSON SAID 45 cases charging landfills and garbage dumps with operating without EPA permits have been forwarded to the attorney general's office for hearings before the pollution control board. He said no date has been set for the hearing on the site near Wheeling.

The EPA and the attorney general's office are asking the pollution control board to fine landfill operators up to $10,000 for each permit violation and up to $1,000 for each day the alleged violation exists.

La Grange official describes project

Tunnel blasts to 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rorison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rorison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY district announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rorison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts bounded off the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rorison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jell" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Stickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rorison said that in LaGrange, Jay

Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lonnquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Fire district annex referendum delayed

A referendum to add the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove to the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District was put off again Monday following a court order extending the matter to Feb. 10.

The ruling, handed down by Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford of Cook County, precludes any possibility that the vote can be this year, Buffalo Grove Village Atty. Richard Rayssa said.

Comerford's order will give Buffalo Grove fire officials a chance to study Long Grove fire district financial records, to see if disannexation would seriously harm the Long Grove district. Long Grove officials have said one reason they want to keep the territory is because the loss of tax money would be a great burden.

RAYSSA SAID he asked for the extension to examine the records and reply to the Long Grove claim.

Paul Chervin, an attorney for the Long Grove department said disannexation would take away about one-third of the district's tax base.

Before continuing the issue, Comerford denied a request by Long Grove that the referendum be disallowed because laws governing the change of fire districts are unconstitutional.

Chervin said earlier this month he would challenge the statute, charging that inadequate notice was given to district officials that disannexation was being sought.

Buffalo Grove officials were hoping to have a referendum sometime this year.

COURT DETERMINATION of the referendum date was put off last October when Long Grove objected to losing such a large amount of its tax base and questioned the constitutionality of laws governing the disannexation.

Officials estimate that Long Grove could receive an extra $60,000 in tax money if the referendum is conducted after April 1.

If that happens, the Wheeling district would not receive any tax revenue from the Lake County section of the village until February 1977 even if the territory is transferred.

Disannexation of the territory would be an important first step in the formation of a municipal fire department, Buffalo Grove officials have said.

Currently, Buffalo Grove is served primarily by Long Grove firemen in the Lake County section and Buffalo Grove firemen in the Cook County section. The Vernon Township Fire District covers a small area of the village, but are not fighting disannexation.

Compromise over driveway feud?

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree.

Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 18 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday that the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 18 feet.

The Twardziks said they are unsure whether they will accept the compromise, if actually offered, since they want to keep the driveway which was installed six years ago. Mrs. Twardzik said she was told the county's contractor would come to remove six feet of black top Thursday.

Last week, the Twardzik's parked their vehicles in the driveway to prevent workmen from ripping it out. Mrs. Twardzik said she is still keeping a close watch over the driveway.

Mt. Prospect woman loses eviction fight

by BARRY SIGALE

The Mount Prospect woman who was fighting eviction from her apartment at the federally-subsidized Huntington Commons complex has lost her battle and will move out by Sunday.

The decision is a blow to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which made a public issue of the plight of Patricia Orr. She was characterized by SCLC as a woman alone, having to care for five children without a husband to lend support.

The 37-year-old divorcee has decided not to pursue her eviction in court and has found a new place to live. Originally scheduled to be out of her apartment by Oct. 31, Mrs. Orr had additional time to look for a new home because of the behind-the-scenes negotiations between her attorney and the attorney for The Littlestone Co., managers of the complex.

"This is a normal way to end" an eviction controversy, said Bill McNally, SCLC attorney representing Mrs. Orr, in explaining why a courtroom confrontation did not take place. "Usually," he said, "a tenant says, 'to heck with it,' and drops attempts to challenge the order."

THE MAIN REASON Mrs. Orr didn't continue the battle, according to SCLC officials, is that the burden of proof was upon her to refute the charges made against her and her family that led to the eviction notice. The odds, said the officials, were against her.

The legal action was threatened by SCLC at a press conference Oct. 24. It was an immediate reaction after Mrs. Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cate, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandalism charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Patricia Orr

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

Arrogant state board must learn to serve

A state agency that is supposed to solve construction problems for Illinois' public school districts has instead become a nightmare of red tape and arrogance, and we urge the legislature to yank it back to its original purpose.

The culprit is the Illinois Capital Development Board, created in 1973 to administer a program which would allow the state to pay up to 70 per cent of the cost of local school construction.

What was envisioned by those who supported the legislation which created it was a board that would provide the cash for construction, but wouldn't meddle in the construction process. But that's not the way it's worked out.

Instead, the Capital Development Board has become a red-tape agency which has unnecessarily delayed the construction of school buildings; for example, Schaumburg Twp. Dist. 54, one of the fastest growing districts in Illinois, has been in a perpetual, time-consuming struggle with the agency for approval of needed new buildings.

In addition to delaying construction, school officials have reported nit-picking and arrogance on the part of the Board's leadership. It's part of the all-too-familiar pattern of a state agency declaring it always knows best for local school districts, even though those local districts have been satisfactorily building school buildings for years.

Finally, the Capital Development Board's top officials have complained publicly about the "inequality" of district boundaries in Illinois. Critics of the Board have accused it of attempting "social engineering" by making such pronouncements, thus going far beyond its original mandate of aiding public school construction.

State Rep. Arthur Berman, D-Chicago, has threatened to introduce corrective legislation in Springfield, and for the sake of all school districts, we support the idea of such legislation.

The state should play a role in school construction, but that role is primarily to supply funds. In the past, school districts have proved themselves quite capable of building weatherproof school buildings on their own, without excessive state interference.

The lesson ignored by the Capital Development Board is one that is too frequently missed by state and federal officials; that is, state and federal government is designed to serve its constituents, not to dictate policy to them. Unless the Board begins to learn this lesson, then it should be abolished and the legislature should develop a more responsive, and responsible, board.

'Driving not an inalienable right'

by GARRISON TERHUNE

For Americans, to whom owning "a set of wheels" is something taken for granted, knowing how to drive comes as naturally as knowing how to tune a color TV. It's a toss-up as to which is considered more difficult.

Getting a driver's license is one of our teen-age rites of passage. So all too many of us also consider it an inalienable — and unassailable — right. Calling somebody a "bad driver" is one of the more personal insults one could ever utter.

The simple truth is, declining highway fatality statistics notwithstanding, the typical American is not a good driver. More than likely, he or she is a lousy driver.

There are three ingredients in the highway safety recipe: the road, the vehicle and the driver. For nearly a decade, the greatest attention has been lavished on the vehicle, via federally mandated safety standards.

Most recently, however, there are signs that there will soon be a new target of concentration, the driver. Safety is, of course, a quite legitimate goal for automakers, an obligatory one, in fact. But safety is a relative quality.

There can be no such thing as an absolutely safe car, no matter how many safety standards it meets. A car is either more or less safe. Further, if you agree that there is always the potential for an accident in a traffic situation, the decision to drive on a public roadway is, in effect, a decision to court danger.

The hundreds of thousands who have been killed and the millions who have been injured on America's streets and highways are testimony to that.

The growing interest in the driver as the key culprit in our continuing saga of death and destruction — and we're not talking about "the nut behind the wheel," but the average American man and woman, responsible, right-minded and an incompetent driver — is showing up in subtle and widespread ways.

At a recent seminar on auto safety sponsored by Mercedes-Benz, a panel of journalists examined the legal and engineering aspects of the problem. Next, the journalists zeroed in on the driver as the area where the most good can be done in improving safety.

They talked about better driver education programs, tougher licensing tests and even two levels of driver's license — one which would authorize the holder to operate vehicles only on surface streets, another for people qualified to drive on all public roads. This system would hopefully allow only good drivers on the freeways, parkways and interstate highways.

Out of the question? It's not very different from the system of licensing pilots, which is based on various levels of proficiency, experience and physical health.

This proposed scrutiny of one's "right to drive" is gaining currency in many places. In North Carolina, for example, 128 acres have been secured and $3 million appropriated by the state for the establishment of a National Driving Center. The Center's purpose is to examine the medical aspects of driving, including the driver's physical, mental and emotional behavior.

The first objective of the National Driving Center will be defining the driving task in medical terms.

Eventually, the Center hopes to be able to identify the behavioral, social and medical characteristics of drivers who have accumulated a lengthy record of accidents and traffic violations, and from there develop appropriate rehabilitation programs. The concept was worked out in cooperation with medical, legal and insurance associations in North Carolina — hardly wild-eyed radicals.

In virtually every other part of the country there has been talk of requiring senior drivers, those 65 and older, to take an annual driving test to maintain their licenses.

What is it that's wrong with America's drivers? It starts with the way we sit, crunched up against the steering wheel, hands draped from the top of the wheel rim like praying mantises. If you think about it, one cannot possibly make an evasive maneuver — steer out of an emergency — when so constricted. What's more, we seldom use our mirrors to look when changing lanes or merging.

Thrust into a "panic" situation, the first — and usually only — action we take is to stand on the brake pedal, when what really may be needed is a nudging of the gas pedal and a quick turn of the wheel. The complete list of errors is too long to include here.

It's an education problem. It's an attitude problem. Perhaps, it was best put by one of the participants at the safety seminar, "You don't have a natural right to take 400 horses out on the road. You have to earn it, and you have to be trained for it. You have to be equipped and prepared for it. Then you'd have a different sociological outlook on the license and the removal of it. Maybe there'd be fewer of them."

'Wallpaper not for me'

At the risk of sounding as though I'm against the Equal Rights Amendment, I must state that I think there are certain things, aside from the obvious ones, that women were not designed to do.

I have wallpapering in mind, and bathrooms, especially. Even more especially if you have never wallpapered anything before.

Since last weekend I can understand how come Hitler went nuts and I don't think that old time slapstick comedy routines about wallpapering are funny any more.

Old time slapstick on the subject has Laurel and Hardy papering over windows, doors and transoms, and the Marx Brothers pasting everybody in sight, and Abbott and Costello falling off ladders and getting rolled up in the paper.

But they all had nice big walls and great big rooms to cut their capers and spill their paste buckets in, and if you think I have just finished papering my little 5x7 bathroom you're right. Almost. There is still one post-card sized spot behind the door that isn't done and probably never will be.

Being a beginner I got lots of advice from veterans and the only thing they agreed on was leaving any patchwork for behind the door where nobody will notice.

The "behind the door" theory may work in every other room in the house, but not in the bathroom where well-brought up people close the door while using the facilities. Behind the door when the door is closed is the most likely spot people will notice as they sit in there and meditate upon the beautiful wallpaper I have just installed. And they will surely wonder why all the tan tweed flowers are minus one petal and another one is so sadly disjointed in that strip that was behind the door until they closed it.

Now that I, too, am a veteran it is my right and duty to give advice and my first words of wisdom are, "Hire a paperhanger."

If, however, you are determined to be a do-it-yourselfer, start anywhere but in the bathroom. Learn to handle a 97-inch strip of sticky paper in a room where there's space for a second person to help you without falling into the bathtub. Learn to match a mod flower pattern on a wall where you do not have to cut around a light fixture, a medicine cabinet, the soap dish holder and three water pipes.

Of course, you will use the new kind of paste that "absolutely does not lump," and therefore you should allow for an extra half hour spent with your hand in the paste bucket, working out the lumps.

In retrospect, I think that the only thing that went right was the cat. He disappeared, apparently figuring that it's time to leave home when the lady of the house stands for half an hour with her hand in a bucket.

He's back now and spends a great deal of time facing the wall in the bathroom mowing something that sounds more like, "Wow," than "Meow."

I think it's the place behind the door that's getting to him.

School district backed

I would like to say a word in defense of School Dist. 21. I moved to Buffalo Grove from Maine Township Dist. 63, which is a very progressive school district. I was concerned about my children's education in the new school. At first I was disappointed that they were not moving at their own rate, as Dist. 63 schools did. But in the past two years our school has come a long way toward helping the individual child achieve his personal best. The children now do move at their own rate.

At the recent parent-teacher conferences I was made aware of the material used in the sixth grade reading class. It was very difficult material, and had I been asked to give definitions for some of the words contained in it, words that my sixth grader knows, I would have been hard pressed to do so, as I was an A/B student and had once planned to teach math and English.

My fourth grade daughter's Iowa tests were in the 80 and 90 percentile, with her reading in the 70 percentile. This, granted, is not her best. But as Dr. Gill said, part of these grades are lack of motivation, and I feel that we parents are just as responsible for this as the school district. We cannot blame our schools for everything. Hopefully, with some help from home, the reading grade will improve next year when she takes the test.

My sixth grade son's grades were all in the 90th percentile. If our school was not doing something right, there would be no students in the 90th percentile. Credit must be given to Dist. 21 for continuing to improve our children's education. Those of us who have children in the lower grades, or not yet in school, can look forward to having some of the best educated children in the country.

They want sidewalks

You recently published an article about a Hawthorne Lane resident who was injured because she was "walking in the street." No charges were placed against the driver who struck the pedestrian.

You failed to mention that Hawthorne Lane is a street without sidewalks. The elderly, the infirm, children walking to and from school, mothers with baby strollers and other pedestrians must either walk in the street, shuffle through the gravel and wade through puddles or walk on lawns.

It seems to me that the city of Des Plaines should correct the sidewalk situation before other more serious injuries occur, though assessments would not win favor with local residents.

Cronin to work against segregation

From Herald wire services

New Illinois Schools Supt. Joseph M. Cronin will work against racial segregation in schools and for women's rights and collective bargaining for teachers.

In several interviews about the job, Cronin, 39, who will assume the state post in January, said he will work to eliminate racial segregation in Illinois, just as he has worked in Massachusetts, where he is state education secretary.

"I favor equal opportunity for students of all races," Cronin said. "I have worked hard in Massachusetts to overcome segregation in five of our cities and will work as hard in Illinois."

CRONIN SAID HE helped develop the controversial school busing plan that has been in operation in Boston. He said that plan was imposed on the Boston schools when a federal court found an earlier desegregation plan to be inadequate.

Cronin also told reporters that as the father of five daughters (he has a total of seven children), he expects to be a strong advocate of women's rights. "Having that many daughters makes me very interested in opportunities for women in education," he said. "It is a priority I've stressed in Massachusetts, especially the opening of all kinds of educational facilities such as vocational, medical and business. I expect to do the same thing in Illinois."

Cronin also said he favors collective bargaining for teachers but is opposed to giving teachers the right to strike.

THE NEW superintendent was named Saturday by the Illinois Board of Education and will take over Jan. 13 from Illinois Schools Supt. Michael Bakalis, the state's last elected superintendent. He said he will support all the state board's policies, even if he does not agree with them.

"I will be a visible education advocate but on matters of policy and programs, the board and superintendent will speak with one voice," Cronin said. "I might become an advocate of policies with which I disagree and if the disagreement becomes serious enough, the superintendent would resign."

Cronin also said, "I see the state school superintendent in a major leadership role. The superintendent is first a major source on policy and advice to the board and then he should serve as their agent in carrying out decisions. It is a very vigorous role."

CRONIN IS A native of Boston and has worked in California and Maryland as well as Massachusetts. He has degrees from Harvard and Stanford universities.

Cronin said he was not disturbed by the fact that Bakalis, a Democrat, who was one of three finalists for the state superintendent's job, withdrew from consideration after saying the state board seemed to want a "manager" rather than an educational leader.

"The board of education has not ruled out anything as far as leadership is concerned," Cronin said, "except they appear to take a dim view of partisan political activity. The intent of the legislature was to create a nonpartisan leadership position, one that could work with both bodies (of the legislature) and all groups in the state. I'm very comfortable with that definition."

Politics

Inflation main concern, Percy survey shows

A post-election day survey conducted by U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., showed that inflation was the major concern of 54 per cent of Illinois voters.

Ranking second as the leading concern was "honesty and integrity in government" (23 per cent), followed by unemployment (18 per cent) and crime and public safety (4 per cent), Percy said.

"Poor economic conditions, combined with recent political events, have eroded the public's faith in government officials," Percy said. Of 1,051 voters questioned the day following the election, 60 per cent were critical of all public officials.

Among them, inflation and Watergate each were cited by 30 per cent of the respondents as the chief reason for their attitude toward elected officials. Another 22 per cent cited "cynicism," and 2 per cent named crime as the reason. Another 13 per cent listed other causes.

The poll also showed that more voters consider themselves members of neither political party than either of the two major parties. Forty-one per cent said they favored no party, 36 per cent identified themselves as Republicans and 23 per cent as Democrats.

Of the responses collected, 622 came from passengers on Chicago and North Western Ry. and CTA trains. Questionnaires returned from Springfield total 183. There also were 125 responses from Peoria and 111 from Rockford.

Crane names assistant

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, has announced the appointment of Richard S. Williamson, formerly of Winnetka, as his Washington administrative assistant.

Edward D. Murnane, present administrative assistant, will return to the district to take responsibility for operation of Crane's congressional offices in Chicago and Arlington Heights.

Williamson, formerly an intern in the congressman's office, joined his staff following graduation from the University of Virginia Law School in June.

"Rich Williamson's legal background will be a valuable addition to the legislative functions of the Washington office while Ed Murnane's background in the 12th District should enhance the services which I am able to provide my constituents," Crane said.

Murnane lived in Arlington Heights and Palatine before joining Crane's staff as press assistant in 1971. He was a vice president of the Palatine Jaycees and a charter member of the board of directors of the Twinbrook YMCA in Schaumburg.

Convention crowd slips

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Coordinators for the Democratic Party's miniconvention Dec. 6-8 say attendance may be smaller than anticipated.

Andrew Shea, Democratic midterm convention coordinator, said "I first predicted we would have about 7,000 persons, but now it looks like we'll come closer to about 5,000."

Shea retained his optimism, however. "With the November elections just behind us and states just now getting their delegates chosen, it will start picking up now," he said.

"Why, just this week we found out that Walter Cronkite is coming. Things will pick up in the next few days."

Maurice Blum, spokesman for the Plaza Inn, said it has been "very disappointing. I just hope like hell they can do what they say and fill the rooms we've been holding."

Police officials said they have decided to reduce the convention security force because of smaller crowd estimates and funding problems on paying overtime for police.

Neither the city nor the Democrats have agreed to pay protection costs.

Volunteers sought for LWV court-watching project

Volunteers are needed for the League of Women Voters' court-watching project in Cook County.

The project is being conducted under an Illinois Law Enforcement Commission grant to discover why so many citizens are dissatisfied with the criminal justice system.

Volunteer court observers will be trained by lawyers to observe misdemeanor courts and collect data for the study. Suburban courts selected for the projects are in Niles, Oak Park and Midlothian. Volunteers would spend two days a month observing the court nearest them for five months.

The study's directors are looking for people from every walk of life, including retired persons and college students.

As a result of a court-watching project in Peoria, court calendars have been arranged so police, witnesses, lawyers and defendants spend less time waiting for their calls.

Those interested in volunteering can call Nancy Adler, 635-1374.

Area man has chance for $300,000

The lowest prize package yet offered in the Illinois Lottery will be up for grabs Wednesday at the weekly Bonanza drawing in Bloomington.

A Des Plaines man, Robert A. Bolln, 1810 Pratt Ave., is the only person from the Northwest suburbs with a chance at the $300,000 top prize. Fifteen other persons will vie for the jackpot and a consolation prize of $50,000.

The drawing, held a day early because Thursday is Thanksgiving, marks the first time since the lottery began that no $10,000 prizes will be awarded. In the mathematical system used to determine the prize structure, it takes at least 20 qualifiers before any $10,000 prizes are given.

Draft resister to speak at Harper

A Chicago area draft resister who spent two years in Canada after refusing induction to protest the Vietnam War will speak at Harper College Wednesday.

Steve Grossman, who has lived in Toronto and worked on "Amex" the newspaper for American draft resisters, will discuss President Ford's Amnesty program.

Grossman will speak at 1 p.m. in Room E-107 at the college. His visit is being sponsored by the college veteran's club.

The tears flowed Sunday night at Buffalo Grove High School when Penny Fukuya and Donna Neukuckatz were crowned Paddock Junior Misses for 1974-75.

But they were tears of happiness shed by the winners. Both girls walked away with $500 scholarships and opportunities to compete in the state pageant next month.

Miss Neukuckatz received an additional $100 for scoring highest in scholastic achievement.

Miss Fukuya, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matsy Fukuya, 515 Dara James Rd., Des Plaines, and a senior at Forest View High School, performed a solo on the flute for her talent presentation.

MISS NEUKUCKATZ, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neukuckatz, 7 Lynnbrook Ln., Prospect Heights, and a senior at Wheeling High School, staged a song-and-dance routine to "Much More" from the musical "Fantastics."

Runnersup were Mary Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jenkins, 607 S. Walnut St., Arlington Heights, and Elizabeth Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Walters, 963 Garden Ln., Wheeling. Both girls received $250 scholarships. Mary is a senior at Rolling Meadows High School and Elizabeth attends Wheeling High School.

For her piano and vocal medley "I Believe In Music," Miss Jenkins placed first in the performing arts and received an additional monetary award of $100.

THE AWARDS were presented by Robert Y. Paddock, executive vice president of Paddock Publications Inc., which annually sponsors the local pageant.

He was assisted by Anne Chalkis, chairman and director of the pageant, and Ingrid Stumpfhauser, one of last year's Junior Misses who emceed the pageant with Tom Stutzman, a senior at Rolling Meadows High School.

The 24 finalists who performed Sunday were chosen through personal interviews from 107 contestants who entered the pageant earlier this fall.

Five past local Junior Misses have gone on to capture the state title.

Would you believe Mexico under $10 a day

MEXICAN HIDEAWAY where American tourists can stretch their dollars. This hotel in Oaxtepec, a newly popular spa that was once a winter residence of the Emperor Montezuma, 56 miles south of Mexico City, is one of many "off-the-beaten-track" places where accommodations are unbelievably low-priced.

Pools, courts, golf courses

Palm Springs all ablossom with delights

by MURRAY J. BROWN
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — The desert blooms in southern California year round these days.

It blooms not only with dates and figs and other exotic fruits and flora but also with swimming pools, tennis courts, golf courses, hotels, housing — and tourists.

Take this desert resort about 100 miles southeast of Los Angeles, for instance. Its natural hot mineral springs were a mecca for ailing Indians for centuries but it was hardly more than a cluster of adobe huts when first discovered in the 1800s by movie stars seeking to escape for a while from the glitter and glamour of Hollywood.

TODAY, PALM SPRINGS can boast of 5,000 swimming pools, more than 200 tennis courts, 34 golf courses, about 200 hotels, a population of 25,000 and 1.5 million visitors annually. And air conditioning has helped make it a year-round vacation site.

It still is a popular retreat for celebrities from the world of entertainment. Bob Hope has a home here. So do Frank Sinatra, Debbie Reynolds and Doris Day.

For despite its booming popularity as a tourist destination, Palm Springs has not gone too far from its roots. There still are no high-rise hotels blotting out the desert sun or the view of the nearby mountains.

Neon signs are prohibited, and so are blinking, flashing and moving signs. There are no shoddy souvenir shops and after-dark entertainment is low-key.

PALM SPRINGS offers a wide variety of accommodations, from budget-priced small hotels to high-rate resort complexes of up to 500 rooms. Most of the bigger ones have swimming pools, saunas and therapeutic baths in addition to a wide range of recreational and other facilities.

Long popular is the Palm Springs Spa, built over the site of the Indian hot springs which gave this oasis in the Coachella Valley its name. The springs and land still are owned by the Agua Caliente Hot Water Indians who leased them to the Spa for 99 years.

In fact, every other square mile of land in the desert community is owned by the Indians.

DURING MY VISIT, I received a preview inspection of the newly renovated Canyon Hotel Racquet and Golf Resort—opened several weeks later — operated by Americana Hotels for the new Japanese owners. I also was given a fill-in by Tom Voss of the Convention and Visitors Bureau on the Smoke Tree Hilton and Tennis Club and other future construction.

I drove down from Los Angeles via the San Bernardino Freeway (Interstate 10) and California 111. The trip took about two hours; the return trip was more than three hours because of heavy weekend traffic.

Palm Springs also can be reached by air. It is 4½ hours from Chicago.

(United Press International)

Airlines urge: send packages to avoid having them opened

With the holiday season approaching, airlines are urging travelers to send gift-wrapped packages instead of carrying them on board.

Since gift-wrapped packages carried on board will be inspected, delays can be avoided by:

- Packing wrapped packages in checked luggage instead of carrying them aboard.
- Considering using the small package counter service provided by most airlines. Packages weighing up to 50 pounds may be brought to the ticket counter 45 minutes before departure. They can be picked up 30 minutes after arrival. Larger packages may be sent by air freight.

- Checking in early. Plan to be at the airport at least 45 minutes before flight time to allow for check-in and security procedures.
- Using identification tags on luggage, both inside and out.
- Tearing off all old destination tags.

Vacation in Mexico for less than $10 a day?

It can be done, according to the Mexican National Tourist Office, by staying in little-known but delightful spots with clean, unbelievably low-priced accommodations ranging as low as $1.60 a day for a double room with bath, or $3 with three meals.

Tourists can reach these "off-the-beaten-track" places by car or via Mexico's excellent intercity bus system (at about one cent a mile first class). Most of the bargain spots are not scheduled airline or railroad stops.

Recently the Mexican Government Tourist Council did a rundown on low-priced accommodations in the states of Mexico (west and north of Mexico City) and of Morelos and Guerrero to the south. This area includes Mexico's most famous — and potentially most expensive — tourist route. Following are their recommended bargains:

State of Mexico

Valle de Bravo — A small, former mining town on Lake Avandero, 90 miles west of Mexico City, this area has a woodland setting, golf course, fine black bass fishing and all water sports. There are three American plan hotels, one with a bar, another with a swimming pool. Costs range from $12.50 to $18.50 for a double. There are two European Plan hotels, one with a restaurant, another with a swimming pool, for $4.85 to $6.15, double.

Toluca — The state capital, Toluca is unusually clean and well laid out, 40 miles west of Mexico City. Surrounded by craft villages, it is famous for its huge Friday Indian market. It has nine European Plan hotels and motels range in size from nine to 87 rooms, in facilities from room-with-bath only to restaurant, bar, elevator, room telephones and heating equipment for the odd cool night, and priced from $2 to $6.15, double.

San Juan Teotihuacan — Adjacent to the magnificent Pyramids of Teotihuacan, this resort is 36 miles northeast of Mexico City. A seven-room American Plan inn with garden, enclosed parking, and electric heaters at $17.60 double is in town. (This spot could be used as a base to explore Mexico City, missing only lunch but saving considerably on other meals and equivalent lodging expenses in the capital. The same applies to Toluca.)

Tenancingo — Twenty-seven miles south of Toluca, Tenancingo is an important reborn weaving center, also noted for tropical hardwood and palm-wood furniture. There are two European Plan hotels of seven and 19 rooms charging $2.20 and $1.60 double, respectively.

Ixtapan de la Sal — This is one of Mexico's most famous mineral water spas, 120 miles southwest of Mexico City. The two major resort hotels here are well over the Tourist Council survey limit, but there also are seven American Plan hotels from five to 36 rooms with rates from $8 to $14.50, double, and two European Plan establishments of four and nine rooms, respectively, at $8 and $5.30, double.

JAMAICA

This winter leave your cares at home and come to Jamaica Trade your snow shovels for a palm-fringed white sand beach. This isle in the Caribbean has something for everybody. 18 hole championship golf courses deep sea fishing or just lazing in the sun. By night Jamaica comes alive to the beat of Calypso music and before you know it, you'll be trying the Limbo.

I just returned from 6 days in Ocho Rios and Montego Bay and will be happy to answer your questions and help you with your plans.

Palatine woman contest winner

The October prize in the Jamaican contest sponsored by The Herald has been won by Maybelle Kincaid of Palatine.

She has received a set of pewter coasters made in Jamaica.

This winner and all other entrants are eligible for the grand prize, a one-week stay for two at the Montego Beach Hotel in Jamaica. This trip will be awarded next year.

Coupons for the Jamaica contest, cosponsored by the Jamaica Tourist Board and Air Jamaica, are published the last Tuesday of every month in The Herald travel pages.

State of Morelos

Cuautla — A semi-tropical, thermal spring resort as popular with the Mexicans today as it was with the Aztecs and the Conquistadores, Cuautla is 68 miles southeast of Mexico City, 30 miles east of Cuernavaca. It has 11 European Plan hotels of nine to 27 rooms for $3.10 to $6.40, double. Several have swimming pools, trailer facilities, restaurants and bars. Also, there are five American Plan hotels with 13 to 110 rooms, ranging from $8.30 to $13.20, double, with a wide range of facilities.

Oaxtepec — A newly popular spa that once was a winter residence of the Emperor Montezuma, this town is 56 miles south of Mexico City. The Mexican Institute of Social Security has built a large vacation complex here. For non-Mexicans, there is a 12-room, American Plan hotel, with restaurant, bar, swimming pool, golfing privileges and parking facilities at about $13.50 double.

Tesquesquiengo — On a small natural lake about 70 miles south of Mexico City, this spot is increasingly popular with water sport fans. Of the resort's three hotels, the smallest (32 rooms) costs about $13.50 American Plan, double, and another offers a choice of European or American Plan, with the minimum-maximum range for each straddling the Tourist Council survey limits: $4.40 to $11 European Plan and $17.60 to $26.40 American Plan. The smaller hotel has a restaurant and bar, the latter a restaurant, swimming pool, room telephones and air conditioning.

Tehuixtla — Tehuixtla is a spa on the bank of Amacuzac River, 35 miles from Cuernavaca. It has a 32-room, American Plan hotel with restaurant, bar, swimming pool and parking facilities. Rates: $12.35 double.

State of Guerrero

Iquala — Famed for its goldsmiths' work in filigree and its Friday market (pottery and basketry), this is 23 miles south of Taxco and has seven European Plan Hotels with rates from $2 to $6.25 double. One features a restaurant and bar.

Chilpancingo — The state capital and 62 miles south of Iquala, Chilpancingo has four European Plan hotels from $3 to $5, double. One hotel has a restaurant and another a restaurant, bar and swimming pool.

Zihuatanejo — This town is on the Pacific 149 miles north of Acapulco by paved road. It is destined to be the new "in" resort. It's almost enclosed bay offers fine swimming, skin diving and fishing. Three European Plan hotels (four to six rooms each) charge $4 to $5, double. Four American Plan hotels charge $10 to $20, double. Two American/European Plan hotels charge less than the Tourist Council survey maximums either way.

You can ski where it all started

Skiing began in Norway several thousand years ago. The oldest known proof is the famous rock carving depicting a skier, made at Røed in Nordland more than 4,000 years ago.

One of the most famous Norwegian skiers immigrated to the U.S. and as "Snowshoe Thompson" made skiing history by carrying the mail on skis across the Sierra Nevada mountains every winter from 1886 until the first railroad was opened in 1893.

Four one-week ski excursions featuring the cross-country trails and downhill slopes of Norway are being offered by Scandinavian Airlines for the winter months of January, February and March for as little as $99 per person, plus air fare. Tour prices, based on double occupancy, include transfers, accommodations, luggage handling, taxes and service charges en route.

Norway is touring other great ski holidays too, including several ski touring trips.

SKI TOURING, of course, is the way most Norwegians ski. Pass any hotel right after breakfast and you'll see skis fastened outside.

Touring is such a popular sport in Norway that many towns and villages provide flood-lit trails for evening trips.

Incidentally, Norwegians differentiate between ski touring, which they call "skitur," and cross-country skiing ("langrenn"). They think of the latter as competitive sport.

Ski touring is a family affair in Norway. You realize this when you see all the gadgetry available for children — even for tiny tots. Norwegian youngsters are "born with skis on." Mom and Dad put their toddlers on skis as soon as they can walk. And even before that, Dad will take the little one along when he skis — with the child securely placed in a plastic sled.

PEOPLE OF ALL AGES can enjoy ski touring. Norway has plenty of easy skiing terrain for beginners, and more advanced skiers have no problem finding challenging areas.

The equipment you need for ski touring is completely different from what you use for alpine skiing. The difference in weight alone is about 14 pounds in favor of ski-touring gear. It's also inexpensive and lasts for years.

In Norway all major ski centers provide marked trails for ski touring. They're usually packed regularly by special machines and marked with colored ribbons to designate the different trails. This network of trails provides a great variety of skiing terrain. You can actually spend days at the same resort without once having to retrace your own steps.

If you want to do your Norway ski touring at a resort offering a big choice of hotels and lots of apres-ski activities, consider Gjølo on the Bergen railroad or Lillehammer (including Nordseter) on the Dovre railroad.

OTHER RECOMMENDED centers are Gål and Ustaoset on the Bergen railroad, and Oslo, the only capital city in Europe which also is a winter sports center.

However, since ski touring can be fun without a lot of frills — and even without ski lifts — you can find rest and relaxation at practically any hotel or ski lodge which has snow outside its door.

Another popular snow sport in Norway is ski touring with a dogsled team. You ski from one mountain lodge to another — helped along by specially trained dogsled teams. Each team includes five huskies trained to pull a sled with about 300 pounds of luggage.

You don't have to be an expert skier to take this dogsled route — but a little experience as well as being in good physical shape can help.

Northwest suburban travel agents have brochures and information on ski trips to Norway. They also can tell you about "A Day on the Norwegians," which is a free program from now until April — and an "Oslo Weekend" at a greatly reduced price.

SKI TOURING is a family affair in Norway where the children are practically "born with skis on." Most toddlers are put on skis as soon as they can walk. Scandinavian Airlines is offering special one-week ski excursions to the land where skiing began. Northwest suburban travel agents have the details.

Tea can help you conquer 'Montezuma's revenge'

Guide lines

We are taking our first trip to Mexico in February and we're already worried about "Montezuma's Revenge." Can you suggest a list of medicines to take along?

Mrs. W.A., Des Plaines

Ask your doctor for a prescription for Lomotil. If you forget, however, you can buy the medication across the counter in any Mexican "farmacia." A local Mexican cure for "tourist trot" is a cup of Manzanilla tea. The natives swear by it, and since we've had our own experience with it — we do, too!

When we were in Jamaica last year we drank a marvelous liqueur blended of Blue Mountain coffee and something else. It was delicious but now I can't remember the name of it.

Mrs. T.R., Buffalo Grove
That's Tia Maria and the other ingredient is aged cognac. Another Jamaican liqueur is Pimento, which is great for a ladies' lunch. It's much too sweet for some people's taste, however.

When is the rainy season in Los Angeles? Do you think it's necessary to rent a car for sightseeing?

R.A., Schaumburg

The rainy season usually begins in January and lasts until sometime in May. Yes, you certainly do need a car — especially if you have an ambitious sightseeing schedule that includes more than just a trip down to Disneyland.

We'll be spending the holidays with relatives in Denmark and hope to take a few extra weeks to explore parts of Europe by car. Are there car ferries between Denmark and countries around it?

Mrs. P.T., Mount Prospect

Write for the "Car Ferries" folder from the Danish National Tourist Office, 505 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Students to provideturkeys for needy

High School Dist. 214

Nearly 1,000 families will have a more bountiful Thanksgiving because of the efforts of the Service Over Self Club at John Hersey High School, Arlington Heights.

The 150 members of the service club have been collecting canned goods and cash to put Thanksgiving dinner on the tables of needy persons.

To raise money to buy turkeys for the dinners, the club will offer students a chance to "dunk" a school official today from 2 to 4 p.m. A dunking machine has been set up and the school youth officer has volunteered to be dunked.

Dinners will be distributed to the Sisters for the Poor home for the elderly in Palatine, to the American Indian Center in Chicago and local families.

Community residents who would like to donate canned goods to the drive can contact teacher Wilfred Kozlowski, 259-8500. Students will pick up donations at donors' homes.

Students at Buffalo Grove High School will be collecting canned food through Wednesday to be donated to the American Indian Center in Chicago for Thanksgiving distribution.

The drive is sponsored by the school's Key Club and student council. Canned food can be brought to an area of the school near the theater. Students also will solicit donations door to door.

The string section of the Elk Grove High School Orchestra will present a fall concert Tuesday at the school, Elk Grove Boulevard and Arlington Heights Road.

The 8 p.m. concert will feature selected music written for string instruments.

The Elk Grove High School Art Dept. has an art exhibit on display at the Elk Grove Village Hall, 901 Wellington Ave., through Nov. 30.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15

The jazz band, mixed chorus and girls' chorus at Winston Park Junior High School, will give a jazz-pops concert at 7:30 p.m. today in the gymnasium of the school, 900 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

Selections will include works by the Beatles; Neil Diamond; Jim Croce; Blood, Sweat and Tears, and the Fifth Dimension. Directors are George Southgate, Fyrene Wiens and Julie Sandlin.

The concert will also be given for fourth, fifth and sixth graders at Winston Churchill, Jane Addams and Lake Louise schools.

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21

Winners of the turkey drawing contests were announced at Poe School, 2800 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights. The winning entries are on display in the school library.

First grade winners: Lorne Hartmann, James Ellis, Colleen O'Connor, Robin Ptansk, Brian Bierlein, Meg Jangk, Dwight Lin, Mike Lofy and Patrick Coderro.

Second grade: Laura Ozmet, Eric Yore, Brenda Doyle.

Schools

Jennifer Novak, Susan Kindwall, Tod Glavan, Korrin Falbacher and Nancy Kuznicki.

Third grade: Holly Schoeny, Bill Newman, Matt Mirabelli, Susan Wiesby, Carl Neubaum, Ellen Warshaw, Robert Ellis and Brian Kay.

Fourth grade: Michelle Rose, Todd Johnson, Tom Loftus, John Graham, Marty Hartmann, Bernice Potempa and Deb Coffey.

Fifth grade: Missy Hardin, Susan Beard, Caroline Ellis, Chris Peterson, Al Konopka, Darren Prechodko, Kristi Bond and Debbie Stewart.

High School Dist. 211

Five members of Conant High School's newly formed forensics team won awards recently in competition with 30 other schools at Buffalo Grove High School.

The novice team won a second place and three third place ribbons. Tom Zack of Hoffman Estates earned a second place in original comedy. Don Kahle, also of Hoffman Estates, placed third in prose reading. Two Schaumburg residents, Mike Harper and Tim Johnson, received a third place for their humorous duet acting. A third place in humorous interpretation went to Ken Kulik of Roselle.

The team is coached by English teacher Pat Elmen. On Dec. 7 the Conant team will compete in a speech tournament at Waukegan High School.

Conant High School senior Phyllis Alexander and English teacher Frank Sesko participated on the radio program "Talking About Learning," on WIND radio Monday.

The two discussed the student press and the purpose and influence of the student press in high schools. Miss Alexander, Hoffman Estates, is editor-in-chief of Conant's student newspaper "The Crier." Sesko is the paper's faculty adviser.

Sacred Heart of Mary High School

The Forensics League at Sacred Heart of Mary High School will compete Dec. 7 in nine categories at a Waukegan High School meet.

The team includes Bridget Boshart, Marianne Byerwalter, Pat Crutcher, Sue Faerber, Maura Giles, Nancy Kramer, Mary Klein, Marianne Lindsey and Mary Beth McCabe, all of Arlington Heights; Nancy Gebbie, Elk Grove Village; Sue Langatz, Rolling Meadows, and Terry Zwolski, Mount Prospect.

Seventh- and eighth-grade students from Catholic and public junior high schools are invited to an open house at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, 2800 Central Rd., Rollin Meadows, Dec. 8, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Information about the Sacred Heart philosophy, programs, scheduling and financing will be presented by administrators in the auditorium.

Visitors will be given the opportunity to ask questions and a tour of the building will be given by student volunteers. Teachers will be available in their classrooms to provide additional information.

Registration and placement tests for future freshmen will be held Jan. 11 at 8:30 a.m.

A Dominick's Day will be held to benefit Sacred Heart of Mary High School Dec. 2. Coupons to be used at the food store will be sent to students' homes in advance. The coupons should be turned in at the time of purchase Dec. 2. A percentage of coupon purchases will be donated to the Rolling Meadows school.

Sacred Heart of Mary High School students will see "Madame Butterfly" at the Lyric Opera House Dec. 2.

The trip is sponsored yearly by choral director John Lundin. Students are prepared for the opera in advance by listening to a record of the performance and reading a translation of the script.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25

"Everyone is Beautiful — The Special Child," will be the topic at today's meeting of the South Junior High School PTA, 301 W. South St. in Arlington Heights.

The public may attend the 8 p.m. meeting, conducted by Larry Chase, administrative assistant for staff development in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21. Also speaking will be Ronald Duckers, psychologist with experience in the treatment of the learning disabled child.

Preceding the meeting will be a potluck supper at 7 p.m. in the girls' gym.

Three parent discussion groups geared to the junior high school age level will be offered to Thomas Junior High School parents at 8 p.m. today at the school, 303 E. Thomas, Arlington Heights.

Sponsored by the Thomas PTA, the program's discussion leaders will be members of the Dist. 25 administrative staff, Thomas faculty and parents.

Topics will include: "The Gifted, the Average and the Learning Disabled Child," "The Child in Social and Family Relationships," and "Social Pressures at the Junior High School."

St. Viator High School

A college-career information evening will be held at 7 p.m. today at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights for students attending St. Viator or Sacred Heart of Mary high schools.

Sophomores and juniors and their parents may attend the program, which is being sponsored by the guidance staffs at both Catholic high schools. The evening will include small-group discussions led by representatives from more than 100 colleges and universities on subjects such as financial aid, course offerings, career plans and campus atmosphere. Students will be given a list of the colleges in advance.

The trial of Galileo has been transformed into a contemporary television news documentary by students at St. Viator High School.

Several students in the school's science program produced, wrote, directed and edited the 30-minute film, which includes humorous commercials. The acting was performed by students and teachers. Primary directors of the project were seniors Jim Gawne of Prospect Heights, John Turek of Arlington Heights and Rich Zak of Elk Grove Village.

The students are studying the Renaissance and Reformation periods in their science, English, social studies and religion classes. The studies include the work of scientists between 1450 and 1750 and how their religious beliefs affected their scientific pursuits.

The Rev. John Milton, science teacher, said he plans to show the film during Dec. 1 open house for prospective freshmen and their parents.

St. Viator High School will have an open house for prospective students and their parents from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 1. Eighth-grade boys from public or parochial elementary schools can visit the school, Oakton and Dryden, Arlington Heights.

The school's programs, curriculum and activities will be explained during an orientation session in the auditorium. A tour of the building will follow, and faculty and coaches will be available to answer questions.

St. Viator, a Catholic high school for boys, serves 1,100 students living in 23 communities throughout the Northwest suburbs. There are four educational programs, and students may enroll in science, social studies, humanities or a traditional program. While all pupils study the same basic subjects, they approach subject matter with their special interest area as the focal point.

St. Viator pupils living more than 1½ miles from school and within the area served by High School Dist. 214 may make arrangements for free bus service to school. Arrangements for transportation also may be made by students living within the area served by High School Dist. 211, which buses St. Viator pupils from regular stops on the district's bus routes to central dropoff points at the district's high schools. Buses rented by St. Viator take over for the remainder of the trip.

School lunch menus

The following lunches will be served Wednesday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice):

Dist. 214: Main dish (one choice): Stuffed meat loaf, submarine sandwich, Wiener in a bun. Vegetable (one choice): Whipped potatoes, buttered corn. Salad (one choice): Fruit juice, tossed salad, cole slaw, molded gelatin salads. Muffin, butter and milk. ## Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Trumping late makes it ruff

The famous playwright and wit George Kaufman once said that there were two ways to tell when a certain player held a good hand. First, his face would light up; then he'd misplay it.

South's face lit up like a Christmas tree and it didn't take him 10 seconds to boom out his seven-spade bid.

It took him even less time to misplay it and go one down. At tricks two and three he cashed the ace and king of hearts. Then he ruffed a heart; returned to his hand with a second club and tried to ruff another heart. Unfortunately for him, that mean old East overruffed and the grand slam had left permanently for never-never land.

How did South misplay the hand? He was right in trying to ruff two hearts; he was wrong in how he went about doing it.

South should cash just one high heart and ruff the second one. Then back to his hand to ruff another. Then he would cash dummy's queen of trumps; get back to his hand by ruffing a club or diamond. Either suit would go through. Then he could draw trumps and claim.

PBS economist sees a brighter day

NEW YORK — Louis Rukeyser, the Public Broadcasting Service's blue-chip economist, is bullish on America. He thinks people should be investing in stocks now.

"I think that the rich people of 1984 are buying stocks in 1974," said Rukeyser, the host of PBS' weekly look at the stock market, "Wall Street Week in Review." "Right now, some of the highest quality stocks are selling on a par with many over-the-counter stocks, and they are a good investment. I'm not saying that they won't be selling low next month, but a decade from now they will be a lot higher."

Each Friday Rukeyser and his guests, who have included the presidents of the New York and American stock exchanges, analyze the market's ups and downs. However, the program, aired live from WMPM in Owing Mills, Md., is not meant to be a buyer's guide to specific stocks.

"I'M NOT A tipster," said Rukeyser. Nevertheless, investors and noninvestors must like the advice they get — WSWR is one of the top shows on PBS and is aired on 225 stations, including Fairbanks, Alaska and Guam.

So far this season, WSWR has discussed former President Nixon's economic policy, the airline industry and inflation. This Friday's show is entitled, "Stocks: Future Growth."

One of the program's key ingredients is the ease with which Rukeyser handles

Television in review

by Frank S. Swertlow

the bulls and the bears on his show. Their complex and sophisticated jargon is often simplified by Rukeyser's wit and pointed questions.

RUKEYSER'S EXPERTISE as an interviewer is aided by 11 years as a newsman and foreign correspondent with the Baltimore Sun. He later became ABC News Paris correspondent and the network's London bureau chief. His assignments included the coverage of the 1967 Middle East War and the opening of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

In 1968, Rukeyser returned to ABC's headquarters in New York to begin five years as TV's first network economics editor. WSWR was started in November 1970 on the eastern educational network and went national in January 1972.

Last year, Rukeyser left ABC to devote all his time to "Wall Street Week" and other ventures. He has just finished a book on the stock market, "How to Make Money in Wall Street" and will appear on an NBC special on the economy on New Year's day.

ALTHOUGH MANY financial experts are predicting a depression that might match the darkest days of the 1930s, Rukeyser is more optimistic about the future.

"I don't think there will be a '30s depression," he said. "We've been in a recession for some months, and it will depend before it improves. But I think we have certain safeguards that are built into the system that would prevent it."

"But by the end of next year, the biggest problem facing the country will be inflation, and I think that will be around for the entire decade. I really don't think that any politician of either party can come to grips with this problem. Unemployment will continue and so will high prices, and politicians will just look for quick solutions, which can only make the situation worse."

Pamela is a nursing major at Tulsa University since graduating in '72 from Prospect High School.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cincinelli

Cathleen Bates was married in her mother's Chantilly lace gown when she became the bride Nov. 2 of James Cincinelli. The couple repeated their vows by candlelight in Trinity United Methodist Church, Mount Prospect. The 4:30 service was double ring.

The long-sleeved gown with illusion neckline featured long sleeves and a hooped skirt. A Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls held her chapel veil, and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Bates, 614 Victoria Ln., Arlington Heights, Cathleen chose her sister, Patricia, as maid of honor. The groom's sister, Pamela, Niles; the bride's cousin, Beth Anderson, Palatine; and Sue Stanley, Schaumburg, and Lola Mattson, Buffalo Grove, were bridesmaids.

THE GIRLS WERE in midnight blue velvet halter gowns with matching jackets. Velvet bows held their blusher veils, and they carried white button mums and yellow carnations with baby's breath.

The bride's cousin, Lois Anderson, was flower girl, and her 6-year-old brother, John Bates, was ring bearer. Lois was also in midnight blue, and her flowers were carried in a basket.

The groom, son of Daniel Cincinelli, Niles, was attended by his cousin, Mark Flugar, Palatine, as best man. Ushers were the couple's brothers, Richard Cincinelli and William Bates, and James Cadden, Skokie, and Steve Kokines, Chicago.

A buffet reception for more than 200 guests was held at the Arlington Heights Elks Club after which the couple honeymooned at the Hyatt House and at Lake Lawn, Delavan, Wis. They are now at home in Des Plaines.

The new Mrs. Cincinelli, a '72 graduate of Forest View High School, is employed by Industrial Research, Elk Grove Village. The groom is with Teletype Corp., Skokie. A graduate of Carl Schurz High School and Southern Illinois University, he also served with the Army in Korea.

Denise and John Mueller plan honeymoon in Norway

An extended honeymoon in Norway next May is planned by Denise Karen Higgins and John Maytham Mueller. Married Nov. 2, Denise and John met at Northwest Community Hospital where Denise is a registered nurse in the hospital's Mental Health Unit, and where John worked as an orderly while in law school.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Mueller, 110 S. Vall, Arlington Heights, John is being admitted to the Illinois Bar Association this week. A '66 graduate of Arlington High School and a 1970 graduate of the University of Iowa where he earned a B.A. in chemistry, he graduated this year from Chicago-Kent College of Law and is now with the law offices of Harold W. Klingner, Chicago.

Denise's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Higgins, 2200 Heron Ct., Rolling Meadows. Denise is a '68 graduate of Forest View High School and a '72 graduate of the University of Evansville where she earned a B.S. in nursing.

FOR THE 4 P.M. candlelight, double ring service at the First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, Denise wore a Victorian gown in ivory silk organza and peau d'ange lace. The skirt and chapel train were bordered in wide bands of the lace and lace medallions were scattered on the skirt and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held by a Camelot headpiece of lace, and she carried a nosegay of white roses, baby's breath and greens.

The dinner reception for 167 guests was held at Floyd's in Carpentersville.

Nanette Monhaut of South Bend, Ind., college roommate of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Frances Bearden, Evanston; Dolores Vercelli, Mount Prospect; Kathleen Schroeder, Rolling Meadows; and the groom's sister-in-law, Shirley Mueller, Iowa City, Iowa. Ellen Thompson, niece of the groom from Iowa City, Iowa, was junior bridesmaid.

All wore burgundy wine gowns with ivory lace trim, and carried nosegays of fall colored pompons, and baby's breath with greens. Nanette's flowers also included roses.

Thomas Mueller, Iowa City, was his brother's best man, and ushers were the bride's brothers, Kirk of Des Plaines and

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mueller

Kent of Rolling Meadows, and Russell Uppling, Rolling Meadows, and Robert Gilbert, Des Plaines.

'Back to School' workshop

"Back to School," a workshop for women considering returning to or entering college, will be offered by the Harper College Women's Program Friday, Dec. 6, and again on Monday, Dec. 9, at the college.

Focus of the workshop is on college in general, not only Harper. Participants are urged to raise their concerns and interests as they relate to enrollment in any college or university.

The Dec. 6 workshop (Section 001) will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the college board room. Tuition is $7.50, including luncheon and optional pre-admission counseling in the afternoon.

Harper exhibits winning prints

Winning prints from the first Illinois Print Commission exhibit, entitled "Illinois Printmakers I," are now on public exhibition at Harper College. The show is on the first floor of Building F through Dec. 10.

"Illinois Printmakers I" is made up of 23 prints commissioned by the Illinois Arts Council. The artists were winners of the council's first Illinois Print Commission Program, a juried competition in which the winners received an honorarium to create a new print edition specifically for the program.

The prints are now part of the arts council's touring exhibitions which will circulate throughout the state upon request from art organizations and schools for two years. The prints will then be donated by the IAC to Illinois institutions.

Tarragon Club dance

Tarragon Club will hold a Christmas and anniversary dance Friday, Dec. 6, at Petricca's, 2237 N. Harlem, Chicago. The Uniques will furnish dance music for the dress-up affair.

The group will be holding a regular meeting Tuesday, Dec. 3, at 8 p.m. at the Ground Round Restaurant, Des Plaines. Other December activities include a Christmas carol and sing-a-long Dec. 8; a tree trimming party Dec. 14; a bulletin party at St. Raymond Church, Mount Prospect Dec. 17; and a New Year's Eve party in Des Plaines.

The club, for Catholic singles over 21, invites new members. Those interested may call Linda Mercer, 296-5805.

ALEXIAN BROTHERS

Joseph Charles D'Agostino was a Nov. 8 arrival for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. D'Agostino, 17 Grand Central Ln., Schaumburg. Kathryn, 9, Jeanette, 4, and Renee, 2, are the sisters of the 8 pound 9 ounce baby. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D'Agostino, Schaumburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Svec, Chicago.

Shawn Timothy Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Mueller, 1400 Chalfont Dr., Schaumburg, was born Oct. 26 weighing 7 pounds 6 ounces. Craig Steven, 10, is the brother of the 7 pound 7 ounce baby. The boys' grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rogala, Fort Smith, Ark., and Mrs. Mary Mueller, Chicago.

William Chandler Frye was a 9 pound 2 ounce arrival Nov. 15 for Mr. and Mrs. James L. Frye III, 210 N. Babcock Dr., Palatine. Jimmy, 5, and Todd, 2, are the brothers of William. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Frye, Lakeland, Fla., are the boys' grandparents.

Bonnie Leigh Work is the new Palatine resident at 175 E. Lake Cook Rd. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Work, she was born Nov. 19 weighing 8 pounds 14 ounces. Philip Jr., nearly 2, is Bonnie's brother. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Hoskins, Palatine, and Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Work, Woodland Hills, Calif.

New films series for women

A new series of films for women will be shown Thursdays at 1 p.m. at Oakton Community College, according to Patricia Handzel, coordinator of the college's Women's Resource Outreach Center.

The outreach center program, which operates on a rotating basis among six locations in Niles and Maine Townships, is set up on Thursday afternoons from noon to 4 p.m. in Building 2, Room 223 on the Oakton campus, Oakton and Nagle, Morton Grove.

"Where Mrs. Walley Lives," a story of the conflicts which can arise between generations, will be shown Dec. 5. Two films dealing with loneliness, "Those Who Mourn" and "Each Day That Comes," will be shown Dec. 12. The first presents a young woman struggling with grief at the death of her husband; the latter portrays an unmarried woman, disturbed by thoughts of what her life might have been.

TWO "JUST FOR FUN" films to be offered Dec. 19 are "Television Land" and "Girls in Danger," nostalgic histories of television and the movies.

"The Modern Woman: The Uneasy Life," a documentary which explores the feelings of women about the various roles possible today, will be shown Jan. 9. On Jan. 18, the series will present "The World and Work of Barbara Seaplane," which gives viewers a look at women as artists.

Admission to the films is free. For further information on the films or on the Outreach Center readers may contact Mrs. Handzel, 967-5120.

Methods differ to toast pumpkin, sunflower seeds

Dear Dorothy: Do you have a good recipe for toasting pumpkin and sunflower seeds? I seem to be doing a lousy job — Phyllis Holland

The two methods in my file are different for the two seeds. Here they are: To two cups of pumpkin seeds, add one and one-half tablespoons of melted butter and one and three-fourths teaspoons of salt. Mix well. Spread in a shallow pan and bake in a slow oven (350 degrees) until crisp and brown.

For raw, hulled sunflower seeds, stir one cup of seeds with two teaspoons of salad oil, put on a cookie sheet and put in a 350-degree oven for 15 minutes. Stir every five minutes. When brown, drain on paper towels and sprinkle with salt. You're on your own on these. Vitamins and minerals, yes, but too many calories for me.

Dear Dorothy: This may help the reader make meat loaf without eggs for her daughter who is allergic to them. We had this problem and solved it by mixing all the other ingredients for the meat loaf before adding eggs. Put some of the eggless mixture in a custard cup to bake separately. Cheer up, Reader, your daughter will probably outgrow the egg allergy. — I. Spring

Dear Dorothy: Maybe others will be interested in how I save geraniums for next year. I shake off the dirt and tie the plants with soft rags to hang with the roots up. They hang in the basement where they can't freeze and there isn't too much light. In the spring, they can be put right back into the ground. — Celia Campbell

Dear Dorothy: Did you know that if you beat an egg white to the same texture as the cream you are whipping and combine the two carefully and smoothly, you can put whipped cream on a cake 'way ahead of when you expect to use it — and it will not run? — Josie Feldman

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Padlock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Safety tips for holiday

Thanksgiving will be lots more fun if certain precautions are taken to make sure the house is safe from fire and the food safe from spoiling.

Home safety advice comes from Allstate Insurance Co.:

- Curtains, dish towels, paper and other flammable items should not be near the stove.
- Exhaust hood and ductwork should be free of grease.
- Spark screen on the fireplace should be free of damage and securely in place.
- There should be plenty of large ashtrays available for smokers.
- Metal trays should be kept beneath fondue pots and chafing dishes.
- Air should circulate freely around TV and hi-fi to offset overheating.
- Home wiring must be adequate to carry extra electrical loads.
- Overnight guests should be reminded of "no smoking in bed."
- Hair spray and other flammable sprays should not be used when smoking.
- To be sure the holiday meal is properly cooked and preserved this advice comes from the city sanitarian of Rolling Meadows:
- Fresh poultry, stuffings, etc., should be cooked to heat all parts to at least 165 degrees F. with no interruption of the cooking process. Poultry stuffing should be cooked separately.
- Frozen turkey should thaw in the refrigerator at a temperature below 45 degrees for one to two days depending upon weight.
- Leftovers should be kept hot or cold or thrown out. If any doubt, it's best to throw them in the garbage.

Saxons, Pirates open with wins on league mats

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Schaumburg and Palatine were the first ones out of the starting gate as the 1974-75 Mid-Suburban League wrestling campaign was launched amid a flurry of non-conference combat over the weekend.

The Saxons spoiled the entry of Hoffman Estates to the varsity scene 31-21 on the Hawk mats Friday. The Pirates clipped hosting Forest View Saturday, 39-15.

Hoffman fell behind 24-0 to the defending conference meet champs but rallied through the heavier weights in an effort to make coach Angelo Testone's debut a memorable one. The sophomore-studded Hawk lineup captured five of the final seven bouts after forfeiting at 105 and succumbing to the impressive showings of four Schaumburg vets in the early going.

Mark Zeller at 95 pounds and state finals vet Terry Ruddy at 112 sandwiched pins around Mark Rovnyak's forfeit win and Joe Hanson and Ron Kuchala followed up with 10-0 and 11-3 verdicts respectively at 119 and 126.

Bill Miller, Chad McCreary and Jim Thomas turned things around for the hosts, Miller at 132 and McCreary at 138 pulling out close decisions and Thomas winning by a third-round fall at 145.

Then it was Mark Mandel and Bob Jones countering with verdicts for the Saxons before Walt Porter pinned at 185 and heavyweight Bill Ward claimed a 7-2 win for the Hawks to close things out.

Palatine broke loose from a 6-5 deadlock on vet Paul Bordenkircher's narrow 8-7 triumph at 112 and were never threatened again. The tie had been forged on Pirate Jeff Sheppard's pin at 98 and a lightning fast counter move by John Gross of the Falcons at 105.

For returning sectional qualifier Gross, a pin over Palatine at 0:58 was his second in less than a minute in as many days.

Only other View triumph later on was a shutout posted by Tom Andersen at 145. Palatine's winners included Brian LeGreca at 119, Mike McBride at 132, Bill Zimmerman at 155, Gary Leidolf at 185 and John Petko at heavyweight, the latter three all winning by fall.

Three other matches ended up in draws: Pirate Dave Hanetho and Kevin Smith at 126, Greg Warren of the guests and Terry Sullivan at 138 and Falcon Dave Swanson and Brian DeWyze at 167. For brand new Palatine varsity helmsman Rich Pietrini, it was a perfect start.

LOOKING FOR A WAY OUT of his perplexing situation is Kevin McKenna, Palatine's 6-foot-5 sophomore. Maine East's Mike Tietz (42) and Mark Mahoney seem to have McKenna pretty well bottled up. McKenna was high scorer for the night with 21 points but Maine won, 51-50.

Capt. 'Junie'

President's teammates recall grid days

by ROBERT M. ANDREWS

Silas McGee, retired longshoreman, stretched in the sunshine on a park bench in San Francisco and recalled that Thanksgiving Day in 1930 when his old high school football team, captained by Gerald R. "Junie" Ford Jr., won the Michigan state championship in a blitzard:

"Junie was a sight to behold, a big shock of blond hair, and he hollered at us, 'Come on fellas! It was like a clarion call to battle, just like the cavalry in the movies.'"

Ford played center for South High School in Grand Rapids, Mich., and McGee, the only black on the team, played left end that day the Trojans entertained their archrivals — "a bunch of tough Polish kids" — from across town at Union High.

Both teams were unbeaten and untied after eight games.

"It was freezing cold, with 6 to 8 inches of snow on the deck, up to the gridiron. Jeez, it was cold. The game ended in a scoreless tie," McGee said.

But it was discovered a few days later that Union's fullback had previously signed a contract to play professional baseball. Union had to forfeit the entire season, and Ford's team was declared state champion.

McGee is one of 23 survivors of the 30-man South High team of 44 years ago who plan to gather Thursday for their annual reunion at Thanksgiving Day brunch. It traditionally is held each year in Grand Rapids, but this time they will meet at the White House, where team captain Ford is President of the United States.

"If they don't send me a ticket, I'm gonna grab me an armful of a freight train," McGee said recently. "That's my thing. I used to be a hobo." He said later he was only joking.

"It's too damned cold to be riding a freight in November," he said. Instead, thanks to donations from friends, McGee will fly to Washington "top timber — I'm going first class."

Most members of the "30-30 Club" are flying or driving down from their native Michigan, but some are traveling from as far away as Seattle and Johannesburg, South Africa. All are paying their own way.

"Yeah, you bet I'm going," Edward A. Preston told UPI in Johannesburg, where he manages a New Jersey pipe manufacturer's South African subsidiary. He and his wife, Bonnie, will fly 9,000 miles. Ford H. Gettings, a Grand Rapids real estate executive who was the team's 21-year-old coach in 1930, said Ford "always has given 100 per cent" and the country is lucky to have him in the White House.

"Jerry was a perfectionist on the team," he recalled. "After a game — we didn't have movies to review in those days — he would meet with me and the rest of the team and review the big plays and the mistakes. His memory was flawless. During the years his integrity and honesty have become more pronounced."

Preston, then a quarterback, said Ford was "bold, dedicated and intense" as team captain, but never lost his temper.

President Gerald R. Ford

tered Democrat, but I'll vote for him every time."

Dr. Allan R. Elliott, psychology professor at Clarion State College, Shippenville, Pa., said "there was little question who the leader of that team was — it was Jerry. Although I was quarterback, I consulted Jerry on plays. He was always straightforward, just as he is today. As a psychologist, I see him as one who inspires confidence and mutual respect."

"Jerry was a real good team player," said Leon A. Jostlin of Seattle, a real estate man in Seattle who played right end opposite McGee. "There's nothing he wouldn't do for someone else. He always did more than his share."

"I wish everyone in the country knew him like we do and wouldn't pan him like some people do," said Sherman Coryell of Ada, Mich., a former South High principal.

McGee called Ford an "electrifying guy" who made friends easily.

"I don't think much of his politically expedient voting record on civil rights and labor, then again Harry Truman and LBJ didn't have such good records when they went to the White House."

"He's honest, he always calls 'em as he sees 'em ... Jerry Ford is my boy." (United Press International)

Meadows swims to easy win over Maine North

by MIKE KLEIN
Swimming Editor

Rolling Meadows swept to an easy victory but Forest View and Wheeling weren't nearly as successful in weekend non-league varsity swimming.

The Mustangs of coach Phil Pardon won both relays plus six individual firsts as they squashed Maine North, 111-57. Tom Stahnke and Gary Grunwald each swam three winning events.

In the other meets, Forest View lost at Niles North, 90-71, and Wheeling was no match for powerful Glenbrook South, going under, 116-64. The Wildcats had their only winning effort from diver Matt Barnett.

Back to Meadows which started fast and didn't slow down against Maine North. Grunwald, brothers Ken and Tom Stahnke plus Rick Siebert won the 200 medley relay. Grunwald picked up 50 and 100 freestyle victories. Tom Stahnke ran off with 100 butterfly and 200 individual medley honors.

Dan Nale captured 100 backstroke for the Mustangs and Ken Stahnke led the 100 breaststroke field. Nate, Roy Vollkommer, Steve Zimmerman and Joe Kafka won the 400 freestyle relay. Times were not available for any event.

Glen Adams placed second in both longer freestyles while Nate Swan second in 100 butterfly. Kafka in 100 freestyle and Rick Siebert in 50 freestyle.

Forest View earned victory points in just four of 11 events during the loss to Niles North. Kevin won both longer freestyle events, taking the 200 in 1:55.1 and 500 in 5:18.3.

Mike Zahakaylo, Jim Roha, Tom Cieselski and Mark Buczek got the Falcons a 200 medley relay victory in 1:53.2. Mark Oliver, Buczek, Oke Pearson and Redig won the 400 freestyle relay in 3:43.1.

The Falcons swam second in four events, Roha twice in 50 freestyle, 24.9; and 100 butterfly, 1:08. Jeff Nischneider placed second in diving and Oliver's 57.2 earned second in 100 freestyle.

In sophomore competition, Rolling Meadows beat Maine North, 118-29; Wheeling took Glenbrook South, 85-81; and Niles North stopped the Falcons, 65-74.

Varsity schedules head into fuller swing this Thanksgiving week. Today's only meet has Forest View at the Adlai Stevenson Relays, a 6:30 p.m. start.

St. Viator and Wheeling attend the Deerfield Relays (7 p.m.) Maine East hosts Proviso East (7 p.m.) and Maine West visits Proviso West (3:30 p.m.), all on Wednesday.

Two dual meets are set for Friday. Arlington at Thornwood West (7 p.m.) and Niles East against Rolling Meadows in the Buffalo Grove pool (1 p.m.).

One area meet is scheduled for Saturday, the 2:30 p.m. St. Viator Relays which includes Buffalo Grove and Wheeling. Forest View will swim at the St. Patrick Invitational, 2 p.m. Prospect and Elk Grove are destined toward the Wauwatosa (Wis.) Relays, 1 p.m.

HATFIELD TRICK. Ken Hatfield (12) of Barrington attempts to steal the ball away from Wheeling's Steve Rymer during a non-conference opener at the Wildcat gym Friday. The thievery did not work and the hosts went on to post a 59-47 triumph behind the playmaking of Rymer. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Fitting end to prep year

NORMAL, Ill. (UPI) — Glenbrook North provided a fitting end to the first Illinois High School football championship playoffs, upsetting No. 1-ranked East St. Louis 19-13 with a touchdown in overtime.

Rockford East's hard-running backfield gained 366 yards and the Class 4A title in a 35-15 win over Normal Community Saturday.

West Chicago, ranked second among the smaller schools, overcame Mount Carmel 32-0 for the Class 3A championship and No. 1-ranked Decatur St. Theresa outlasted Alexis for a 15-6 win and the 2A crown. In the 1A title game, Flanagan whipped Concord Triola 13-0.

Greg Van Schaack plunged over from the one-yard line to give Glenbrook North the crown after the Spartans fought back to tie East St. Louis in the fourth quarter on a 50-yard pass from Don Broadbridge to Sam Poules.

Glenbrook North staved off an East St. Louis drive in the final minute to put the game into overtime. Glenbrook North won the toss in the overtime. Pete Bohr gained two yards and a Flyers' penalty moved the ball to the two before Schaack took the ball over for the lead.

The Flyers then got the ball with a chance to tie or win. But the Spartans' defense held, throwing Brian Leonard for a four-yard loss on the first play and intercepting an East St. Louis pass in the end zone on the second.

Ira Matthews accounted for more than half of Rockford East's 34 points. He scored on runs of 33 and 70 yards, and hauled in a pass from Dean Schuster on a 41-yard play which resulted in a score.

Normal was in front only once, when quarterback Kurt Swearingen ran eight yards for a touchdown and passed to Todd Ashbrook for a two-point conversion and an 8-7 Normal lead.

West Chicago's Henry Antes, a standout in earlier playoff action, stood out once again in the Friday round of 1A, 2A and 3A games, rushing for 116 yards in 17 carries and scoring three touchdowns. Scott Hall, West Chicago quarterback, threw for two other scores to complete the touchdown barrage.

Marty Bushell led Decatur St. Teresa to its nine-point win over Alexis, scoring a touchdown and an extra point kick and a two-point passing conversion after another score.

Defense was the key to the Flanagan-Concord Triola game, but Greg Gundy moved the Flanagan offense with 92 yards in 24 carries. The Falcons' defense backed him up with four pass interceptions and recoveries on three of six Concord fumbles.

SIZZLING SOPH Kevin McKenna of Palatine (31) anticipates his next move against the Maine East defenders in last Friday's season opener. The 6-foot-5 Pirate sophomore hit 10 field goals and totaled 21 points in his varsity debut, but the Pirates fell 51-50, after leading by 11 in the fourth period.

Arlington now 5-0-1 after two wins in Metro hockey

by DICK ABRAHAMSON

Arlington Heights picked up two victories in the Northwest Division of Chicago Metro High School Hockey League action at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, beating Rolling Meadows on Thursday 4-2 and Lake Forest 8-1 on Sunday to take over sole possession of first place.

In Thursday's first place battle with Rolling Meadows, Arlington scored three unanswered goals after Rolling Meadows opened the scoring on a first period tally by Mike Shanley, assisted by Mike Retzer.

Billy McGuire continued his hot scoring pace, tying it up for Arlington, assisted by Jeff Gardner, and that was followed by unassisted goals from Tom Oleese and John Walsh.

Meadows made it 3-2 with 9:29 left in the third period when Russ Randeau scored assisted by Mike Retzer and Buddy Wright. With 2:35 left, Jeff Gardner iced the Arlington victory assisted by Billy McGuire.

Scoring six goals in the third period, Arlington crushed Lake Forest 8-1 in Sunday action. For the game, Jeff Gardner had two goals and an assist; John Walsh two goals, two assists; Scott Whittier one goal, two assists; with single tallies for Tom Oleese, Larry Hermanson and McGuire again.

In other Sunday action, Rolling Meadows came back to beat Fremd 5-1 to stay within two points of first place.

Meadows took a 2-1 first period lead on goals by Randy Voss, assisted by Ed Byrnes and Mike Weber, assisted by Scott Glander.

Fremd's lone tally was scored by Tim Holland, with assists to Kurt Meyer and Mike Aquino. Unassisted goals by Mike Shanley and Mike Retzer, and a goal by Buddy Wright, assisted by Retzer, closed out the scoring. Fremd goalie Dave DeLease stopped 31 Meadows shots, 16 in a busy first period.

St. Viator scored three first period goals and held on to defeat Driscoll 3-2. Driscoll scored first on an unassisted effort by Mike Perillo. Dave Thompson, Viator's captain, tied it up with an unassisted goal, followed by Pat Frazier, assisted by Bobby Bettis, and Bettis assisted by Tommy McDonald. Driscoll came within one on a goal with 1:14 left but was unable to score again.

Hersey picked up its first victory after three ties, and moved into a tie for third place defeating Palatine 3-1, scoring once in each period. Bob Brush scored twice, unassisted and helped by Brad Smith and Steve Beck.

Beck meshed Hersey's other tally, assisted by Smith and Brush.

Palatine's only scoring came with 37 seconds left in the second period closing to 2-1 on a goal by Bob Greenhill, assisted by Mike Mikulan and Scott Jordan. Hersey's Bob Brush narrowly missed his hat trick when a penalty shot went wide to the left. Palatine goalie Scott Sprinkle cut down the angle with three seconds left on the clock.

In Thursday's second game, St. Viator lost a heartbreaker when Lake Forest scored as the buzzer sounded for a 5-1 final score.

After a scoreless first period, Tommy McDonald put Viator ahead assisted by Kevin Kosowski. Lake Forest tied it up and then Viator went up two goals when Len Jarocki scored unassisted and Kosowski tallied assisted by Mark Gustafson.

Lake Forest scored three straight to lead 4-3 but Viator tied it with 32 seconds remaining on a goal by Ron Menoni, set up by Jack McLorraine.

Action resumes next Sunday after the Thanksgiving holiday with four games at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, routes 12 and 83. A nominal $1.00 admission charge is payable at the door, with children under 12 admitted free. Good bleacher seating for 2500 spectators is available with plenty of free lighted parking.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

An 'extra' pregnancy

Four years ago I had a tubal ligation. Because I was only 31 and there was no medical reason for it, I had to go through a lot of red tape and even went to another state to get it done. Since then I have had my 12th living child. The pregnancy was normal, but she was a breech birth, and it was very hard on me.

The explanation given me by the doctors was the egg had fertilized around the tissue of the tubes. Now, I am anxious to find out what the chances of it happening are. I should add the pathologist report after birth confirmed the tubes are still cut and tied. I have several friends who have also had this operation and are worried it could happen to them.

If the tubes are cut and tied, there is no way a pregnancy can occur unless an ovum (egg) has already passed through the tube before the operation. That opportunity would be present only about a day after the operation at the most. There is a slight possibility of a tubal pregnancy limited to a couple of days' time.

Otherwise the egg has to pass through the tube to be implanted in the uterus. Some operations fail because the cut and tied tubes literally repair themselves. They reconnect even if the surgery was done perfectly. Remember your body is designed to correct injuries and nature regards such an operation as an injury. This occurs very rarely.

In a Food and Drug Administration study only one woman in 200 got pregnant in a year's time after a tubal ligation. That is about as good or better than you can expect from any birth control procedure.

Another reader recently wrote in about tubal ligation and stated she was now pregnant. She was concerned about whether her baby would be normal or not. There is no reason why a baby should have any greater chance of being abnormal when a pregnancy does occur after a tubal ligation.

Could you tell me what should be done with a 12-year-old boy with one undescended testicle? He weighs 80 pounds and is thin.

Seven years ago he had a hernia operation on the same side as the undescended testicle. Could the scar tissue have prevented the testicle from coming down? Is it dangerous to have it go untreated?

See a doctor right away about correcting this. Most doctors agree that if the problem has not been corrected by 8 or 9 years of age the testicle should be lowered surgically.

If it is done too late, and you are already pushing your luck, the testicle will never be able to produce live sperm. Your son's ability to be a father will depend solely on the one descended testicle. So, if you want to help our son, don't delay any longer.

Many men have only one descended testicle and father children and otherwise have no problems, but it is a risk you need not take. There is some chance that the undescended testicle will later develop a tumor. All factors considered, including the psychological ones, it should be corrected early in life.

Study links smoking, sudden death

DALLAS (UPI) — A team of doctors said cigarette smokers run a "very high risk" of sudden fatal heart attacks, but there appears to be no link between drinking and heart attack deaths.

Dr. Arthur L. Klatsky of the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Care Program in Oakland, Calif., told the American Heart Assn. conference of a study of 197 men who died within 24 hours of an attack.

"Cigarette smoking was positively associated with sudden cardiac death; coffee drinking, heavy aspirin use, and alcohol showed no statistically significant association," Klatsky said.

"The comparison of responses about cigarette smoking showed that current cigarette smokers seemed to face substantially greater risk of subsequent sudden cardiac death than those who stated that they do not currently smoke," he said.

HE SAID previous theories were that aspirin and limited alcohol drinking helped prevent sudden attacks. However, he said, the study showed no connection.

Also, he said, there was no direct link between persons drinking at least six cups of coffee per day and sudden death victims.

Klatsky said all of the men studied in the group had completed questionnaires during physical examination prior to their death and their answers were compared to a similar group of cardiac patients who did not die later of sudden attacks.

He said more than half the men had clinical evidence of heart disease prior to the deaths and the rest were found by autopsy to have heart disease.

Obituaries

Harry Kulisch

Harry P. (Bud) Kulisch, 46, of Arlington Heights, died suddenly Sunday in his home, after an apparent heart attack.

Born in St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 22, 1928, he had resided in Arlington Heights for 18 years. He was employed as a lithographer for Colfax Litho and Converting Co. in Palatine, and was a Korean Conflict veteran.

Visitation is today from 3 to 9:30 p.m. in Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2006 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Surviving are his widow, June H., nee Muenow; a son, Terry P.; a daughter, Tracy A., both at home; mother, Mrs. Vera (the late Harry C.) Kulisch of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. Joyce Lanning of Gurnee.

Funeral service will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the chapel of the funeral home. The Rev. Donald G. Jones of Prospect Heights Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Arlington Heights Wheeling Township Cemetery.

Elizabeth Oesterle

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Oesterle, 75, nee Richter, a resident of Palatine for 27 years, died Monday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after a brief illness. She was born in Germany, Sept. 11, 1899.

Visitation is today from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Ahlgrim and Sons Funeral Home, 201 N. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, and where funeral service will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Surviving are her husband, Karl; two nieces, Doris Hohendorf and Elisabeth Bruns, and a nephew, Peter Oesterle.

Mrs. Oesterle was a member of the Forest Glen Seventh Day Adventist Church in Palatine.

Charles O. Link

Charles O. Link, 53, of Chicago, and a veteran of World War II, U. S. Navy, died Monday morning in Northwest Hospital, Chicago. He was born in Chicago, Sept. 12, 1921.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Rapp of Des Plaines, and a sister, Dorothy Rapp, also of Des Plaines.

Visitation is today from 2 to 9:30 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Funeral Mass will be said at 11 a.m. Wednesday in St. Mary Catholic Church, 800 Pearson St., Des Plaines. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery, River Grove.

Changing birth records

I have changed my sex and want to change my birth certificate to reflect this. Can I do this?

If a person was born in Illinois and can furnish the factual proof required by law, they can change their birth certificate with the State Registrar of Vital Records of the Illinois Department of Public Health, Springfield, 62706.

State changes financial-aid programs

Legislative and administrative changes have been made in the major financial-aid programs of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission:

- Part-time students now enrolled in at least six credit hours of college work in any semester or quarter are eligible to receive assistance through the Monetary Award Program if they qualify on the basis of need.

- The maximum monetary award has been increased from $1,300 to $1,350 and is applicable only toward tuition and mandatory fees. Students must still apply for other sources of assistance at the institution they attend and through other state and federal programs for help in paying room and board and other costs.

- Monetary awards will now be made available for up to five years of undergraduate study or until a student receives a bachelor's degree. The extension of the entitlement from four to five years cannot be applied retroactively to students who have received degrees.

- Final application deadline has been set for Oct. 1, 1975.

- Half-time students are now eligible to participate in the Illinois Guaranteed

Loan Program. The maximum loan for half-time students range from $500 to $1,250 depending on the student's year in school; loans for full-time students range from $1,000 to $2,500.

- The guaranteed-loan program now permits non-residents attending Illinois colleges, universities and vocational schools to participate. Previously only Illinois students were eligible.

- Borrowers do not have to begin repaying the principal of a guaranteed loan until nine months after they conclude their post-secondary studies, but interest must be paid by the borrower during the school years. For some students who qualify, the government will pay the interest until the student is required to assume repayment of principal.

Persons interested in obtaining applications for the monetary awards or guaranteed loans should write Illinois State Scholarship Commission, 102 Wilmet Rd., Deerfield, Ill. 60015.

The Herald's Christmas Gift Guide 1974

Nursery rhyme characters come to life with games

"Jack be nimble, Jack be quick . . ."

"Rub a dub dub, three men in a tub . . ."

Wherever you find children at play, you're sure to find nursery rhymes, too. Almost as soon as a child learns to talk, he learns to recite the familiar rhymes. Some are lullabies or prayers, but most are chanted while playing games like hopscotch, jump rope or jacks.

"Nursery rhymes, especially those of Mother Goose, have charmed youngsters for generations," says William Garrity, president of Schaper Manufacturing Co., a leading maker of children's games. "Because of the special attachment youngsters have for nursery rhymes, we decided to give them a chance to see their favorite characters come to life through games."

So, this holiday season, new games — based on centuries-old characters — will be available for pre-schoolers. There's Jack Be Nimble, where players use color-coded pieces to build a candle; the object being who can make Jack jump over the tallest candle, and still land on his feet. The "three men in tub" will make an appearance, too, in the Rub A Dub Tub game. Here players try to be the first to get their butcher, baker, and candlestick maker into a wobbly washtub.

While nursery rhymes have been around for a long time, no one knows exactly how long. None has been found in written form before the time of England's Henry VIII, but some scholars say the rhymes can be traced back to ancient Iceland. And some say that counting rhymes, like "Emma, Meena, Mina, Moe," were used by the Druids to choose sacrifices for their religious ceremonies.

Mother Goose herself is a bit of a mystery. She could have been the Queen of Sheba. She could have been Queen Bertha, the mother of Charlemagne, who history recorded as having a foot the size, or shape, of a goose; or, perhaps another Queen Bertha, the wife of France's Robert II, whose child, legend says, was born with the head of a goose.

Most likely, Mother Goose was an American, Elizabeth Foster Goose. Mrs. Goose lived in Charleston in the 17th century, and she, like all grandmothers, recited the now-famous nursery rhymes to her grandchildren. Her son-in-law later published the rhymes.

In addition to the nursery rhyme games, characters and ideas from familiar phrases have also been brought to life by Schaper.

One most grade-schoolers are certain to enjoy is Cat In The Bag, based on the old saying, "don't let the cat out of the bag." A series of claws holds the cat down, and players lift these one-by-one until, like a jack-in-the-box, the cat jumps out.

Games like these are popular with children not only because they bring favorite fantasies to life, but since no reading skills are needed to play, they are easy to learn. And, since they have an unpredictable climax, children can play for hours without losing interest.

So the next time you hear children reciting "Jack be nimble," they may not be alone. Jack may be there with them.

A WHIMSICAL SANTA is the center of attraction in this tabletop Christmas decoration, designed by The Flower Basket, Surroy Ridge Shopping Center, Arlington Heights. Hol-ly, pine cones and scented candle in a wicker cart can be enjoyed for many Christmases.

Santa Claus

The familiar red suit and white beard can be credited to cartoonist

Who gave Santa his red suit, broad girth, white beard, ruddy cheeks and nose, fur-trimmed hat and coat?

Surprisingly enough, the donor was a political cartoonist.

The artist's name was Thomas Nast, cartoonist for Harper's Illustrated Weekly, who also created the now-famous symbols of the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey.

The figure of Santa that Nast drew in 1863, and perhaps earlier, has proved to be the definitive one, and even today the figure as drawn by Nast appears occasionally on Christmas greetings.

"Nast's image of Santa was extraordinary," says Mrs. Jeannette Lee, director of design at Hallmark.

"He gave Santa many of the qualities that have endeared him to children ever since, and we wouldn't dream of tampering very much with them today."

Nast first credited Santa with keeping books on good and bad children, having a Christmas toy workshop and reading letters sent to him by children.

Perhaps it was the now-famous poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas," by Dr. Clement Clarke Moore, that inspired Nast's illustration of Santa. In this children's classic of 1823, the right jolly old elf, who looked like a peddler with a pack on his back, was first described in print.

Nast followed Dr. Moore's description of Santa in several particulars, but many of his concepts were original.

At the time of Nast's Santa Claus drawings the nation was at Civil War, and families were separated. In a note to cheer both soldiers and their waiting families Nast drew "Santa Claus in Camp," for Harper's Weekly.

This earliest Santa was different from any artist's creations up till then. He was shown wearing stars and stripes of the Union and distributing gifts to soldiers. Actually, this Santa might have been meant as a representation of Uncle Sam also.

A later, equally moving Nast illustration featured a soldier's Christmas homecoming.

Born in 1840 in the tiny hamlet of Landau, Bavaria, Nast probably pictured Santa as the long-imagined Saint Nicholas of his childhood.

Albert Bigelow Paine, a friend and admirer of Nast, said the artist often revealed to him his love of the Santa illustrations. He later wrote in his biography of the cartoonist:

"His own childhood in faroff Bavaria has been measured by the yearly visits of . . . St. Nicholas . . . and the girlhood of the woman who was to become his wife (Sarah Edwards of New York) was intimately associated with brilliant and joyous celebrations.

"Nast's children later recalled there was always a multitude of paper dolls — marvelously big and elaborate, a race long since become extinct.

"HELLO, LITTLE ONE" was the title of this famed drawing of Santa by Thomas Nast. Nast, a noted 19th Century political cartoonist, was the first to illustrate Santa as a bearded, red-nosed jolly old man whose rotund figure was clothed in a fur-trimmed red suit.

"And these the artistic father — more than half a child himself at the Christmas season — arranged in processions and cavalcades, gay pageants that marched in and about those larger presents that could not be crowded into the row of stockings that hung by the family fireplace.

"It was a time of splendor and rejoicing — the festive blossoming of the winter season — and it was a beautiful and sturdy family that made Merry Christmas riot in the spacious New York home."

In Nast's day, the idea of some sort of Santa was not new to this country. He was introduced to North America by the early Dutch settlers and his name was St. Nicholas. The annual visit of this kind man, who was thought to have been a 4th Century bishop, was his feast day, Dec. 6.

By 1809, Washington Irving was describing Santa as a small Dutch citizen who looked much like Father Knickerbocker. Irving wondered how the poor old man could get to all the homes in a growing America on his horse, so he invented the famous reindeer-drawn sleigh.

Brighten Christmas spirits with $1-or less gift stuffers

A grab bag of fun-filled Christmas spirit — that's a stuffed Christmas stocking. No other Yuletide custom offers so many opportunities for imaginative gift-giving, whether you're aiming your gifts for fun, usefulness or both.

Why not hang a stocking for every member of the family, then set a $1 limit on the price of any gift dropped in. That way, you can afford to let even the youngsters get in on the shopping, and watch their Christmas spirits soar.

An often overlooked, bountiful source of $1-or-less stocking stuffers for the entire family is your local stationery store or the stationery department of the five-and-dime or department store. With the wide variety of "fun and functional" items available there, stocking stuffer shopping can be an inexpensive one-stop affair.

For the youngsters, there are pencil sharpeners in all shapes and colors. Novelty pencil sharpeners shaped like spiders, TV sets or airplanes are sure to please any school youngster.

For the little girl in the family, you might put a smile on her face as she corrects her mistakes by giving her erasers made in the shape of tiny Oriental dolls.

PARCHEESI backgammon games by Scrabble, are very popular with children and adults alike. The game is manufactured by the Selchow & Righter company.

Select toys that are safe

With Christmas just around the corner, parents are beginning to converge upon the toy departments of their local stores.

Toys can be tokens of potential tragedy if not chosen with care. It can sometimes bring serious injury to a child. There are about 700,000 toy related injuries each year, according to government figures.

The Food and Drug Administration conducts intensive pre-Christmas toy safety campaigns to alert the public. They stress three important points: The need to buy with the child's safety as well as his enjoyment in mind. The need to match the toy to the child's age and development. (Many toys have age group labels) The need to read instructions and to be sure the child understands how to properly use any toy that might cause injury through misuse.

Stuff Dad's stocking with a $1-or-less pen-and-pencil caddy with a built-in sharpener or a stapler set, T-square, slide rule and staple remover to make his home office work easier.

For Mom, there are novelty note pads and magnetic memo holders for use in the kitchen, or a small photo album to keep all those memory-filled Christmas photographs in order.

And you're bound to please the teenage girl in your family with a telephone and address book or a one-year diary, complete with lock and key.

Among the many other stationery store stocking stuffers meeting the $1 limit are handy hand-size adding machines for Mom's grocery shopping, pocket dictionaries, and an almost limitless variety of other budget-priced gifts that you'll probably find your family still using when Christmas rolls around again next year.

Package creation can be easy, fun

THE OWL AND THE PUSSYCATS Greetings designers, these cheerful add a distinctive note under the Christmas tree. Created by American the gift itself.

Creating your own attractive and unusual package designs can be fun and easy during the busy holiday season, if you follow these suggestions from designers at the American Greetings Corp.

Select a table or countertop that is large enough for the package. Trying to wrap a package on a surface too small, or flexible, will make it difficult to get a smooth look.

Try to wrap most of your packages at the same time. That way, the materials and tools you need will be handy.

Create a signature that reflects the season, your taste and that of the recipient. You might want to use all foil papers this year; or perhaps, settle on a color scheme (green and gold, red and yellow, red and green, pink and red) so that all your papers and ribbons are coordinated. You need not use the same papers, but try to have the colors in the same families.

While satiny ribbons are always festive, you might like to add a different note with bright chubby yarns or metallic string. You can also use pre-made bows and matched tags in festive groupings on the package.

Always measure your package before cutting the paper. Leave a few inches on each side. If the paper is too large, you'll wind up with bulky ends; if it's too short, you'll have to patch or discard the paper entirely.

If you are giving presents to children, consider giving them a special treat on the outside by wrapping the packages to look like animals. Almost any package size can act as the "body."

Easy animals to make are cats, dogs, owls, lions and lambs. For all animals, first cover the package in giftwrap. Select solid, printed foils, colorful stripes or whimsical patterns.

For the cat, add face details directly on the package with cord, chubby yarn and scraps of paper to match or contrast with the wrap. Cut feet from cardboard and cover with paper. Add a yarn tail and paper ears to complete.

For a slightly more elaborate feline, cut head outline from shirt cardboard. Add face details with paper and cord. Cut feet from cardboard and affix to package. A fluffy yarn tail completes the package. The wise old owl has a paper plate head, covered with shiny foil paper. Edges are cut and curled under to make feathers. Strips of paper are added at the top for ears. Yarn circles outline the eyes which are completed with three paper circles one on top of another.

Wings are from cardboard cut to shape and covered with foil. Feathers are added on the body and wings by cutting strips of paper and curling over a pencil.

Add a Christmas package decoration, if you like.

You'll probably want to experiment with your own ideas for a family of animals or an entire menagerie. Be sure to allow uninterrupted time to work. You'll enjoy yourself more and your designs will be a unique addition under the tree.

paper and a mailbox where kids can drop their letters for delivery to Santa Claus.

Special store for holiday season

Toadstool Holiday Creations is a special store for a special time of year. Located in the Buffalo Grove Mall, Dundee and Arlington Heights Roads, the 4,000 square foot store is seasonal, open from the middle of October to the middle of January.

The store specializes in Christmas and Hanukkah needs. They carry a complete line of cards, gift wrappings, paper wares, candles, dreidels and menorahs. Imprinted cards, matches and napkins can also be ordered.

"The store is very unique. There is not another store like it in the area," said Marge Sklencar, owner of both the Toadstool Holiday Creations and the Toadstool, also in the Buffalo Grove Mall.

The store features corn husk dolls, now item which many people are stringing to use as decorations for their Christmas trees. The Early American styling of the dolls is in keeping with the nation's bicentennial.

Thirty different Advent or Christmas calendars are available in the store or through various local churches that are selling the calendars.

A Christmas gift wrapping service, that last year wrapped 5,000 packages, will be available again this year. Christmas gifts purchased from the Toadstool are wrapped free of charge while a fee is charged for items that were purchased in other stores.

An added feature of the store is that since it is a substation of the Wheeling Post Office, it can accommodate the mailing needs of its customers. The post office, which keeps the same hours as the store, allows shoppers to do their mailing until 9 p.m. week nights as well as on Sunday.

Store hours are 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Barbie celebrates 16th birthday

Sweet 16 and — been hugged, kissed and adored by millions of children all over the world. That is what Barbie is in 1974 — 16 years old.

Since Barbie was first introduced to the children of the world in 1959, more than 80 million Barbie dolls have found their way into the hands of youngsters on just about every continent the world over. And Barbie continues to find her way into the hands of approximately six million new little girls every year, and 1974 will not be an exception. This makes Barbie the biggest selling toy in the world ever.

To commemorate Barbie's sixteenth birthday Mattel will be conducting a series of birthday parties to call attention to this momentous year. The first party, held in New York City during Toy Fair, entertained approximately 300 children — all patients at Bellevue Hospital. On the same day, New York City recognized Barbie as the world's most popular toy and commemorated her birth in New York at Toy Fair 1959 by renaming a portion of Seventh Avenue "Barbie Blvd." for the duration of Toy Fair. Parties have also been held in Hawthorne, California — Mattel headquarters — and in Washington D.C., the nation's capitol, where Mrs. Gerald Ford, wife of President, joined patients at The Hospital for Sick Children in the birthday celebration.

Barbie has come a long way since she was first introduced in 1959, originally as a fashion doll. Today, Barbie reflects the contemporary life styles familiar to all of us. Barbie is no longer content just to stand around and look pretty in a lovely designer dress. Like young women today, Barbie now also is an outdoor enthusiast and is active in many sports. Her outfits now include: camping gear, all kinds of outdoor sporting wear and clothes for just about every social and business activity. Barbie also has her very own camper, dune buggy, jet airplane, townhouse, swimming pool, beach bus and even a 10-speed bicycle.

Though Barbie is actually 16 years old, in the mind's eye of children that play with Barbie she is actually about 5 years older than the age of the child playing with her. This being the case, Barbie will probably never mature much beyond her 16 years, and in all probability though she does have a wedding dress in her wardrobe, will probably never actually get married. Barbie will continue to have her many friends which include: Ken, Brad, Skipper, Steffie, Francie, and P. J. The Barbie family will continue to grow and bring a great deal of pleasure to young children all over the world in years to come. Happy birthday, Barbie.

Gifts of beauty please ladies

Any woman on your Christmas list will appreciate receiving a gift that lasts long after the ties and tinsel are torn off the package. One good present that's convenient to buy and always gladly received is a "gift of beauty" from your local beauty salon.

No matter what her age, any woman will adore the luxury of being groomed and pampered after the hectic rush of the holiday season. The beauty experts at Helene Curtis suggest arranging a package of beauty services into a "gift certificate" that the salon will honor whenever the recipient desires.

For Mom, Grandma or a favorite friend, arrange a "beauty makeover" that includes an updated hairstyle and one of the new Uni-Perm automatic permanent waves. Its mild, programmed heat curls the hair gently in just six minutes without frizz or over-processing.

For a long-haired sister, daughter or niece, an appreciated gift from the local salon would be a "beauty shape-up" that includes a haircut by a pro together with a conditioning treatment to help restore damaged ends to a healthy condition.

If you are visiting the beauty salon before the holiday, you will also find it an excellent spot to shop leisurely for an array of beautifying items priced to suit even the smallest gift budget.

For instance, proper skin care is an important part of every woman's winter beauty regimen, so you might want to consider a selection from the Balsam Body Basics collection.

This soothing skin care line consists of four body beautifiers that include Balsam Beauty Bar, a soap-free, alkaline-free cleanser; Balsam Beauty Mask, for giving at-home facials; Balsam Bodysoothing Bath Oil, for smoothing the entire body while bathing and Balsam Concentrated Hand Conditioner, for soothing rough, dry hands.

The entire collection of all four products makes a beautiful gift for some special lady. Or purchased separately, they make excellent grab-bag or stocking stuff gifts.

These "gifts of beauty" are available at local professional beauty salons not just for the holiday season, but for any special occasion at anytime of the year.

Adults, children welcome games

Games make great gifts for children but they can do double duty for adults too.

You can give your friends anything that will give them pleasure, in the way of something they don't take seriously, something they can just enjoy. There are whimsical toys and games that are equally suitable for fun-loving big and little folks.

We suggest such things as hexablocks, jigsaw puzzles, a book on and of magic, kaleidoscopes and shuffle books — to name just a few of the many things on the market today.

Early shopping allows greatest choices

He's a master of his craft . . . the happiest, jolliest, most generous man of the year! He's Santa Claus, back again with an important Christmas message for us all: kindness, brotherhood and love.

He'll be making the "chimney scene" with gifts in his pouch and goodwill in his heart, and so we celebrate this season following Santa's example, by giving gifts to our close friends and our loved ones.

It's a good feeling inside to give presents and keep alive the spirit of the holiday, and shopping for the right gift for someone close should be an enjoyable task. So Santa says, shop early. Start now to organize your gift list before the Christmas rush turns this happy assignment into a weary and hectic chore.

In 1974 there's one week less than last year between Thanksgiving and Christmas (that means less shopping days) — something to keep in mind when mailing greeting cards, as well as doing Christmas shopping. It might even be best to begin a holiday list before Thanksgiving.

When making up a list, keep everyone in mind. Even just an acquaintance usually merits a Yuletide thought, whether it be a greeting card, or a box of candy. The size of the gift or the price can take a second place to the thought behind the gift.

Colorful cookies

Christmas cookies are a traditional goodie. Be sure to have enough red and green coloring.

When shopping for the season, sometimes it's wise to buy a lot of little "token" gifts. These are the inexpensive things that people appreciate and enjoy. Just another way of saying "Merry Christmas and thanks," to teachers, milkmen, and others. And you can give many little gifts along with the big presents to the family members, too.

It's also smart to take advantage of a store's Christmas ideas. Check out newspapers, magazines and department store windows for special items advertised. They just might come up with a solution for the "man-who-has-everything" problem.

A gift should be a personal matter, that is, a part of yourself goes with the thought. The special choice should suit each individual. It's up to you to put your own homespun touches to the holiday.

Stores and shops come up with so many good gifting ideas that a wise person knows how to use them to advantage and give them homemade touches with a warm, old-fashioned accent. For example, instead of buying the children only the latest toys on the market, why not go to the hobby department and pick out a selection of do-it-yourself kits. The fun and accomplishment of making it yourself adds a personal feeling to holiday giving.

A little imagination put towards each present can make the ordinary seem outstanding. Instead of the usual wrapping paper, why not sprinkle in some different fabrics and materials? For your teenager, wrap those smaller gifts in faded denim material, which can be used for patching jeans or making little projects.

Put a little more of the Christmas spirit in everything you do this holiday by picking up Yuletide ideas from your surroundings. Look to the Christmas suggestions that you find in community functions, school pageants, religious activities and Christmas displays or exhibits. Then use your creative talents and natural resourcefulness to make Christmas a special occasion for the whole family.

Just remember to shop early, and begin thinking about your own gifting ideas to work on for the big day. The spirit and excitement of Christmas is far from lost or forgotten. It's there for us to enjoy, if we know how to find it.

Cootie offers challenging toys for '74

America's most popular aviation toy, "U-Fly-It," will offer in 1974 its most challenging and exciting unit yet — a working model of the U.S.S. Enterprise Aircraft Carrier. Pilots-to-be of any age will "power catapult" their scale model Phantom II jet fighter up a long glide-line. At the top of its climb, the jet will bank a turn and start down the line for a daring approach to a safe landing on the carrier deck. In true landing fashion, the carrier's arrestor cable hooks the plane for a stop and activates the crash barrier!

A realistic toy driving experience will be offered from the Cootie Company's new "U-Drive-It." The battery-powered unit simulates actual driving conditions — with a movable automobile, realistic steering wheel and foot-accelerator controls! The compact unit can be operated on any table-top. The young driver-to-be learns real driving skills while developing eye-hand and other motor coordination.

"Sky/Crane" and "Sky/Guy" will also be introduced in 1974, completing the Cootie Company's Action Sets category. A model of the Sikorsky-type helicopter, "Sky/Crane" rides the glide-line and is controlled up/down and forward/reverse by twin "joy" sticks mounted on a realistic control panel. The battery-powered, friction activated unit provides hours of play value — as any member of the family successfully completes that daring rescue or landing behind enemy lines.

"Sky/Guy" is a seven-inch articulated male "action-doll," sold separately from "Sky/Crane." Complete with parachute pack, "Sky/Guy" is attached to two lines via a ring and is "launched" when the player separates the lines. A basic, popular-priced action set, it allows for countless numbers of different play settings.

The Cootie Company's popular-priced action set, it allows for countless numbers of different play settings.

The Cootie Company's popular line-up of "Traditional Box Games" will be enhanced by "Casper the Friendly Ghost Game." Dim the lights and set the stage for the "spookiest" game of fun and competition. If your magic "Spooky Stone" lights up Casper, you win a chip. The chips glow in the dark (by a non-toxic, specially treated plastic) while Casper is lit by one AA-type battery. Designed for ages 4 to 10, "Casper" requires no reading skills.

The Cootie Company's Pre-school Game category will be expanded in 1974 to include the new "Jack-Be-Nimble" and "Rub-a-Dub-Tub;" while "Cat-in-the-Bag" will be new for the grade school kids.

Indoor family strategy games have gained a new significance and popularity, since the energy crisis has limited family mobility for leisure time activities. The Cootie Company is adding, for 1974, "Letter Pile," and "Air Traffic Controller," to their family games category. Described by Cootie Company research and development personnel as the "best new word game to come out in a decade," the "Letter Pile" game adds mystery and excitement to a vocabulary building game. Players use clues to identify visually disguised words. Success is dependent upon word knowledge and the ability to decode opponent's clues. "Air Traffic Controller" game recreates the fun and excitement of jet travel and teaches every member of the family the important role of the airport traffic controller. Success in winning — landing and disembarking passengers at their gate before your opponents — depends on a combination of skill, good judgment and luck.

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR aviation toy, "U-Fly-It," will offer in 1974 its most challenging and exciting unit yet — a working model of the U.S.S. Enterprise Aircraft Carrier. Pilots-to-be of any age will "power catapult" their scale model Phantom II jet fighter up a long glide-line. At the top of its climb, the jet will bank a turn (on a unique swivel) and start down the line for a daring approach to a safe landing on the carrier deck. In true landing fashion, the carrier's arrestor cable hooks the plane for a stop and activates the crash barrier!

A PERENNIAL-POPULAR NBC-TV police thriller, viewed by over six million children every week, has inspired a unique, .049 engine-powered "Adam-12" patrol car model by the L. M. Cox Manufacturing Company.

MISS PEEP'S exquisitely sculptured features make her one of the most realistic looking new-born baby dolls ever. For additional realism and functional play opportunities, she's bundled in a pink cotton flannel receiving blanket over a kimono, nightie, cotton tie diaper and booties. From Amico, she even comes in a specially designed package that converts to a serviceable bassinet. Little mothers and big ones will also love the fact that she's washable.

Store toys in steel cabinets

Ask any child what he wants for Christmas and the answer will invariably be "toys!" Small wonder then that the day after Christmas finds Mother wondering how to cope with the deluge of toys, all of which seem to be underfoot.

One answer to this problem is to encourage neatness in your youngster by providing him with a place to store his toys. Steel cabinets are practical, inexpensive storage chests that come in many designs. Floor-standing models accommodate the reach of any child, even a toddler; (shelves can be assigned according to your children's varying height).

Gift for do-it-yourselfers

Estimates indicate that there are over 20 million male do-it-yourselfers in the United States.

These home hobbyists all have two common interests — they enjoy repairing things and they like to construct useful gadgets.

This Christmas why not consider an electronic hobby kit as a gift for that favorite fellow who fixes your hairdryer and toaster? He'll get a lot of pleasure out of building some useful project during those long, cold winter nights.

Electronic kits come with all the parts and complete, step-by-step instructions necessary to make projects ranging from garage door openers to digital clocks. Many of these projects can be completed by the hobbyist in a few hours in the evening or on weekends.

A few of the many projects offered in kits by RCA include a home fire alarm system, a home intruder system and a digital electronic clock that keeps superbly accurate time within one minute-per-year or better. The company also has several experimenter's kits which permit construction of these items: an electronic thermometer, timer, battery charger, flasher, or even speed controls for model railroads or race cars. Certain additional components are required for these kits.

All the kits can be easily assembled with simple tools. Kits are available through RCA distributors.

Pigge soap for unliberated males

Looking for a somewhat offbeat and fun new way to gift the "unliberated" man this Christmas? He could be a boss, co-worker, brother or pal or someone you love, but deep down in his all-male heart, isn't he sometimes a "you know what" when it comes to women?

So — poke a finger at the sometimes chauvinistic attitudes in him, says Royall Lyme Limited of Bermuda, and give him their new "Pigge Soap" — a super-luxurious, delightfully fragrant hand-milled soap-on-a-rope, that's shaped into six ounces of winsome, charming "pigge."

Along with the three delightful Royall Lyme "pigge" scents comes an interesting "story." The "Pigge" (it seems) played a large role in Bermuda's history. Bermuda received its name from the man who delivered the island its first "pigges" — Juan de Bermudez. The animals' love for Bermuda's wild palmetto berries and each other quite literally caused the island to be overrun by them. When the first settlers arrived, the "pigges" provided badly needed food. In gratitude the settlers gave the "wilde pigge" a place of honor on their first coin, so that it became known as "hogge money." The complete story is printed on the back of each "Pigge Soap" gift-box.

The soap itself is available in all three best-selling Royall Lyme fragrances, which are light and refreshing. The green Royall Lyme version is made from the sweet oil of fresh island limes, the blue Royall Bay Rhum "pigge" is compounded from rich Jamaica bay leaves and the saddle tan-colored Royall Spyce "soap" is blended from costly spice leaves from all over the world.

You can provide all this Royall Lyme fun for only $3.50 since "Pigge Soap" is available at your favorite department or specialty store and in fine men's furnishing establishments as well.

And, while you're there, do check out the rest of the Royall Lyme Christmas Collection. There's an assortment of fragrant men's gift items in a wonderful range of prices. Royall Lyme Toilet Lotion is in either four ounce bottles or a ten ounce Magnum size and there are gift sets that include a four ounce bottle of Toilet Lotion and two bars of soap. Royall Lyme and Royall Spyce Toilet Lotion is $5.00 for the four ounce size, $10.00 for the Magnum and $8.00 for the gift set. Royall Bay Rhum is $3.50, $7.00 and $8.50 respectively.

Section 5 —21

THIS AUTHENTIC western folk guitar from Emenee Industries caters to the escalating enthusiasm of young America for country music. A series of lively western figures are embossed on the two tone brown face of the guitar, including cowboys, a bucking bronco and a steer. A long-horn's skull is embossed above the gold, anodized tail piece. Featuring fine tonal quality, the new western folk guitar has professional metal strings and is accompanied by an official guitar tuning record, a pick, an easy-to-master Music Book and detailed instructions.

Calculators keep checkbooks in line

Having trouble with that checkbook? This Christmas why not consider giving a family finance problem solver — a desk-type, digital calculator.

These miniature electronic "brains" are truly a gift for everyone in the family. Perhaps the most common uses are in figuring household budgets, checking monthly bills and the biggest headache of all — balancing the checkbook.

Today, some banks are charging up to four dollars for every check that bounces. At that price, you can't afford to have inaccurate records. And at income tax time, an electronic calculator speeds you through those detailed computations in seconds.

New products for indoor gardeners

Anyone with a green thumb itching for ways to make indoor gardening more adventuresome and the results more attractively visible will enthusiastically welcome a new line of horticultural products developed by Aladdin Industries, Inc., Nashville, Tennessee.

For those who have already progressed to an almost professional level of horticultural achievement, one of the new Aladdin products is the Phyto-Gro Chamber, a fully-controlled growth chamber providing 30 square feet of shelf space in only 10 square feet of floor space. The chamber's temperature, humidity, light and ventilation can be automatically maintained to produce the exact growing environment needed by virtually any plant.

The Phyto-Gro Chamber's interior is brightly illuminated by grow-lights and clear plastic doors provide a full view of the plants inside.

For the less technically inclined indoor gardener, Aladdin has developed the Folarium, an indoor "greenhouse" that is also an attractive plant display case. The Folarium is equipped with a grow-light for maintaining plant growth, starting seedlings and reviving ailing plants. It also has a reservoir for water for maintaining proper humidity.

Folariums may be placed anywhere either individually or stacked. The grow-light in each unit enhances the appearance of plants inside and clear plastic side panels provide full visibility.

Closely related to the Folarium is a functional way is the new Aladdin Solar Window, a capsulated "greenhouse" that may be easily installed in any window capable of accommodating an air conditioner. The Solar Window allows plants to take full advantage of natural sunshine the year round in a fully protected atmosphere. A sliding drawer inside the window holds the plants and allows easy servicing from inside the house. It is ideal for growing herbs and starting seedling plants of all kinds.

Another new product in the Aladdin line is the plant caddy, which provides indoor gardeners with a convenient way to move plants to various locations inside the home for display and care. It is a stylish, ruggedly built cart with three shelves each capable of supporting 75 pounds. In addition to its functional advantages, the Plant Caddy's decorative design makes it a uniquely attractive unit on which to display plants anywhere in the home.

As the final item in its new line, Aladdin offers a set of Tiny Tillers, which every indoor gardener can use. These are miniature garden tools designed especially for working with potted plants. The set includes a trowel, rake and cultivating blade all of stainless steel with tough molded plastic handles.

In order to be certain that all its new horticultural products meet the highest technical standards, all product developmental stages have been reviewed by an advisory panel of indoor gardening experts.

IDEAL FOR DISPLAYING plants in any room, the Aladdin Folarium also gives plants a healthy indoor environment. Plants are placed on a drain pan with a water reservoir underneath that acts as a built-in humidifier for the entire chamber.

YOU PICK YOUR offensive strategy and your opponent picks the defense to stop you. Press the buttons and read out the results. Two reversible overlays from Computer Games — basketball to baseball and hockey to soccer — allows you to match wits with your opponent in 5 exciting sports. Playing pieces and instructions for all sports included. Batteries included.

Dad can install dishwasher

For a truly special gift this year, a built-in dishwasher that the handyman husband installs himself combines the best of what can be purchased and what can be done with one's hands.

All wives, of course, like fun gifts, but a practical gift, like a new dishwasher, is always welcome and will keep saying "Merry Christmas" all year long. And nothing expresses the holiday spirit more sincerely than a gift that costs more than money.

A recently published handbook is designed so that a good "do-it-yourselfer" can install a built-in dishwasher, using the simple, fully illustrated instructions.

It is noted that the Maytag handbook "is not intended to be, and should not be considered instructions for making plumbing and electrical connections for all installations in all areas."

For the simple installation, however, such as a normal replacement, following the instructions in the booklet mean no highly professional skills in electricity, carpentry or plumbing are required.

The step-by-step procedures in the 30-page handbook are easy to follow. The book is in two sections. The first explains the procedures for an installation that is easy to accomplish and requires fewest parts, while the second deals with installation using more complex procedures, such as cutting and sweating pipes, steps that require special tools and a working knowledge of plumbing procedures.

Besides installation instructions, the handbook contains helpful information about the location of the dishwasher in an older home and installation in a new home.

With the handbook, a new built-in dishwasher and a few tools, the husband will have no problems coming up with a welcome gift this holiday season.

Carve meat across grain

The first rule of carving to remember is that all meat has grain. Meat grain may be best visualized as bunches of tiny, closely-grouped tubes, each brimming with savory juices. When the meat is cut with the grain, the slices will consist of these tubes, side by side — in other words, chewy or tough.

When meat is cut across the grain, the slices are made up of short lengths of these tubes standing end on end — tender and holding all their natural juices.

How to select best radio

Planning to give a transistor radio as a Christmas gift?

Then, to help you select wisely from receivers now in local stores, here are some reliable tips.

An easy formula to follow for in-store transistor radios is this—

First, select two or three radios with a brand name you know and respect. Then listen to each of these sets for rich, full tone with the volume turned low.

This is one tip-off on a top-performing receiver. In a portable radio, it means there is power to spare for outdoor listening where background noises drown out sound from less powerful sets. Also, if the receiver is engineered to serve you well outside the home, it will provide good listening indoors where, normally, quieter conditions prevail.

As a check on receiver sensitivity, ask the store salesman to demonstrate around the tuning dial whether the radios you are considering will tune out-of-town, distant stations as well as powerful local stations. Of, if you prefer, do so yourself. Then use the results and your pocketbook as a guide in making your final selection of a receiver.

Art of batik great for handmade gifts

"Batik," what's that? Don't be shy if you don't know.

Although the art of batik originated thousands of years ago, many of us are mystified by this strange and com-

THE NEW "SEA DIVER" by Parker Brothers is an exciting activity toy which simulates the action of a diving bell. Contestants, eight to adult, squeeze the water-filled tank to make the bell descend and use its grappling hooks to pick up treasures from the ocean floor. You control all the movements through the underwater environment.

New watch demand

All solid-state digital watches are becoming popular. RCA, which makes the electronic circuitry of many such timepieces, estimates 1½ million will be sold this year.

plicated method of decorating fabric. Basically, batik is a technique using wax coatings on material, which resist dyes and produce designs.

The Malaysian word "batik" is usually applied to this resist process, since the art form was most extensively developed in Java. From Java, batik was introduced to Europe by Dutch traders, who first imported batiks to Holland in the 1600s. Today Batik continues to be a major industry in Java and is practiced in the same, intricate way it was centuries ago.

Westerners are familiar with the batik process through the lively, unusual batik fabrics that have become more and more popular for clothing and interior decoration.

Although simplified batik processes have been developed by Western industry, the art form has remained too time-consuming and complicated for most amateur crafts buffs to tackle.

But hold on! The ancient art of making batik fabric prints has been revolutionized — and simplified — in time to make dazzling, modern holiday gifts in the age-old batik tradition. Binney & Smith, Inc. has introduced the CRAYOLA CRAFT Batik Kit which makes it a breeze for any youngster to create novel, colorful presents this season.

Parents and friends appreciate the time and effort youngsters spend in making a personal gift. But, more than that, a child feels satisfaction and pride in presenting a gift that he or she has created with time, energy, and imagination.

The Crayola Craft Batik Kit is a great gift-maker because it features a simple three-step method of batik printing.

Here's how it's done. First, the design is painted on the fabric with hot wax colors. Then, the finished wax-painted fabric is gently crumpled to crack the wax for attaining the batik effect, and it is immersed in the background cold dye bath. In the third step, the dyed fabric is rinsed and allowed to dry, and all the wax is removed using a warm iron and plenty of old newspapers to absorb the wax.

It's simple! The Crayola Craft Batik Kit includes everything necessary for your home-batiking operation.

The basic kit includes six Crayola Craft batik color waxes, a block of paraffin, an aluminum warming pan, two brushes, two packets of background dye and two packets of dye conditioner, two 16" x 16" cloth designs, a wooden frame, and an instruction folder. Then you're all set.

Lightweight cotton fabrics work best in the process, although other nonsynthetic fabrics can be used with success. Light colors are necessary, and white works best. Fabrics should also be porous to absorb the wax.

So have a good time creating uniquely attractive handmade presents. Turn your fabric remnants or plain-Jane T-Shirts into snappy gifts. The season will be merrier and more heartwarming if adults and youngsters take the time and energy to give gifts with a personal touch.

It's easy, it's fun, and since it recycles, it's even ecological. You can't beat that.

Kewpie dolls make '74 comeback

One of the most popular entries in the doll world this Yule season is a fourth generation of Kewpie dolls, the mischievous sprites originally created by Rose O'Neill which have set a record for enduring popularity, spreading love all over the world since grandma was a little girl.

Although the fourth generation Kewpies keep their perky top knots and wide-eyed roguish looks, these 1974 versions by Ameco wear smart contemporary clothes and range from four-inch sitting versions to 27-inch jointed styles. There is a new group of Birthday Kewpies who wear pastel hued party dresses.

Side by side with the nostalgically charming Kewpie contingent is an adorable baby doll named Miss Peep who is one of the most realistic looking newborn infant dolls ever. This little newcomer is bundled in a pink cotton flannel receiving blanket wrapped over a kimono and nightie. Cotton tie diaper and booties complete this realistic attire, which assures maximum play interest. She arrives in a specially designed package that converts into a serviceable bassinet. Little mothers and big ones also will be pleased to know that Miss Peep and her wardrobe are washable.

The doll world's record for muscular versatility unquestionably goes to the Bendy dolls, acrobatic wonders long famous in Europe, which are being introduced here in likenesses of such favorite characters as Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Popeye and the Pink Panther.

The remarkable Bendys are made of squeezable, twistable latex which is pleasant to the touch as well as appealing to the eye. In the latex lies the secret of their agility, as it allows them to bend into an infinite variety of positions, a talent that gives them extraordinary play value.

CELEBRATING THE INTRODUCTION of a record-setting fourth generation of Kewpie dolls is the special Birthday Kewpie by Ameco. In sizes from 12 to 16 inches tall, these fully jointed "little cupids" wear pastel hued party dresses with lace trimmed panties, and feature the same topknot and facial expression that have sustained the Kewpies as favorites longer than any other dolls in history.

Cushion gifts

Sending gifts far away? Use popcorn (popped, of course) around that fragile gift. Helps them to withstand all that havoc en route. And if you're sending cookies, it helps to keep them fresh!

Gift cards should reflect sentiments

A gift is an announcement. It should say Merry Christmas, Happy Birthday, I Love You, or whatever you want to convey. Don't lose sight of this function, and don't fail to enclose a card that expresses the sentiments you want to convey.

Don't just sign your name to a printed card — a few sincere phrases of your own devising add an extra dimension to any gift.

A CONVINCING REPLICA of the old fashioned, classic American gumball bank is available for this year's holiday fun. It's the Big Red Machine, a full-size copy (about 14 inches high) of the machine you've seen in stores for years and years.

Made by The Tarrson Company in Chicago, Big Red Machine is a bank that operates with pennies, nickels, and dimes, and dispenses giant gumballs, nuts and candy. Naturally, children love Big Red Machine, but adults seem to be equally delighted to have one at home or office. College students have become excellent collectors of Big Red Machine, too, in the very short time the bank has been on the market.

Camper or school bus?

A child's dream of having his very own camper or driving the school bus can become a reality this Christmas with two new entries in the 1974 Strombecker line of Tootsie Toys.

Both the Camper and School Bus are constructed of tough die-cast metal with high impact plastic base. The TootsieToy models are brightly painted with completely safe vegetable base paints. Each vehicle measures five and one-fourth inches.

Extremely authentic in design, the camper features a detailed plastic interior, consisting of driver's cab, eating area, sink, cabinets and beds, to assist any youngster in planning his recreational outing.

Equally appealing is the school Bus with its well-detailed design. The interior of the bus even includes a row of seats — just waiting for young passengers to get on board.

Give pet before Christmas

Prepare your child well in advance for the pet that is to share his life. Instruct the child on how to care for the pet.

Take your child along to help pick out his new friend. Many times a parent's background intrudes and the "wrong" breed is chosen. Maybe Dad grew up with a Great Dane, but Junior would prefer a poodle. Remember, it's your child's pet.

The puppy or kitten should be brought into the home at least a week ahead of time. This gives everyone a chance to get acquainted, and in particular, it gives the pet an opportunity to settle down and be acclimated by the time Christmas dawns with all its excitement and joyous noise.

For Christmas Day, gifts can be made for the new member of the family — chew bones, toys, a pillow, special occasion "snacks."

But don't expect too much from your new pet — he'll probably be asleep in his own special box out of harm's way.

That little ball of fluff with a red ribbon around its neck scrambling around the base of the Christmas tree looks adorable.

But that scrambling could signify a terrified puppy or an hysterical kitten.

Pets are traditional gifts for children, but they should be given before Christmas Day so they do not have to compete for attention. The excitement of this special day runs high, and children are often unwittingly thoughtless with a new live animal.

You're invited to a Christmas

Games focus on fast action

This Christmas the newest excitement in games centers on fast action competitions that can be played indoors now and outdoors later, involving all members of the family in the fun.

Most unusual is shuttlecock archery, the first basic change in this sport in 8,000 years. It's a highly practical focus for family fun on Christmas morning because its "no-flight" arrow never leaves the bow. When the bow string is drawn back and released, only a soft plastic, suction-cupped shuttlecock is propelled toward the target. This brand new concept is designed by South Bend for grownups and children to enjoy together.

Big ideas for small gifts

"Stockings hung by the chimney with care" is a Christmas tradition the whole family enjoys.

Small treasures, chocolates and assorted trivia are just some of the items to be found inside that big, red stocking on Christmas morning.

But to satisfy your streak of practicality as well as surprise your family on Christmas morning, try these useful ideas for stocking stuffers: pocket mirrors and decorative soaps for young ladies on your list; shoe horns, key chains; miniature tool kits for your little master builder; decks of cards for your bridge-players; theatre or sports tickets for any and everyone!

There will be toys in '74

"There will not be a shortage of Mattel toys this year despite the material shortages" said Ray Wagner, president of Mattel Toys, the world's largest manufacturer of playthings for children.

"In fact," Wagner said, "we will be creating a new generation of toys for today's children. The toys will be smaller in size, have different composition than toys previously available and will be packaged in a more economical way," said Wagner.

"In regard to toy size," Wagner said, "toys in all probability will be using less raw material than toys of years gone by. Mattel's 1974 toy introductions provide stimulating play value and in some cases are smaller in size. For example — Mattel's new Itsy Bitsy Bean dolls: Pidgey, Piffle, and Poffum. These are miniature size bean dolls. These dolls will offer great play value but use far less materials than in comparable toys."

Other new Mattel products that will give great play value and use a minimum of raw materials are the Blue Jeaners dolls: Jimmy and Jibby. Each of these dolls, dressed in blue denim though long in length, represents modest use of raw materials.

"Mattel's new Spinwelder set," claims Wagner, "takes advantage of recycled plastic. Materials that have been re-ground are now available in the new Spinwelder set which enables a youngster to create either a Can-Am car or a dragster made from plastic beams. The parts can be assembled, taken apart and reassembled. It provides many hours of creative and imaginative play. The product is made almost exclusively of recycled materials."

Encouraging youngsters to take advantage of everyday household items to be used in their play situation is now made possible with The Sunshine Family dolls and accessories. This is a new line of three miniature dolls. In each package there is a booklet telling how to make accessories for their doll family out of commonly found items around the household. Specifically, tomato baskets, lids from spray top containers, match boxes, cereal boxes, plastic bottles, spoons, bandage boxes, rubber bands, string, paper clips, aluminum foil and a wide variety of commonly found items from around the house are incorporated into The Sunshine Family play situation. There are craft packs that are available for The Sunshine Family which give specific directions and include a variety of materials which will stimulate youngsters to be creative. The Sunshine Family line of toys also encourages children to be resourceful, not only in their play but in their everyday lives. We try to encourage youngsters to get their family to be like The Sunshine Family and be resourceful, conserve materials and take advantage of everyday household items.

"We are," said Wagner, "also making adjustments and modifications in our packaging. Our packaging designers are investigating packaging that is durable, will protect the product inside, show off the product, yet be protective, attractive and at the same time use far less raw materials than previous packaging."

"We have to look at the material shortage as a long term possibility," said Wagner, "therefore in planning future products we have to think in terms of conserving all raw materials and to create smaller but meaningful products that will stimulate imaginative, fun, creative play and at the same time not prove to be a drain on our nation's resources."

New toy makes knitting easy

Knit Magic from Mattel is a fun new toy which enables any youngster to successfully knit, using real wool yarn, a wide variety of items for personal use, for dolls, as toys and for decorative items. By merely turning the handle on the side of the Knit Magic machine, the yarn is fed into a knitting mechanism which feeds out either a knitted tube or a knitted panel.

Youngsters can take these knitted panels or tubes and fashion them together and make a wide variety of items including real hats, scarves and mittens. For dolls they can make a complete wardrobe of dress, coat and sweater as well as a hat. By merely feeding in a different color yarn into the Knit Magic machine, a youngster can create a wide variety of interesting patterns and designs. Children as young as five years old can now become familiar and adept at knitting through Knit Magic.

Use warranties

Many gifts you receive or give during Christmas have warranties or guarantees. They ought to be filled out and mailed in as soon as possible.

American Yuletide history...

Over the years, many traditions, customs, decorations, songs and stories have become associated with the Christmas holiday season in America. Here is a chronology of some yuletide events and a bit of trivia about when and how they started.

1492 — Columbus' ship, the Santa Maria, struck a reef off the coast of Haiti and was abandoned on Christmas Day. Timber from the ship was used to build a fortress which was named La Navidad, the Nativity.

1776 — Washington and his troops crossed the Delaware.

1821 — The first record of a Christmas tree in America was mentioned in the diary of Matthew Zahm of Lancaster, Pa. Christmas trees of the 1820's were decorated with ginger bread, apples, raisins and colored cloth rosettes.

1822 — Clement Clarke Moore, a professor at the General Theological Seminary in New York, wrote "A Visit From St. Nicholas" to read to his children on Christmas Eve. The famous poem, better known as "Twas the Night Before Christmas," introduced the reindeer-drawn sleigh.

1868 — "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was sung for the first time by the Children of Holy Trinity Sunday School in Philadelphia.

1882 — First Christmas tree lighted by electricity was put in the New York home of Edward H. Johnson.

1897 — Frank Church of the "New York Sun" wrote his famous editorial, "Yes, Virginia There Is a Santa Claus," to young Virginia O'Hanlon. In it, the editor said, "He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist...."

1921 — First community Christmas trees were erected in Madison Square Park, N.Y. and on Boston Common.

1923 — Calvin Coolidge was the first President to light a Christmas tree at the White House in Washington, D.C.

1937 — The first Santa Claus School was opened in Albion, N.Y., with enrollment of six students.

1942 — Bing Crosby's record of "White Christmas" hit the million-seller list. Since then various recordings of the song have sold over 95 million copies, with Bing's version accounting for 25 million.

1943 — An album by the Andrew Sisters featuring "I'll Be Home For Christmas" and "Jingle Bells" sold over a million copies.

1948 — Spike Jones and his City Slickers turned out a novelty record; "All I Want For Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth," which joined the million-seller ranks.

1949 — "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" was first recorded by Gene Autry and became a favorite.

1952 — "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus," sung by Jimmy Boyd, was a million-seller record.

1968 — Apollo 8 Astronauts Borman, Lovell and Anders sent the first Christmas Eve message from Moon to Earth.

...and customs from other lands

Mistletoe, Santa Claus, letter to Santa, Christmas customs galore — where did they all begin?

The customs of Christmas come from many lands and many eras. They evolve from pagan ceremonies into Christian rituals. And they stretch from West to East, from North to South, as each country contributes something special and traditional to the celebrations of the holiday.

When seasonal gaiety rings out in Canada, the merriment is echoed in Mexico. When North or South Americans gather for Christmas festivities, the people of Sweden are doing the same — and so are the peoples of Holland and France and Italy and Spain and countless other European countries.

In the Far East, Christian communities spread the customs of Christmas, which mingle with the year-end ceremonies observed by those of other faiths.

That the legend and lore of Christmas knows no boundaries is illustrated in the following round-up of Yuletide customs, based on information provided by the editors of the Encyclopedia International.

— From the north of England comes the happy custom of the kissing bough. A large hoop, twined with greens, is decorated with apples and candles. And in the center there's mistletoe — signal for exchanging kisses.

— Custom of writing letters to Santa Claus may have begun in Austria, where, long ago, it was an Advent tradition for children to write letters containing lists of what they'd like to receive on St. Nicholas' Day.

— From Italy comes a most poetic addition to Christmas lore. For three weeks during the Christmas season, children traditionally go from place to place reciting Christmas poems. They expect coins in return, to buy holiday goodies.

— An ancient custom that is still observed in some Swedish households today is that of "dipping bread into the pot." Each person dips a piece of bread into pork and sausage drippings and eats it for good luck.

— For St. Nicholas season, it's traditional in Holland to make flat cakes called Klassjes. Once exclusively made in the form of the bishop, St. Nicholas, Klassjes now take any form of bird, beast or fish.

— At Salers in Central France, old-time tradition calls for a king and queen to rule over Christmas festivities. Rulers pay for the privilege, since they are "elected" by bidding at an auction held on the church steps.

— A procession which blends pagan and Christmas customs is part of the legend and lore of the holiday in Ruppert, Germany. A rider on a white horse, symbolizing the horse of the pagan god Wotan, leads the parade. He is followed by Father Christmas, who is decked with ribbons and carries candy and fruit.

— A Swiss custom that dates back to the Middle Ages is to start the New Year free of debts. Dec. 6, the feast of St. Nicholas of Myra, the first Santa Claus, is the day set to meet all monetary obligations such as rents and mortgages.

NORELCO introduces Curly Q, a new curling iron with mist. The new Curly Q is styled in pale lavender with white. Its mist vessel holds enough water for a complete hair styling.

POPPIN' SWAP, an educational card game to help teach nutrition, has been introduced by The Pillsbury Company. Suitable for four to seven players, ages 11 to adult, it was developed originally for use in nutrition units in junior and senior high home economics classes. The 51 cards picture full-color photographs of foods high in important nutrients. Simultaneous trading of the colorful cards, as players try to collect nutrition sets, keeps the game lively. Players learn to avoid empty calorie cards and seek bonus cards of extra high nutrient values. The game has been reviewed for accuracy and suitability by nutritionists and educators and currently is being used in both home economics and science classrooms in all 50 states. Sold only by mail, single decks are available for $5.00 from The Pillsbury Company, Dept. R., 1176 Pillsbury Building, Minneapolis, MN. 55402. Christmas orders should be placed before December 1, for sure delivery.

Don't delay the mail

Watch the calendar!

You can make sure your Christmas cards and packages are delivered on time if you just follow a simple rule — mail early.

Although "it's the thought that counts," a Christmas card or Christmas gift received in the mail late can be disappointing. Not to mention the aggravation it produces among U.S. Postal Service employees who are deluged with billions of cards and packages during the season.

So, to get holiday material delivered on time, and help the postman perform his duty, use zip codes and keep some deadlines in mind:

—Before the last week of November begins, send out parcel airlift packages and cards to servicemen overseas.

—By the end of November you should have mailed: surface parcels to Alaska and Hawaii; packages via parcel airlift to the Arctic and Canada; and airmail parcels and cards to South and Central America, and Near East or Far East.

—During the second week of December, try to take care of these holiday mailings: international greeting cards and parcels to Africa, Near East and Far East; surface mail for the whole United States (including Alaska and Hawaii); airmail parcels and cards to Canada, Europe and Mexico.

—And finally, by the end of the third week in December, with only three to five days to spare before the 25th, send all airmail parcels and cards to Alaska and Hawaii as well as all destinations in the continental United States.

THE NEW SCHWINN-approved Le Tour ten-speed is lightweight, agile and loaded with fine quality features you'd expect to find on much higher priced bikes. It's the ideal bike for those bicyclists who especially consider lightness in weight an important factor, as well as performance.

AGAINST TIME AND THE MOUNTAIN

In a giant slalom, the world is all downhill. And records ride on seconds saved. That's why a top skier like Jean-Claude Killy treasures time, and prefers a guardian of time like Rolex, which meets his personal standards. This Rolex Explorer II is a robust timepiece in stainless steel with matching bracelet, impregnable on the slopes, pressure-proof down to 330 feet. As a self-winding calendar chronometer, it has a special red hour hand which points time on a 24-hour bezel.

Mattel's preschool market grows

The preschool toy market continues to be a growth area for Mattel. This year, 1974, Mattel is introducing a wide variety of imaginative toy products designed to give many hours of fun play and be educational at the same time.

Heading the new '74 entries is camp Putt-Putt — a 15-piece set resembling an outdoor campsite complete with camper, trailer, motorcycle and motor boat. The set also includes a log cabin, draw bridge, covered bridge, swinging gate, and realistic looking pine trees. This set will provide many hours of imaginative play value.

Tuff Stuff, the toy that carries a five-year replacement guarantee, and is virtually indestructible, this year shows up in the form of a Tuff Stuff fire truck. The Tuff Stuff fire truck has an extension ladder that actually works, with a little bucket on the end of the make-believe firemen to sit in. It also has two firemen that can sit in the front of the fire truck or be taken out and moved around as the youngster desires.

Mattel talking toys, always a favorite with preschoolers, this year introduces Mr. Safety Says. By pulling the string on this toy the youngster will hear a wide variety of phrases that encourage safety both at home, at play, and at school. There is also a Chatter Pal tape measure. The youngster pulls out the tape and hears a wide variety of phrases giving youngsters the opportunity to measure things with the tape. Both toys provide educational inputs and laughs.

An innovation in talking toys is Mattel's new Talkin' Tracks. Talkin' Tracks toys operate by strips of specially formulated plastic mounted on the playboard. As the youngster pushes a toy car down the tracks there are a variety of random phrases to suit the play situation. There is a Talkin' Tracks farm, town, Snack Shack, and fire station.

For the preschooler that wants to play camper, there is the new Li'l Camper line of toys including a back pack, cook-stove that "sizzles and boils" without heat, and Trail Bolt. With these items the preschooler can pitch his own tent, pretend to cook bacon and eggs, and even bake a pie. Also included in the Li'l Camper outfit is an ax, shovel, flashlight, and a real compass.

to Light Up Her Eyes...

THE ONLY AUTHENTIC Disney World Phone on the market from Romper Room! The child turns the wheel to select a favorite Disney character on the screen, then dials the magic numbers shown. When he lifts the receiver, he can listen to one of six different messages from Mickey Mouse, Goofy, Minnie Mouse, Snow White, Mary Poppins and Jiminy Cricket. Futuristic styling with touchtone dial system plus colorful illustrations of the Disney characters. A fascinating phone that will stimulate the imagination of pre-schoolers.

Useful, inexpensive stocking stuffers

After most of the Christmas shopping is completed, parents are generally faced with getting something to fill those stockings for the kids. Rather than panic into buying a bunch of useless trinkets, why not put in a few practical items?

Chances are your children have a transistor radio, portable tape recorder, electric toys, camera or flashlight. They all use batteries, and a fresh supply would be a welcome gift. RCA battery specialists suggest that before going to the store, you jot down the size recommended for each product.

Another useful stocking stuffer is a few blank audio tapes such as "Red Seal" for your son's or daughter's recorder. Although most children use these to record their favorite music, many find tape recordings helpful to rehearse their language or school speaking assignments.

True Love's is hard to find. Without a map.

Why did we put Love's Restaurant where we did? Don't ask! The fact is, it's too late to move it. So. It takes a little effort to find Love's—but it's worth it. Because...

- Love's is:
- An absolutely unique dinner experience.
  - Hickory specialties (ribs, chicken, steaks and much more).
  - Generous cocktails.
  - Lovely prices.

For example: for $5.75! Chicken and Ribs!

Tantalizing, succulent Pork Ribs and Barbecued Chicken basted with Love's original sauces. *Including—*choice of soup, dinner salad or Love's cole slaw—and—Love's barbecued beans, corn-on-the-cob, baked potato and hot biscuits.

True Love's may be a little hard to find... without a map. But now you have one. Besides. Where Golf and Higgins Roads cross, a triangle is formed—"Love's Triangle"—and that's always easy to find.

Love's opens every day at 3:00PM for our "Bolla Grande" Happy Hour. Dinner service begins at 4:00PM.

Gifts of JEWELRY

Choose from a selection of our most precious gifts for her — for Christmas — for always

A fine ring is more than an investment in gold, diamonds, fine gemstones. It is more than an investment in beauty, style and good taste. A fine ring is an investment in joy, in happiness — a gift from your heart that will make her feel younger (no matter what her age) . . . that will make her feel better about herself — about both of you (no matter how happy she is now).
The ring is the thing — this Christmas.

You can use your own credit demand

Easy-to-do crafts can offer distinctive home decorations

It's a bonanza season for easy-to-do crafts that both youngsters and adults can enjoy creating and which provide prized, highly distinctive decorations for the home.

One of the most significant advances in simplifying craft techniques is in the category of sculpturing with wire. For the first time, the difficult step of soldering has been eliminated. In the new Wire Sculpture Kits by Whiting, soft aluminum wire, bonding templates and die-cut cardboard shapes are the basic components provided with which even beginning crafts enthusiasts can create graceful, unusual three-dimensional wire artworks. Bases are furnished for mounting and gold paint insures a decorative finish. Each kit contains complete materials and easy-to-follow instructions for creating such subjects as birds, biplanes and dirigibles.

Many uses for pine trees

Need a Santa's helper this Christmas? Try products from the pine tree. For example, a giant pine cone can be turned into the world's smallest Christmas tree.

Just mount an 8-12 inch pine cone on a piece of plastic foam, decorate as you would a tree but with sequins and glitter glued on the cone edges. Top off with a star.

In the practical side, use a pine oil cleaner to banish crushed candy cane, spilled food and turkey grease from the holiday scene.

of scrimshaw craft kits using plastic to simulate the sailors' folk art of etching whale teeth and jawbones with decorative designs. An Eskimo version of the art is made easy to recreate with the Scrimshaw Jewelry Kit. It features favorite arctic designs that are transferred by decal to vari-shaped pendants and etched with a special tool that's provided, simulating the Eskimo art of etching on ivory. These distinctive pendants cue in beautifully with the current fashion for bold, primitive jewelry.

A new Walrus Tusk Scrimshaw Kit uses two favorite Eskimo scenes to be etched into an authentic looking 14-inch tusk. A kayak race scene goes on one side, the image of a dog sled team on the other. The finished tusk makes a unique conversation piece with the charm of a 19th century Ivory prototype.

A welcome development in the area of decorative crafts is an innovative technique that combines styrofoam and yarn. You just press small pieces of yarn into patterned polystyrene bases with a specially designed tool that's furnished in each kit. If you make a mistake, you simply pull out the errant bit of yarn and press it back where it belongs. Delightful animal characters with painted faces and furry yarn coats that invite petting can be created in this manner. They're called Yarn Critters and Wooly Wuzzles. The assortments include a raccoon named Randy, a skunk named Stinker-belle and a fox named Freddy, each over 8½ inches tall, plus a Tired Tiger, Lazy Lion and Pooped Panda, each about 20 inches long. All are ideally suited to decorate beds, walls, shelves and desks.

HERE'S A NEW DELIGHT in yarn crafts by Whittingl Yarn Critters offer an innovative technique for converting yarn and polystyrene into whimsical creatures with furry coats that invite petting. The animal forms are "furred" with a specially designed tool that performs with a simple push-pull action. Molded-in guidelines make it easy also to paint eyes and other facial features. Subjects bear such names as Randy Raccoon, Freddy Fox and Stinkerbell Skunk. Polystyrene forms, yarn, special yarn tool, paints, paint brush, yarn winder and step-by-step instructions are included.

Give stocking gifts for feet

Stuffing for Christmas stockings can be practical and fun, too, when you add something for what goes inside the socks, feet. After a hectic shopping whirl, every member of the family will welcome a little, foot-soothing gift. These easy-on-the-pocketbook items are suggested by the foot experts at School to make holiday going smoother:

A certificate for a professional pedicure will be a surprise pick-up for a busy mother Santa.

A pair of lightweight, terry-covered slippers will help relax dad's feet on Christmas morning — and all through the year.

For a teen-size stocking, slip in a pack of decorative decal designs to sleek up toe-nails and feet during holiday lounging or sandal-wearing.

The week-end skier or anyone whose shoes might rub the wrong way will appreciate a box of soft, moleskin padding.

Then there's the instant luxury of a menthol-scented foot bath promised and packaged in a Soap 'N Soak Box.

And as a literary footnote for someone's stocking, The New Foot Book will make an attractive, informative gift. (It's available for just 25 cents handling fee, by writing to Scholl, at 150 E. Huron, Chicago, 60611).

Flower magic thrives at Christmas time

For the Christmas season, the homemaker and gardener can easily bring some garden magic into the home as part of the holiday scene.

The decorations can be simple or elaborate. The materials used can be gathered from the garden and combined with fresh flowers from the local florist. These can then be highlighted with accessories from the garden or home. Let your imagination run rampant.

An old clock (top) can serve as the centerpoint of an arrangement of white chrysanthemums, colorful carnations and pompon mums combined with holly and pine branches.

Christmas flowers for the dinner table (bottom, right) include roses, holly, evergreens and eucalyptus. Candles and colorful styrofoam snowballs accent the holiday theme.

Clippings from garden evergreens, pine cuttings, cones and deciduous branches can all be put to good use for an arrangement. After the accessory has been selected, tape a block of florist foam to a shallow bowl and thoroughly soak the foam with warm water. Insert the greens into the foam to form an outline of the arrangement. Establish the size and shape with the clippings. After the lines have been established, work the flowers into the arrangement.

Insert the flowers deep into the foam material. Fill in the design with flowers and greens. Conceal the container with more green clippings and place the arrangement on the accessory. If using a statue in the arrangement, use it as the focal point and work flowers and greens around.

Proper care will lengthen the life of the flowers and greens. For most flowers hot water is recommended (as hot as your hand will comfortably stand). A flower preservative will add life to the arrangement. Loose flowers or the finished arrangement should be kept in a cool place overnight.

It is wise to avoid placing evergreen over or too near candles or other source of heat. If evergreens are used in their natural state, freshen them from time to time by sprinkling with water.

Make quick meal for shopping days

Cook a package of frozen broccoli until tender. Then wrap each broccoli piece with a slice of salami and place, seam side down, in a baking dish.

Thin a can of condensed mushroom soup with a little milk and pour over the rolls. Bake at 400 degrees about twenty minutes or until piping hot.

New iron makes nice gift

Glamorous gifts are fun to give. So, too, are practical gifts, such as an iron, because you know it will be used and appreciated many times during the year.

Someone you know may need a new iron, for instance, a relative or friend starting a career and furnishing an apartment for the first time. An iron is an essential household appliance and what a wonderful present it would be for someone on your list.

General Electric's new Surge of Steam self-cleaning iron is big on convenience and little on care. This iron is both a dry and steam iron plus it has an extra surge of steam that can be used to get out deep wrinkles or to set creases.

Another important feature is an exclusive self-cleaning system, which cleans the iron over the sink and not on the clothes. The system helps prevent brown spotting and clogging so the iron steams better longer. And this iron is practical in another way. It uses most tap water.

With an attractive harvest-colored handle and sleek lines, this new iron from GE will make a pleasant surprise for someone to unwrap on Christmas Day.

A GIFT FOR THE HOME is something that gives pleasure to the entire family for many years. Schneller Furniture, Arlington Heights, features furniture for all rooms, occasional pieces, lamps, paintings and prints and many accessories. There is something to fit all gift budgets, all decors and most available for Christmas delivery.

Watchbands make fashionable gifts

Has that favorite person of yours been waiting and waiting for a "free moment" to replace the old watchband that has become an ugly eyesore on the wrist? Why not buy a stylish new one for a gift and drop it into the Christmas stocking?

Watchbands are becoming more and more fashionable with each passing year, and many of them make good gift items.

Although watchbands are available in a wide assortment of styles and sizes, selecting a proper band is not difficult. The holiday shopper only has to be able to describe the watch to his retail jeweler. The jeweler can select the appropriate width, color and endhook, and can also help to choose the most fashionable style.

Merry Xmasound to all our friends . . .

Autosound, that place on the Highway, is celebrating their sixth Christmas with you. That's right. We've been selling and installing quality car stereos for over 6 years. We're proud of that, and grateful to you for making it possible. Right now we'd like to give you something in return. If you purchase a car stereo and 2 speakers from us or leave a deposit with us on or before December 14, we will install your stereo system for FREE anytime either before or after Christmas. So, if you've got someone special on your list that deserves a great stereo music system, stop in and let us return the favor.

Because of the value of this offer, it will be necessary for you to tell the salesman you saw this ad. We will not be promoting this offer again either in the store or in print. Have a great Holiday season. Thanks for appreciating the difference.

Sincerely,

Gordon and Conkey

P.S. Gift certificates available!
P.S.S. Bank cards count, too!

If you have room in your dash for an ordinary radio, you have room for a Pioneer stereo

Maybe you always thought a car stereo would mess up the underside of your dash, or a lot of wires would show. With Pioneer's KP-4000 & TP-7000, no chance. Wherever your radio is now, we can install these units. Both have adjustable control shafts so they will fit exactly. No exceptions. The KP-4000 plays stereo cassettes, FM stereo and AM. It's a complete in-dash cassette system that features fast forward, rewind, and automatic stop and eject. The TP-7000 plays 8 track stereo, FM stereo and AM. Its prebushion tuning allows for easy selection of your favorite AM or FM stereo station. Both units have more power than any radio: 7.6 watts RMS, 15 watts peak power.

Already got a radio in the dash? Stop in, we have a great idea for it. And remember, we're in the dash. No problem with theft.

How to get the hiss out of Cougars, Jaguars, etc.

If you haven't gotten into cassettes because you couldn't handle tape "hiss," let Pioneer handle it for you. The new KP-301 is a sophisticated car stereo that features a Dolby® noise reduction system for cassette tapes. It also has a built-in FM tuner. Features include automatic reverse, radio on/off and a Dolby in/out switch. Separate volume, tone and balance controls. Special quad preamplifier head for use with chromium dioxide tapes. 7.6 watts RMS, 15 watts peak power. If you still hear some hiss in your car, check your tape.
*The word Dolby is a trademark of Dolby Laboratories.
KP-301, Dolby cassette with FM stereo. $229.95 For Xmas $187.95

You can stop wishing 2001 is here. The new Pioneer H-2001 is here. A great new compact stereo system with another that delivers 8 watts, RMS, 15 watts peak power. 20-15,000 Hz. Plus two huge full-range speakers in walnut cabinets. It also comes complete with a built-in automatic record changer. Diamond style, vacuum coating and dust cover. Controls include automatic or manual tape program change, separate bass and treble controls, balance control, and headphones jack. A great way to play the sound track from the movie H-2001. 8 track AM/FM stereo system with changer $229.95 For Xmas $159.95

MILTON BRADLEY BRINGS the Peanuts gang to life with puzzles designed for children between the ages of two through five.

Gang's here in Peanuts puzzles

In keeping with the "Peanuts" philosophy of life, "a friend is someone who likes you," Playskool brings the whole "Peanuts" cartoon crowd together. They're the stars of a new line of a dozen brightly-colored Peanuts Puzzles for two to five-year-olds.

Since just about everybody likes the "Peanuts" gang, what better friends could Playskool introduce into its inlaid woodboard line than Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Lucy, Sally, Linus, Peppermint Patty and even, Woodstock!

Each 9 1/4" by 11 1/4" puzzle, in seven to 11 pieces, engagingly depicts a cartoon friend in a familiar pose. They're all painted with bright, non-toxic paint onto the puzzle plaques which can be stored in their own trays.

Little "Peanuts" fans will have more fun than ever meeting the challenge of completing a puzzle. Learning to distinguish shapes and putting pieces together to create a picture of Charlie Brown or Snoopy will prove to be a rewarding experience likely to be repeated over and over again.

An assortment of Peanuts Puzzles will make great coordination, color and shape contributions to any playroom and all playmates.

KARNES 1st ANNUAL BRAG & BOAST SALE

AT 9800 MILWAUKEE AVENUE

SEE THE AREA'S BIGGEST SELECTION

We were just going to have a humble sale. But when we started adding up the reasons why this sale was so special, and why Karnes is such a good place to buy from, we had no choice but to suspend humility for the duration of this sale.

Here's why:

1. We have 48,500 square feet loaded with musical instruments. Besides over 200 pianos and organs, we're the WORLD'S LARGEST SUPPLIERS OF BAND INSTRUMENTS.
2. We're the home of famous brand names.
3. Besides our huge inventory, we have the SERVICE PERSONNEL always available to make sure you are enjoying your Karnes musical instruments.

4. We have teachers, studios, and educational programs available for all musical instruments.
  5. We have music professionals to help teach you the joys of music that have become their way of life. You talk music to music people. Their credentials contain more letters than federally funded agencies.
  6. 1,000's and 1,000's of people have enjoyed the many musical benefits provided by Karnes throughout the years. While others come and go, Karnes thrives on a tradition of product and service it guards jealously.
  7. As if these weren't reasons enough, take a look at the low prices now being offered.
- THAT'S WHY WE SAY, IF WE PRESENTED ALL OF THESE REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY FROM KARNES IN A HUMBLE WAY, IT JUST WOULDN'T BE HONEST!

Cutlery gifts? A cut above others

Here's a really keen Christmas gift that's appropriate for him, her or them. La Coutellerie, a handsome cutlery set from Imperial Knife Company, is a welcome present whether home is a studio apartment in a high-rise, a split-level dwelling in the suburbs, a condominium in a retirement community or a country cottage.

The five knives and their decorated holder have the admirable faculty of fitting in with any kitchen decor. The stylized harvest-of-vegetables motif on the holder harmonizes with any color scheme and goes beautifully with many lines of oven-to-table cookware.

La Coutellerie has more to offer than mere good looks, however. The painstaking skill of New England craftsmen working with space-age materials has produced a distinctive cutlery set that will please the most exacting cook.

The stain-resistant blades of the five knives are hand-crafted of Molybdenum Plus, the hardest, toughest steel usable for cutlery. The indestructible molded Duraplex III handles are dishwasher-safe and have been designed to fit more comfortably into the hand and balance perfectly.

The trim safety holder has a special blade-hang feature so there's never any need to touch a blade. Double-sided, peel-off tape or screws secure the holder to the wall.

The set has a two-year replacement guarantee.

KIDS CAN NOW "serve" up lots of fun with a mini replica of a real McDonald's that does everything but serve the burgers and fries. The 20 piece set is from Playskool.

Children can own McDonald's

Most of us know how much fun it is for a child to eat at world-famous McDonald's. Just the whisper of the possibility is enough to elicit squeals of joy and delight, followed by gymnastic antics and interminable queries of "Is it time to go yet?"

Imagine how much fun that child would have if he or she owned a McDonald's!

Playskool now makes it possible with a mini replica of a real McDonald's that does everything but serve burgers and fries. Even if it could produce "Big Macs" and shakes, the 20 piece set in colorful, durable plastic, couldn't be more exciting for three to eight year olds.

There's a 12" x 11" x 8 3/4" red-roofed McDonald's building, tables, trays of pretend food, a cash register that rings up sales, a ride for kiddies, the familiar golden arches, a built-in trash can, two cars to drive in and out, two adult customers, two children and three smiling McDonald's men to serve them. Colorful wall illustrations simulate racks of food and include a portrait of clown, Ronald McDonald. There's even a parking field play mat (24"x28") with landscaping and a "hamburger patch" on which to build this imaginary, fascinating "Mac" world.

In all, there's plenty to stimulate the little owner's imagination, and plenty to learn as he takes on the roles of counter-man, manager, customer and director of the whole show.

Children learn by imitating what grown-ups do. Between the ages of three and eight, they try on the roles they may or may not play later in life. They boss each other and correct each other until each player understands how a family works, how a school is conducted, how a small business like a McDonald's is operated.

It's valuable, vital play. A familiar, yet new friend like McDonald's, from Playskool, the company whose new motto is "Our Toys Make Good Friends," makes it all even more exciting.

Give gift of musical instrument

Music is as much a part of Christmas as mince pie and a Christmas tree. It is likewise a part of the contemporary scene today. Those are just two good reasons why an instrument can represent the ideal gift for that special youngster in your life.

When a Christmas treasure delivers the pleasure of making music, especially to a youngster aged six and up, the joy of opening the package is only the beginning.

Years of increasing enjoyment lie ahead as the child plays for his own delight or to entertain others. Playing a musical instrument becomes a rewarding hobby that lasts a lifetime.

So the question becomes, "Which instrument?"

The Selmer Music Division of The Magnavox Company suggests you consider first the child and his preferences.

The Selmer people have been making instruments for young beginners, as well as accomplished professional musicians, almost since the turn of the century, and they are noted for the professional-grade quality of their instruments for beginners.

Selmer people suggest further that you stress the hobby or pleasure aspect of making music. By all means, don't make a beginner feel he has to be a musical genius, or most of the potential enjoyment will be destroyed.

If the child shows a strong liking for the guitar, be happy. Today, guitars have both popularity and status. What's more, they often cost less than other musical instruments.

If playing in the school band is his goal, a woodwind, brass or percussion instrument could be the right choice. Selmer's moderately priced Bundy line offers fine instruments for young boys and girls, and so does the Signet line, with the plus of even greater professional-grade quality.

Whatever your choice, one thing is certain: When next Christmas rolls around, family festivities will be merrier; a proud youngster performs on the musical instrument you made it possible for him to own this Christmas.

Best gift might be under your roof

This Christmas give your daughter the privacy she needs for study (and to entertain her friends). This most appreciated gift might well be hidden right under your roof!

Santa suggests you give your youngster an attractive room of her own, remodeled from wasted space that was once a cluttered attic. He discovered that most attics are constructed in such a way that the main supports are in place. Because of this, a do-it-yourself can easily add a ceiling, walls and floor.

After "Santa" finished the carpentry and tile application, mother and daughter became Santa's helpers and decorated the room in a manner reflecting their own good taste.

Washable sleeping bags make outdoors a lot more comfortable

Even the most hardy sportsman will tell you that sleeping comfort is the key to top enjoyment of the great outdoors.

The folks at the Coleman Company, the world's largest maker of sleeping bags and other popular outdoor equipment, agree.

The result is an extension of their prominent washable sleeping bag line for 1974.

Four new models, all made to fill a particular need, have been added to six models introduced a year ago.

THAT'S OUR BAG — Four new sleeping bags, all completely washable, have been added to its line by the famous Coleman Company, world's largest sleeping bag manufacturer. Washable bags are ideal for camping and other outdoor activities. Each new model mates with a similar bag to form a double unit.

Whether you're on the hiking trail, in a modern campground or traveling in a recreational vehicle, the new washable bags will fill your needs.

All are pre-shrunk and have colorfast dyes that won't run or bleed.

All have reinforced stress points, adding strength where it's needed most.

All mate into double bags. Zip two of them together and you have a big, comfy double bag with more than ample room for two adults. An excellent item for the mattress in your rec vehicle!

There are no tight spots to interfere with sleeping enjoyment or cramp your feet.

Scrolled-stitched quilting keeps padding in place.

Best of all, it takes just one round in the washing machine and the bags are just as good as new. Just as roomy, just as rugged, and there's no comfort loss or time consuming airing problems.

Give books just for fun

Books satisfy curiosity, instruct and educate, show how to do things, explore special interests, take armchair travelers on magic journeys, tell stories realistic and romantic.

Most of all, because they're interesting and fun to read, books enjoy a special place on just about everyone's gift list.

Best sellers, fiction or non-fiction, usually please. If Santa makes sure the person he's gifting hasn't already read the book.

Many other delightful books, while they may have missed the best seller list, are well worth reading, and the gift giver who seeks them out will be giving the bonus of happy discovery. Salespeople can be helpful in selecting such books.

Reference works — atlases, dictionaries, encyclopedias — put books in the big gift category and offer long-lived usefulness.

Books on special subjects — subjects as varied as art and artists, birds and animals, history and philosophy — are published at the gifts season. They're both impressive and interesting.

How-to books guide the gardener, the home handyman, the amateur decorator, the home sewing set, the gourmet cook — to mention just a few.

Still other books appeal to the hobbyist, in every field from stamp collecting to painting to model building.

Sports, travel, photography and other special interests are catered to by a wealth of books, ready for giving.

Make people happy . . .
with flowers!
They're that special touch that completes the Christmas picture, makes a cheerful setting in the home, "says" a special message!

Let us put some green into your Christmas shopping . . .

with CREDIT RESERVE CHECKING

It happens . . . especially at Christmastime . . . The balance in your checking account isn't sufficient to cover the cost of your Christmas shopping. Where will you get the money?

1. You could apply for a regular loan — if you have the time. Or you could take the easiest, most convenient course of all — and simply write a check for it. With a Credit Reserve Checking account - CRC — you have instant "borrowing power" that lets you write checks for more money than you have in your account. You use your regular personal checks, so no one knows you are borrowing — a feature many users appreciate and you make your purchase just as though you had the money all the time.

2. A credit reserve of from $300 to $3000 can be established dependent upon your income and ability to make repayments.

3. You can borrow as often as you like — up to the limit of your credit reserve. Each time you write a check for more money than you have in your checking account, funds are automatically transferred in multiples of $100 from your Credit Reserve to your checking account. When repayment is made, the line of credit is built back to its original amount and can be used again and again.

Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report

The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down. Some feel they must work too hard to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburbs are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them, the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 58 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $5,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 48 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live."

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

Operating without a permit

Area landfill cited in complaint by EPA

by JOE FRANZ

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has filed a complaint against a sanitary landfill near Wheeling, charging it has been operating without an EPA permit.

The complaint was filed with the Illinois Pollution Control Board against Landfill Engineering Co., Milwaukee Avenue and Deerfield Road, and its owner, William Freeding. The case will be handled by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott's office.

Richard H. Briceland, EPA director, said Monday this and similar cases are designed to protect citizens from problems that accompany improperly operated landfills and illegal garbage dumps. The case is part of a statewide effort to ensure proper operation of solid-waste disposal areas, he said.

Freedling said Monday he has not applied for an EPA permit because the landfill was supposed to close about the time the state law took effect. "It took us a little longer than we thought to complete the landfill, but we're almost through now," he said.

THE LAKE COUNTY Circuit Court, he said, issued an order allowing him to finish the landfill. He said he expects to close the landfill by the end of the year.

"We haven't taken any garbage there for about a month and a half," he said. "All we've been taking there lately is dirt to cover the site."

After the landfill is closed, Freeding said he will attempt to sell the site for some kind of development.

"Garbage dumps can cause both air and water pollution and can serve as breeding areas for rats, mice and insects," Briceland said. "Health and safety hazards and visual blight at garbage dumps are quickly becoming a thing of the past in Illinois."

"We intend to take legal action against all sites operating without permits in violation of the law."

KURT ADAMSON, an attorney for the EPA Division of Land Pollution Control, said Monday that Landfill Engineering has been in violation of Illinois law since last July. The Illinois General Assembly, he said, passed a law July 27, 1973, giving operators of garbage dumps and sanitary landfills one year to obtain EPA permits.

The case has been filed because we have no record of them applying for a permit," Adamson said.

The attorney said there is no evidence the landfill is a threat to the public safety, but without a permit, the EPA cannot be sure it is being operated properly.

"The case has been filed strictly on the issue of them not having a permit," Adamson said. "It does not take into consideration whether they are complying with our standards."

On the requirement of EPA permits, Briceland said, "These permits are more than mere pieces of paper. They provide the best means to achieve compliance with state pollution control regulations. They also provide assurance that each site is developed and operated in the most environmentally sound manner."

ADAMSON SAID 45 cases charging landfills and garbage dumps with operating without EPA permits have been forwarded to the attorney general's office for hearings before the pollution control board. He said no date has been set for the hearing on the site near Wheeling.

The EPA and the attorney general's office are asking the pollution control board to fine landfill operators up to $10,000 for each permit violation and up to $1,000 for each day the alleged violation exists.

For now, the front yard. Tomorrow—who knows?—the Big Ten.

WHIP's Gallagher first to join village board race

James W. Gallagher, a member of the Wheeling Improvement Party, has announced his candidacy for the village board.

Gallagher, 23, of 1319 Exeter Ct., is the first declared candidate for the four trustee seats that will become available in April.

He said Monday he decided to run because politics in Wheeling "has not been a clean thing" and said he would like to see village government run "a little more on the up and up."

The indictments of six present and former Wheeling and county officials in January, he said, was a factor in his decision. Of the six officials indicted, four have pleaded guilty and two are serving sentences in federal prisons.

Gallagher also said he would like to see better planning. "We can't keep throwing subdivision upon subdivision," he said. "We have to start following the village land-use plan or adopt a new one."

GALLAGHER, a resident of Wheeling for one year, is a systems programmer for General American Transportation Corp., Chicago. He also is a precinct captain for the Wheeling Township Republican Party and unsuccessfully sought the GOP nomination for state representative from the 6th District in 1972.

Gallagher said he joined the Wheeling Improvement Party because it is more independent of the major political parties than other local parties.

Gallagher said he is undecided whether to seek election as an independent if he is not nominated on the WHIP ticket. "That would kind of depend on the reason I wasn't nominated," he said. "If they have a fairly good reason then I probably would accept it."

Of the four incumbent trustees, Ronald Bruhn has said he will not run for another term. The other incumbents, Albert Lang, Edward Berger and John Koepfen, have not announced their plans.

Contributions fall off

Local United Fund drive may not reach $20,000 goal

Contributions to the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund have fallen off in the last few weeks and officials are concerned the campaign may not reach its $20,000 goal.

United Fund Pres. James Bauer Monday said $16,800, or 84 per cent of the goal, has been collected. The drive ends next week.

"Things have really started to slack off and I'm a little worried we aren't going to reach our goal," he said. "Our residential campaign is pretty much over, so we'll have to count more heavily on business and industry."

THE UNITED FUND has asked for contributions from every home, business and industry in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, Bauer said. Starting this week, officials will contact by telephone all businesses and industries that have not yet donated. He said he would like to contact all the households that have not contributed as well, but there is not enough manpower.

"We feel if we get some response from our telephone calls, we can still make our goal," he said. "But it's going to be a little tougher than last year."

This year's goal is $8,000 higher than last year's. In addition to the local goal, Bauer said $65,000 will be given to the local drive by the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Money raised by the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund will help support Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Northwest Suburban Homemakers Service, Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Countryside Center for the Handicapped, Northwest Mental Health Center and the Salvation Army Family Counseling Service.

Contributions may be sent to the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund, P.O. Box 56, Wheeling.

La Grange official describes project

MSD tunnel blasting will 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rolison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rolison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY district announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rolison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts bounced off the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rolison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jelly" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Slickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rolison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Petitions with 250 names lend support to Whipple

Petitions containing more than 250 signatures will be sent to State School Supt. Michael Bakalis this week in support of school psychologist John Whipple, former director of the Dwyer School for emotionally disturbed children in Arlington Heights.

The petitions are being gathered by parents who have children in Dwyer, staff members at the school and another facility for troubled children, and residents of the community who support Whipple. They call on Bakalis to reject a recommendation from the State Teacher Certification Board that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked.

Frieda Krueger, a secretary for the Center for Child and Family Studies where Whipple now works and informal coordinator of the petition drive, said petitions with about 250 signatures were given to her Monday morning.

UNTIL LAST summer Whipple was clinical director of Dwyer, located in Arlington Heights. At that time he was transferred to the Center for Child and Family Studies, an outpatient treatment center for children with learning and emotional problems, after charges of child abuse were made against him by County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick and former teachers from Dwyer.

The Teacher Certification Board last week cleared Whipple of the child-abuse charges but recommended to Bakalis that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked because he had worked as an administrator at Dwyer without the administrative certificate required by law. If the certificate is revoked, Whipple will not be able to work for public schools in the state.

Michael Stramaglia, associate superintendent for Bakalis, said Monday he will turn the certification board's recommendation to Bakalis early next week. He also said members of Bakalis' staff are researching the implications of the board's recommendation and will present a separate recommendation to Bakalis.

Stramaglia said the recommendation from the staff "may be the same as the certification board or it may be different." He said he does not know how soon Bakalis will rule on the case, but said a ruling will come before Bakalis leaves office Jan. 13.

Attorneys for Whipple have said they will take the case to court if his certificate is revoked.

The local scene

Chamber holds dinner

The Wheeling Chamber of Commerce will have its annual holiday dinner dance on Dec. 14 at the Citadel Restaurant, 913 N. Milwaukee Ave. "Everyday People" will provide the entertainment.

Cash bar will be open from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. and dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m. Dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Tickets are $25 per couple or $12.50 per person and may be purchased at the chamber office at 170 E. Dundee Rd. or at Chandler's, 277 E. Dundee. All tickets must be paid in advance and the last date of sale is Dec. 1.

The menu includes butt steak, homemade bread and french onion soup.

Fire damages apartment

Fire damaged an unoccupied apartment at 199 Arlene in the Foxboro Apartments, Wheeling firemen said Sunday.

The fire apparently started at about 7 p.m. and damaged a ceiling. Cause of the fire is unknown and a damage estimate was unavailable.

Parks committee to meet today

The Wheeling Park District's building and grounds committee will meet to discuss use of park buildings today at 4:30 p.m. in the district offices, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

Nothing stolen in cafe burglary

Wheeling police said Monday apparently nothing was stolen in the weekend burglary at the Fireplace Restaurant, 604 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Police said three cash drawers were forced open, but no money was in any of them. An estimated $300 damage was caused when the burglars broke a glass door Saturday morning, police said.

Police refused to release details Sunday.

"WAIT UNTIL DARK," the story of a young blind woman terrorized by men searching for a heroin shipment, will be presented by Wheeling High School students Dec. 4-5. Cory Niessner appears as the blind girl, Susy; Mat Knupp portrays Mike, and Leo Jacobs, Roaf. Tickets for the 8 p.m. performances are $1.50 at the door.

Long Grove acts to kill development

Long Grove village officials hope to head off plans for a Miller Builders development in Buffalo Grove by annexing part of a corridor of land before Buffalo Grove gets to it.

Attorneys for Long Grove have filed a petition in Lake County Circuit Court seeking annexation of 100 acres that is part of the corridor Buffalo Grove had hoped to annex to bring its boundaries up to the Miller site.

Miller plans to build 415 units on the 149-acre site and Long Grove is opposing the density of the development.

Village Pres. Robert Coffin of Long Grove said Monday the village filed its petition because "we're unhappy with the proposed type of annexation."

RICHARD WEXLER, a Miller attorney, said the Long Grove action was "malicious abuse of process." He indicated that he may file suit against Long Grove and charge it with trying to "confiscate" the land.

Wexler said a suit may be filed in the next two weeks to disconnect a portion of the property from Long Grove that was annexed several years ago but never serviced by the village.

A court decision still is pending on the annexation method because Miller attorneys had to withdraw and resubmit their petition following Long Grove objections to discrepancies in the legal description of the land and to annexation petitions signed by property owners.

Coffin said the Long Grove annexation will "take precedence" over Miller's annexation petition because it was filed after the Miller request was withdrawn in court.

"They (Miller) withdrew their petition and filed a new one and in the meantime we (Long Grove) filed a request for annexation in the same general area," Coffin said.

Wexler said both sides will appear again in Lake County Circuit Court, Dec. 16.

Fire district annex referendum delayed

A referendum to add the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove to the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District was put off again Monday following a court order extending the matter to Feb. 10.

The ruling, handed down by Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford of Cook County precludes any possibility that the vote can be this year, Buffalo Grove Village Atty. Richard Rayssa said.

Comerford's order will give Buffalo Grove fire officials a chance to study Long Grove fire district financial records, to see if disannexation would seriously harm the Long Grove district. Long Grove officials have said one reason they want to keep the territory is because the loss of tax money would be a great burden.

RATSA SAID he asked for the extension to examine the records and reply to the Long Grove claim.

Paul Chervin, an attorney for the Long Grove department said disannexation would take away about one-third of the district's tax base.

Before continuing the issue, Comerford denied a request by Long Grove that the referendum be disallowed because laws governing the change of fire districts are unconstitutional.

Chervin said earlier this month he would challenge the statute, charging that inadequate notice was given to district officials that disannexation was being sought.

Buffalo Grove officials were hoping to have a referendum sometime this year.

COURT DETERMINATION of the referendum date was put off last October when Long Grove objected to losing such a large amount of its tax base and questioned the constitutionality of laws governing the disannexation.

Officials estimate that Long Grove could receive an extra $60,000 in tax money if the referendum is conducted after April 1.

If that happens, the Wheeling district would not receive any tax revenue from the Lake County section of the village until February 1977 even if the territory is transferred.

Disannexation of the territory would be an important first step in the formation of a municipal fire department, Buffalo Grove officials have said.

Currently, Buffalo Grove is served primarily by Long Grove firemen in the Lake County section and Buffalo Grove firemen in the Cook County section. The Vernon Township Fire District covers a small area of the village, but are not fighting disannexation.

Woman gives up eviction battle

by BARRY SIGALE

The Mount Prospect woman who was fighting eviction from her apartment at the federally-subsidized Huntington Commons complex has lost her battle and will move out by Sunday.

The decision is a blow to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which made a public issue of the plight of Patricia Orr. She was characterized by SCLC as a woman alone, having to care for five children without a husband to lend support.

The 37-year-old divorcee has decided not to pursue her eviction in court and has found a new place to live. Originally scheduled to be out of her apartment by Oct. 31, Mrs. Orr had additional time to look for a new home because of the behind-the-scenes negotiations between her attorney and the attorney for The Littlestone Co., managers of the complex.

"This is a normal way to end" an eviction controversy, said Bill McNally, SCLC attorney representing Mrs. Orr, in explaining why a courtroom confrontation did not take place. "Usually," he said, "a tenant says, 'to heck with it,'" and drops attempts to challenge the order.

THE MAIN REASON Mrs. Orr didn't

continue the battle, according to SCLC officials, is that the burden of proof was upon her to refute the charges made against her and her family that led to the eviction notice. The odds, said the officials, were against her.

The legal action was threatened by SCLC at a press conference Oct. 24. It was an immediate reaction after Mrs. Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cate, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandals' charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

Compromise in driveway controversy?

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree.

Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 16 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday that the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 16 feet.

The Twardziks said they are unsure whether they will accept the compromise, if actually offered, since they want to keep the driveway which was installed six years ago. Mrs. Twardzik said she was told the county's contractor would come to remove six feet of black top Thursday.

Last week, the Twardziks parked their vehicles in the driveway to prevent workmen from ripping it out. Mrs. Twardzik said she is still keeping a close watch over the driveway.

Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report

The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down. Some feel they must work too hard to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburbs are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them, the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 58 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $3,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 48 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live."

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

RTA grant may cut need for bus subsidy

by LUISA GINETTI

Des Plaines officials learned Monday that an emergency grant from the Regional Transportation Authority (RTA) to United Motor Coach Co. may eliminate the need for city subsidies of local bus routes.

Joseph DiJohn, executive director of the North Suburban Mass Transit District, said Monday the $338,000 RTA grant to United Motor Coach will enable the bus lines to maintain present operation through Jan. 1, when NORTAN will assume ownership of the financially plagued company.

DiJohn said by Jan. 1 NORTAN expects to have received $1 million in federal funds to help purchase the bus company. The RTA and federal grants should carry the bus operation through the end of the year without the need for subsidies from local communities served by the system, DiJohn said.

NORTAN HAS ASKED the city to funnel $52,000 in subsidy to the firm to help maintain 14 bus lines which serve the city. A special three-member city council transportation committee looking into the city's entire transit question had agreed it would not be practical for the city to subsidize all 14 routes, but was seriously considering a $12,000 subsidy to maintain three routes.

DiJohn's comments came during a meeting of the transportation committee Monday. The NORTAN official was not present at the session, but told committee chairman Ald. George Olen, 2nd, of the latest developments by telephone.

DiJohn said if a subsidy is required it would only be a portion of the $52,000 to carry the company through possibly three months of operation after Jan. 1 if federal funds are not available.

DiJohn also told the committee NORTAN would agree to consider expanding its three intra-city routes in Des Plaines to cover more of the city on a pattern similar to a route suggested by Ald. Richard Ward, 8th.

WARD'S INTRA-CITY system includes a proposed three-loop patterned coverage of the city, with one loop each in the south, west and north ends of town. The routes would extend east to Foster Road, north to Central Road, west to Beau Drive and south to Higgins Road.

Ward has proposed the intra-city system operate daily on a one-hour 45-minute interval during midday hours and on a 35-minute interval during morning and evening rush hours. The alderman has estimated the cost of operating this system at $81,000 per year based on a cost of $4.75 per hour and $3 cents per mile.

With a 25-cent fare box fee and 10 passengers per trip, an estimated $25,000 in farebox rebate could be realized, bringing the city's share of the cost of operating the system to $56,000, Ward said.

DiJohn told the committee to send him a copy of Ward's proposal for NORTAN's consideration. He said if the system is expanded to fit Ward's proposal, bus service would not be as frequent as in the alderman's plan.

DIJOHN AGREED to meet with the committee Dec. 9 to discuss the intra-city system and the related subsidy matters.

If NORTAN agrees to operate the expanded intra-city system, the city would subsidize the service rather than contract with another bus company to operate the entire system as outlined by Ward.

The committee already has agreed to recommend to the city council that Des Plaines not pay a $16,000 administration and planning fee to NORTAN which would make the city a member of the district.

All the committee's findings will be presented to the council which will make the final decision on any committee recommendations.

Law to end attorney's dual role?

Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, said Monday night he will introduce an ordinance prohibiting City Atty. Charles Hug from doing outside legal work in an effort to end Hug's role as attorney for both the city and park district.

Abrams announced his recommendations after a city code and judiciary committee meeting which heard from several other city officials who expressed differing views on the matter.

Ald. Spencer Chase, 3rd, who serves on the committee with Abrams, said he also would back the amendment. However, the third member of the committee, Ald. Kenneth Kehe, 2nd, said he did not favor the amendment.

ABRAMS SAID HE is not troubled by the possible ethical conflict which could develop because Hug holds the two posts, but said he was disturbed because the ground rules for hiring the city attorney had changed while the interviewing of applicants was taking place.

In addition to the comments from the aldermen, Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi repeated a stance he had taken several years ago and insisted that the city attorney should not be allowed to take on any outside clients.

Charles Hug

However, Thomas Mahon, the president of the park board and city treasurer, said forcing Hug to give up the park district post could cause the park district a hardship. He also indicated that the dual role could be a benefit for residents because the district's attorney and the city attorney have to confer on a number of matters.

Hug already has said he would withdraw from the park district position if any conflict arose between the two jobs. He also said Mayor Herbert Behrel gave him the initial go-ahead to continue in the park district position after he had been hired as the city attorney.

ABRAMS SAID THE other 50 candidates for the post had been told they could have no outside employment and that the change in the procedures "has made a sham of the city's hiring practices."

Hug, who had been associated with DiLeonardi's law firm, began working for the city Nov. 11. He will receive $23,000 annually from the city and $3,000 a year from the park district.

Hug has not indicated what action he would take if the council accepts Abrams' proposed amendment.

Driver ticketed after car hits pole

Roger D. Pfeiffer, 19, of 2000 Pine St., was ticketed for improper lane usage early Monday after the car he was driving went off the road near the intersection of Howard Street and Shepherd Drive and struck a telephone pole.

Pfeiffer told police he did not remember what happened just before the accident took place. Pfeiffer said he was eastbound on Howard about 50 feet west of Shepherd when his car hit the pole.

Market Place shop center's outdoor lights coming down

Decorative lights will be removed from the Elmhurst Road entrance to the Market Place Shopping Center in Des Plaines after complaints that they distract motorists' vision.

The complaints, coupled with an Illinois Dept. of Transportation ruling that the lights are illegally placed, prompted Arthur Rubloff and Co., Chicago, management agent for the center at Golf and Elmhurst roads, to agree to take them down.

Henry Levinsky, a vice president of the firm, Monday said architects reviewed the position of the globe-shaped lights and concurred that they block motorists' view.

State transportation officials earlier this month ordered the Elmhurst Road signs removed by Nov. 22 because they are on the right-of-way.

State regulations prohibit lights in the right-of-way.

Des Plaines and Mount Prospect officials have been working to correct the problem and attempting to convince the state to install traffic control devices at the entrance to the shopping center. Local officials became involved after several residents complained about the lights.

Levinsky said electricians have been contacted to remove the lights. He said the lights were installed to help designate access to the shopping center.

Similar lights along the Golf Road side of the shopping center will not be moved, he said.

Urges old city hall be saved

Mayor reasserts stand for huge parking garage

by STEVE BROWN

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel called upon the city council again Monday to approve a $700,000 parking garage for the new municipal complex and save the old city hall for use by other civic groups.

At his weekly press conference, Behrel said his preference for solving the parking problems for the new city hall and police building would be to build a three-story parking garage for 157 cars.

The mayor's comments came after he showed two plans for grade-level parking on the existing property that would give the city 100 to 124 spaces. One plan calls for demolition of the old city hall building. Both plans include a 27-car enclosed garage for the police department at an estimated cost of $180,000.

THE MAYOR, WHO has urged construction of the garage for more than a year, said he did not have cost estimates on either plan.

"We all want to save money, but we have to remember that we have an obligation to provide parking for our employees just like other businesses," Behrel said.

Behrel said he doubted the council would reach a decision at next week's meeting.

"They'll probably vacillate until March," the mayor added.

He defended plans for the police garage by saying that putting all police vehicles indoors would assure the cars would be ready for immediate use during cold weather. He noted the garage also would allow for expansion.

The issue of parking space and continued use of the old city hall by the Des Plaines Historical Society also is further complicated by the needs of Circuit Court that uses the city council chambers.

Behrel said he does not favor the court's using the new city council chamber. He cited a security problem and a lack of space for additional court services as his main reasons for moving the court to the new building.

THE MAYOR, HOWEVER, has suggested that the second floor of the six-story building, which will not immediately be used by the city, could be used for court.

Some city officials have suggested the city consider obtaining the post office building at Graceland and Ellinwood Street when the new postal office on Oakton Street is completed.

Behrel said that building probably would be big enough to house both the historical society and the courts. The new post office, however, will not be completed until 1976 and the city might be required to find an alternate site for the historical society.

An additional consideration is whether the county may build a regional court center for the Northwest suburbs.

The county is completing a court building in Maywood and county officials hope to build several more.

THREE-YEAR-OLD Jamie Dover has his ups and downs in the Mount Prospect Park District's preschool trampoline class for 3- and 4-year-olds.

Mount Prospect woman gives up eviction battle; agrees to move out

by BARRY SIGALE

The Mount Prospect woman who was fighting eviction from her apartment at the federally-subsidized Huntington Commons complex has lost her battle and will move out by Sunday.

The decision is a blow to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which made a public issue of the plight of Patricia Orr. She was characterized by SCLC as a woman alone, having to care for five children without a husband to lend support.

The 37-year-old divorcee has decided not to pursue her eviction in court and has found a new place to live. Originally scheduled to be out of her apartment by Oct. 31, Mrs. Orr had additional time to look for a new home because of the behind-the-scenes negotiations between her attorney and the attorney for The Littlestone Co., managers of the complex.

"This is a normal way to end" an eviction controversy, said Bill McNelly, SCLC attorney representing Mrs. Orr, in explaining why a courtroom confrontation did not take place. "Usually," he said, "a tenant says, 'to heck with it,'" and drops attempts to challenge the order.

THE MAIN REASON Mrs. Orr didn't continue the battle, according to SCLC officials, is that the burden of proof was upon her to refute the charges made against her and her family that led to the eviction notice. The odds, said the officials, were against her.

The legal action was threatened by SCLC at a press conference Oct. 24. It was an immediate reaction after Mrs. Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cate, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandalism charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

Oakton film society to present feature

"The Milky Way," a 1969 Spanish film directed by Luis Bunuel, will be shown today by the Oakton Community College Film Society.

The feature will be presented at 8:15 p.m. in Building 6, at the college, Oakton and Nagle, Morton Grove. Admission is free to Oakton and continuing education students, 50 cents for others.

MSD tunnel blasting to 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rorison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rorison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY district announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rorison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts bounded off the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rorison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jell" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Stickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rorison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lonnquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Compromise in driveway controversy?

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree.

Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 16 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday that the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 16 feet.

The Twardziks said they are unsure whether they will accept the compromise, if actually offered, since they want to keep the driveway which was installed six years ago. Mrs. Twardzik said she was told the county's contractor would come to remove six feet of black top Thursday.

Last week, the Twardziks parked their vehicles in the driveway to prevent workmen from ripping it out. Mrs. Twardzik said she is still keeping a close watch over the driveway.

Petitions with 250 names lend support to Whipple

Petitions containing more than 250 signatures will be sent to State School Supt. Michael Bakalis this week in support of school psychologist John Whipple, former director of the Dwyer School for emotionally disturbed children in Arlington Heights.

The petitions are being gathered by parents who have children in Dwyer, staff members at the school and another facility for troubled children, and residents of the community who support Whipple. They call on Bakalis to reject a recommendation from the State Teacher Certification Board that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked.

Frieda Krueger, a secretary for the Center for Child and Family Studies where Whipple now works and informal coordinator of the petition drive, said petitions with about 250 signatures were given to her Monday morning.

UNTIL LAST summer Whipple was clinical director of Dwyer, located in Arlington Heights. At that time he was transferred to the Center for Child and Family Studies, an outpatient treatment center for children with learning and emotional problems, after charges of child abuse were made against him by County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick and former teachers from Dwyer.

The Teacher Certification Board last week cleared Whipple of the child-abuse charges but recommended to Bakalis that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked because he had worked as an administrator at Dwyer without the administrative certificate required by law. If the certificate is revoked, Whipple will not be able to work for public schools in the state.

Michael Stramaglia, associate superintendent for Bakalis, said Monday he will turn the certification board's recommendation to Bakalis early next week. He also said members of Bakalis' staff are researching the implications of the board's recommendation and will present a separate recommendation to Bakalis.

Stramaglia said the recommendation from the staff "may be the same as the certification board or it may be different." He said he does not know how soon Bakalis will rule on the case, but said a ruling will come before Bakalis leaves office Jan. 13.

Attorneys for Whipple have said they will take the case to court if his certificate is revoked.

Museum to close

The Des Plaines Historical Society Museum, 777 Leo St., will be closed Saturday and Sunday for Christmas decorating. As in past years, several local troops of Girl Scouts will provide the ornaments to be used in the museum. Members of the troops have made the ornaments, which are patterned after original designs from the turn of the century.

The public may see the Christmas decorations during regular museum hours beginning Wednesday, Dec. 4. Museum hours are 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. Group tours are available Tuesdays and Thursdays by calling the historical society at 297-4912.

Mentally ill topic

People have always believed the mentally ill to be dangerous, says Jonas Rapoport, M. D., professor of psychiatry and law at the University of Maryland.

Whether this is truth or myth will be discussed Sunday on "The Search for Mental Health" by Dr. Rapoport, who also is author of the book, "Clinical Evaluation of the Dangerousness of the Mentally Ill," with Dover Roth, M. D., of Forest Hospital.

"The Search for Mental Health" is a public service radio series produced by the Forest Hospital Foundation for national distribution. It is heard weekly on Sundays at 8 a.m. on WJJD-FM (104.3).

Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report

The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down. Some feel they must work too hard to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburb are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them, the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 58 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $5,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 48 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live."

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

Tight economy spurs study

Parks seek to lower cost of recreation

by JILL DETTNER

Predictions of even more difficult times ahead in an already troubled economy are prompting Elk Grove Park District officials to study ways of reducing the cost of recreation.

A quick glance through the 27-page brochure of activities offered by the park district shows that Elk Grove is a young community that, until now, has had money to spend on recreation.

Participation in local park programs is high right now, but park officials are aware that the uncertain state of the economy may force residents to give up recreation in favor of paying other more necessary expenses.

IN A BRAINSTORMING session Monday, Jack Claes, director of parks and recreation, and Richard Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation, discussed ideas for cutting costs.

"We're concerned especially right now with keeping the cost down and still maintaining the quality of programming we've always had," Ludovissy said. "It's a case of how to give people the most for the least amount of dollars."

Fees charged by the Elk Grove Park District are among the lowest in the Northwest suburbs, but Ludovissy believes there already are some families that are finding them out of reach. A recent survey, for example, showed that annual pool pass sales are down because some feel they can no longer afford to spend $24 to buy one.

"Two years ago, $24 didn't seem to be a problem for anybody, but I imagine people are finding they just have to re-evaluate their priorities," Ludovissy said.

DEVELOPING a check-out system that would allow sports enthusiasts to borrow or rent athletic equipment from the park district rather than buying it is one idea Ludovissy said is being considered to reduce costs.

Park officials also are thinking about going into the travel business, such as setting up weekend excursions with economical group rates.

There may be a need for more recreational activities within walking distance of local residents, Ludovissy said. Presently, nearly all arts and crafts classes are conducted at Lions Park Community Center. By offering more of these kinds of classes as well as athletic programs at neighborhood schools, residents could save on gas.

He added that the park district may also explore the possibility of providing bus transportation for children who participate in some programs.

"Excess money is what people have always spent on recreation, but if the excess isn't there, we may have to change our thinking on a lot of things," Ludovissy said.

Problem parents? Hardly...

Clearmont School Principal Tony Mostardo has a problem with parents who want to get their "hands" into everything — and Mostardo wishes he had many more similar problems.

It started when the Elk Grove Village school's PTO approved a long-range plan to equip a school art center and started by buying a kiln and potter's wheel.

But many of the parents weren't satisfied with just donating the materials. They wanted to know how to use them. Mostardo helped set up a "night class" at the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 elementary school for about 20 parents and teachers.

THE CLASS TAUGHT hand modeling, glazing, firing and other pottery techniques and was led by district art consultant Forman Onderdonk. Besides teaching the various skills, the course had other, unexpected benefits, said Mostardo.

"We discovered several talented parents," said Mostardo. The parents will be sharing their talents with the students during the school year.

The PTO plan to eventually equip the entire art center, combined with the high parent enthusiasm, has made the art center a beehive of activity during the day, when students can opt to spend one or two consecutive 40-minute periods working on special art projects.

"We plan to expand our learning center from skill reinforcement and enrichment activities to the art area as well," said Mostardo.

With the first six-week night class just over, Mostardo said the school hopes to sponsor another, if the time can be found.

Plenty of "hands" are interested, Mostardo said.

A NIGHT CLASS at Clearmont School in Elk Grove Village has generated enthusiasm for an art program and provided fun for parents such as Donna Ballard.

Village acts to cut cost of garage addition

Elk Grove Village officials have trimmed about 20 per cent of the estimated costs of the proposed addition to the public works garage in an effort to bring the project in line with available funds.

The village board is expected to approve bids for the $506,810 project tonight after reviewing a series of cuts totaling $137,740.

The budget cuts were suggested by the village board's capital improvements committee and the public works and engineering departments.

Village officials are expected to award the contract for the 22,500-square-foot addition to the Bergen Construction Co. of Palatine.

The recommendations for cuts in the project include a portion of the outdoor dog kennels, $31,800; site work, $49,000; overhead materials, $7,350; concrete salt bins, $21,630; and exterior lights and wiring $7,960.

SPECIFICATIONS for the overall project included requests for separate bids on a number of items, because village officials indicated they feared the project would cost more than had been allocated.

The garage expansion program was estimated to cost about $395,410. In addition to the construction costs, architectural services will cost $38,634. An additional $50,816 is earmarked for tests and contingencies.

The village expects to use a variety of sources to fund the project.

It will use the proceeds from a 1968 bond referendum and interest, $207,114.44; revenue-sharing funds, $300,000; general corporate funds, $30,000; and sewer and water funds, $30,000.

The addition, which will be built at 666 Landmeier Rd., will include facilities for vehicle storage, paint and repair shops, water storage, and the streets and public works department.

Construction is expected to be completed next summer.

La Grange official describes project

MSD tunnel blasting will 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rorison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rorison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY district announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rorison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts bounded off the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rorison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jell" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Stickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rorison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lonnquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Petitions with 250 names lend support to Whipple

Petitions containing more than 250 signatures will be sent to State School Supt. Michael Bakalis this week in support of school psychologist John Whipple, former director of the Dwyer School for emotionally disturbed children in Arlington Heights.

The petitions are being gathered by parents who have children in Dwyer, staff members at the school and another facility for troubled children, and residents of the community who support Whipple. They call on Bakalis to reject a recommendation from the State Teacher Certification Board that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked.

Frieda Krueger, a secretary for the Center for Child and Family Studies where Whipple now works and informal coordinator of the petition drive, said petitions with about 250 signatures were given to her Monday morning.

UNTIL LAST summer Whipple was clinical director of Dwyer, located in Arlington Heights. At that time he was transferred to the Center for Child and Family Studies, an outpatient treatment center for children with learning and emotional problems, after charges of child abuse were made against him by County Schools Supt. The Teacher Certification Board last week cleared Whipple of the child-abuse charges but recommended to Bakalis that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked because he had worked as an administrator at Dwyer without the administrative certificate required by law. If the certificate is revoked, Whipple will not be able to work for public schools in the state.

Michael Stramaglia, associate superintendent for Bakalis, said Monday he will turn the certification board's recommendation to Bakalis early next week. He also said members of Bakalis' staff are researching the implications of the board's recommendation and will present a separate recommendation to Bakalis.

Stramaglia said the recommendation from the staff "may be the same as the certification board or it may be different." He said he does not know how soon Bakalis will rule on the case, but said a ruling will come before Bakalis leaves office Jan. 13.

Attorneys for Whipple have said they will take the case to court if his certification is revoked.

Hilton Hotels Corp. will take over operation of Arlington Park Towers and O'Hare International Tower hotels Dec. 16.

The two hotels will be renamed the Arlington Park Hilton and the O'Hare Hilton.

Madison Square Garden Corp. will retain ownership of the two properties.

Alan N. Cohen, president of Madison Square Garden, and Barron Hilton, president of Hilton Hotels, announced the management contract Monday at the O'Hare International Tower Hotel, capping several months of speculation.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. However, Hilton management contracts generally are based on either a percentage of hotel revenues or percentages of both revenues and profits.

MADISON SQUARE Garden executives said the management contract would have no effect on plans for a 5,000-unit housing development on 190 acres directly north of the Arlington Park hotel.

"The Hilton management contract does not diminish our continuing interest in the Chicago area," Cohen said.

Hilton said the promotion of the Arlington Park hotel as a resort and convention hotel was "ideally suited to our marketing concept." He said Hilton also will profit from a direct association with O'Hare Airport, which he noted is "the busiest and one of the most efficient airports in the world."

The 450-room Arlington Park Towers Hotel opened in April, 1969. It was built in just 10 months while the race track property still was unincorporated and under the direction of Marjorie Everett.

The O'Hare Hilton, adjacent to O'Hare Airport's passenger terminals, has nearly 1,000 guest rooms. An enclosed moving sidewalk connects the hotel and the airport terminals.

COHEN SAID THE two hotels would benefit from Hilton's computerized reservation system. Madison Square Garden chose Hilton because it wanted "the best professional management available," he said.

The new management contract will not affect the operation of the Arlington Park Theatre or the Arlington Park Race Track, which share a 430-acre site with the hotel at Euclid Avenue and Ill. Rte. 53, officials said.

A City of Chicago official said the city will continue to receive either $1 million or 10 per cent of the gross operating revenue of the O'Hare hotel, whichever is greater, in yearly rent for use of city airport property.

Compromise over driveway feud?

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree.

Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 16 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday that the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 16 feet.

The Twardziks said they are unsure whether they will accept the compromise, if actually offered, since they want to keep the driveway which was installed six years ago. Mrs. Twardzik said she was told the county's contractor would come to remove six feet of black top Thursday.

Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report

The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down. Some feel they must work too hard to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburbs are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them, the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 58 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county Jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $5,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 48 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live."

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

Employees unhappy over pay raises

About 30 per cent of the Village of Schaumburg's employees are apparently unhappy about pay raises proposed under a plan to be implemented in a new four-month transitional budget.

John Coste, village administrator, told the village board in a committee-of-the-whole meeting Monday night some employees liked the structure of the new pay scale, but were unhappy at their job classification which determined their salaries.

The classifications were drawn up after an outside personnel analysis agency examined the village departments in trying to align salary levels for municipal employees in the Northwest suburban area. The plan was in conjunction with a U. S. Civil Service Commission survey and recommendation that policemen, firemen and public works employees of the same qualifications should draw the same pay.

MOST OF THE employees' discontentment is in the police and fire departments, said Trustee Raymond Kessel. Village Pres. Robert Atcher said most of the salary increases would be from 2.5 to 9 per cent. Coste said no employee's salary would drop under the plan which also changes the hiring anniversary dates to coincide with the fiscal year.

The village, which has budgeted on a calendar year basis, is drafting a four-month budget so it can go on a fiscal year basis like most taxing bodies.

Atcher said there was a seesaw effect because other municipalities' employees would appear to have higher salaries when they got raises in April and then the Schaumburg employees pay would appear higher in January.

Before projecting about $2.53 million in expenditures for the four-month period, Atcher said, "There will be some disgruntled people I'm sure." He added that policemen and firefighters get additional money in fringe benefits like village payments to the various pension funds.

TO PROVIDE A means of communication, the board voted to have Coste notify the department heads to see if any inequities existed.

Atcher said he and other village officials were "conservative" in compiling the proposed budget. He added, "There's still no idea how much money will be coming in. There's still no way for anyone to predict the crazy economy."

The village's expenditures are not funded through taxes, but basically through its share of state sales tax resulting from the Woodfield Shopping Center and other commercial areas and through new building permit fees.

Atcher added these sources of money may be in danger of dropping because of the declining economy.

DETAILED PAPERWORK is an essential job for Ron Dudley, superintendent of parks for the Schaumburg Park District. It is his way of plotting a more efficient maintenance department operation and pinpointing costs.

Paperwork makes park district go

by STIRLING MORITA

You would think a park district maintenance superintendent should be more interested in dirt, trees, fertilizer and greenery than keeping detailed records and activity reports.

Not so for Ron Dudley, superintendent of parks for the Schaumburg Park District. To him, paperwork is a way to make his department more efficient and provides a basis for future planning of the parks system.

With a flick of a finger, Dudley can tell anyone the number of trees or shrubbery — by species — in any of the 20 park sites, positioning of major equipment and well-used areas of various sites. The facts are logged in two index files, which also are instrumental in assessing vandalism costs.

By thumbing through his monthly reports, he can tell the number of hours each of his seven men spent in ballfield care, assisting the recreation department, grass-cutting and 23 other job-related categories. Breaking down his department's manhours is a key in planning each year's budget.

Another member of the maintenance department, Bill Witte, landscape architect, is compiling site maps for various parks for possible inclusion in the next year's recreation brochure or in separate fact sheets so residents can learn more about what is available, Dudley said.

DUDLEY SAID the paperwork is time-consuming but necessary. Continual updating of records is needed because the park district is still young, and many changes in sites are made each year. For example, during the last year, his crew planted at least 260 trees, and each had to be accounted for in the index file.

"I'm not a real stickler for paperwork," Dudley said. "It's very time-consuming, but it's worth it."

"I think you have to log your plans in order to operate efficiently and correctly."

Dudley said he was not happy about using a punchclock for his employees, but the determination of hours allows him to compile statistics. "It reflects the time being spent, and when they (park commissioners) ask where all the man-hours are going, you can show them."

INVENTORIES ON EQUIPMENT and supplies are kept up to date. Employees make monthly playground equipment reports. Dudley said safety was the key factor and that he wanted to make sure district equipment was sound in case of an accident.

He explained that one of his chief concerns for the future is getting equipment so his department can work as much as possible without relying on outside contractors. It has been estimated by Paul Derda, park district director, that Dudley's crew saved the district about $30,000 in an improvements program by completing landscaping and dirt-hauling at six sites.

If a police chief's car isn't safe...

Even a police chief has to worry about his belongings these days. John O'Connell, Hoffman Estates police chief, told Schaumburg police Sunday that someone attempted to break into his car while it was parked outside his Schaumburg apartment.

O'Connell reported there was an attempt to enter his car trunk because the lock cover had been torn off.

Party to choose candidates for April

GOP plans convention for Dec. 15

by TONI GINETTI

Hoffman Estates Republican leaders have voted to hold a party convention in three weeks to select candidates for April's village elections.

The Hoffman Estates Municipal Central Committee voted unanimously Sunday night to hold the convention Dec. 15. The committee, made up of precinct captains and party officials who live in Hoffman Estates, is part of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

Schaumburg Township Democrats already have announced plans to hold slating sessions to field a ticket for the election in which three trustee posts will be filled. The first session is scheduled tonight at the party headquarters, 638 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

The GOP convention, tentatively set for 7 p.m. Dec. 15 in the Hoffman Estates High School cafeteria, will be the party's third since 1970 when the organization first used the convention method to select candidates.

The three trustees whose terms will expire in April are Republicans. One, Dryle Rathman, already has announced he will not seek reelection.

Rathman's vacancy is expected to lead to a floor fight at the convention, party officials said Monday.

Last night Trustee Edward Hennessy confirmed he also will not run while William Cowin, senior board member, has said he will announce his decision soon. Cowin is expected to run again, sources have indicated.

GOP TOWNSHIP Committeeman Donald Totten said Monday the convention

Two residents to seek GOP election support

Two residents have indicated they will seek support from the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township to run for village board seats in Hoffman Estates.

William Palmer, a member of the village plan commission, confirmed Monday night that he will be a candidate. The other potential candidate is Peter von Sothen, 1380 Bonnie Ln. von Sothen could not be reached for comment, but apparently has expressed interest in running.

Incumbent trustee William Cowin also is expected to go before the Republican convention for support for another term.

TWO POSITIONS ON the Republican ticket will be open because of decisions by trustees Dryle Rathman and Edward Hennessy not to seek re-election.

Hennessy made the announcement of his decision Monday night in a letter to the village board. Hennessy had said last week he was leaning "80 per cent to 20 per cent against running." But in his letter he said the decision came after considering several factors, including public apathy, lack of sufficient compensation for trustees and time required for the job.

"It is in considering the time involved, the energies and commitment required, the lack of compensation, the disinterest of the public in general and my feeling of obligation to my family that I have decided not to seek re-election as trustee at this time," Hennessy's statement said.

He termed the decision a "difficult one" which he reached on his own.

RATHMAN ANNOUNCED LAST week he would not run appear before a party screening committee headed by Charles Zimmerman. Interviews will be conducted Dec. 5 and Dec. 12.

A platform committee of about 15 members to be chaired by Rathman was also authorized by the central committee Sunday.

"We always get a kick out of this so I'm glad the central committee opted for the convention," Totten said. "It is an open convention. Nothing about it has ever been rigged. It's a lot of fun and it gets the job done."

MSD tunnel blasting to 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rorison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rorison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY district announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rorison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts bounced off the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rorison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jolt" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Stickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rorison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lonnquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Sun worshipers try to make the most of what warmth there is on a cold November day.

Will move out by Sunday

Woman gives up eviction battle

by BARRY SIGALE

The Mount Prospect woman who was fighting eviction from her apartment at the federally-subsidized Huntington Commons complex has lost her battle and will move out by Sunday.

The decision is a blow to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which made a public issue of the plight of Patricia Orr. She was characterized by SCLC as a woman alone, having to care for five children without a husband to lend support.

The 37-year-old divorcee has decided not to pursue her eviction in court and has found a new place to live. Originally scheduled to be out of her apartment by Oct. 31, Mrs. Orr had additional time to look for a new home because of the behind-the-scenes negotiations between her attorney and the attorney for The Littlestone Co., managers of the complex.

"This is a normal way to end" an eviction controversy, said Bill McNally, SCLC attorney representing Mrs. Orr, in explaining why a courtroom confrontation did not take place. "Usually," he said, "a tenant says, 'to heck with it,' and drops attempts to challenge the order."

THE MAIN REASON Mrs. Orr didn't

continue the battle, according to SCLC officials, is that the burden of proof was upon her to refute the charges made against her and her family that led to the eviction notice. The odds, said the officials, were against her.

The legal action was threatened by SCLC at a press conference Oct. 24. It was an immediate reaction after Mrs. Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cate, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandalism charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

Petitions with 250 names lend support to Whipple

Petitions containing more than 250 signatures will be sent to State School Supt. Michael Bakalis this week in support of school psychologist John Whipple, former director of the Dwyer School for emotionally disturbed children in Arlington Heights.

The petitions are being gathered by parents who have children in Dwyer, staff members at the school and another facility for troubled children, and residents of the community who support Whipple. They call on Bakalis to reject a recommendation from the State Teacher Certification Board that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked.

Frieda Krueger, a secretary for the Center for Child and Family Studies where Whipple now works and informal coordinator of the petition drive, said petitions with about 250 signatures were given to her Monday morning.

UNTIL LAST summer Whipple was clinical director of Dwyer, located in Arlington Heights. At that time he was transferred to the Center for Child and Family Studies, an outpatient treatment center for children with learning and emotional problems, after charges of child abuse were made against him by County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick and former teachers from Dwyer.

The Teacher Certification Board last week cleared Whipple of the child-abuse charges but recommended to Bakalis that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked because he had worked as an administrator at Dwyer without the administrative certificate required by law. If the certificate is revoked, Whipple will not be able to work for public schools in the state.

Michael Stramaglia, associate superintendent for Bakalis, said Monday he will turn the certification board's recommendation to Bakalis early next week. He also said members of Bakalis' staff are researching the implications of the board's recommendation and will present a separate recommendation to Bakalis.

Stramaglia said the recommendation from the staff "may be the same as the certification board or it may be different." He said he does not know how soon Bakalis will rule on the case, but said a ruling will come before Bakalis leaves office Jan. 13.

Attorneys for Whipple have said they will take the case to court if his certificate is revoked.

Van reported stolen from Woodfield lot

A Chicago man told Schaumburg police Sunday that his $4,000 van containing an estimated $3,170 worth of various items was stolen from the parking lot of the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Taken along with the vehicle were a camera, various lenses, a refrigerator, two chairs, four wheels and tires, a toolbox and eight-track stereo tape player and cassettes, Darrell Piccolo reported.

The van was stolen sometime between noon and 3:30 p.m. Sunday, police were told.

Christmas activities registration set

Youngsters may register now for Christmas holiday activities to begin next week at the Schaumburg Township Public Library.

For children in first through third grades, there are Christmas-crafts sessions; for fourth and fifth grades, Christmas cookies, carols and capers; and for youngsters in sixth through eighth grades, Christmas ornament decorations.

There will be two sessions of Christmas crafts — 4 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Fridays. Cookies, carols and capers will be from 4 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays and ornament demonstrations from 3 to 4 p.m. Wednesdays.

A special Christmas puppet show, Santa and the Magic Curtain, will be presented at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Dec. 14. The library will host a Christmas Party at 1 p.m. Dec. 21.

There are no fees for the events and programs.

Crime compensation

What are the major changes in the Illinois Crime Victims Compensation Act?

Any person related to the victim of a crime of violence, even though he was not dependent on the victim for his support, is now eligible for reimbursement of funeral and medical expenses which he paid for the victim. Another amendment authorizes the filing of claims for as little as $200.

again, citing time and personal commitments as the reasons for his retirement after only one 4-year term.

Palmer, who has been active in Republican local campaigns in the past, said he would appear at the GOP convention set for Dec. 15 to seek the party's backing. "I am interested in good government and people and I hope that is enough criteria," Palmer said.

Palmer has never run in a local contest before although he has managed campaigns of some GOP local efforts. Last year he sought appointment to fill a vacancy on the board created when Trustee Diane Jensen resigned, however Hennessy was chosen instead.

PALMER HAS BEEN a member of the plan commission for a year and resides with his wife and five children at 333 Baxter Ln.

The Republican Party has traditionally been victorious in local elections and currently holds all elected village offices.

Several other persons who in past years have been mentioned as trustee hopefuls, including Plan Commission Chairman Richard Regan and zoning board member Robert Valentino, who also sought the board vacancy last year, said Monday they will not run.

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree.

Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 16 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday that the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 16 feet.

The Twardziks said they are unsure whether they will accept the compromise, if actually offered, since they want to keep the driveway which was installed six years ago. Mrs. Twardzik said she was told the county's contractor would come to remove six feet of black top Thursday.

Last week, the Twardziks parked their vehicles in the driveway to prevent workmen from ripping it out. Mrs. Twardzik said she is still keeping a close watch over the driveway.

A burglary at the Schaumburg Park District office netted thieves an estimated $450 in cash, police were told Sunday.

Police said $50 was taken from a cashbox, and the safe was pried open to get the other money. The park district office is in the Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weathersfield Way. The burglars entered by breaking a window.

City financial report due

Sewer-rate increase before council tonight

A report on the city's financial health is due at the Rolling Meadows City Council meeting tonight, when aldermen are expected to vote on a proposed sewer-rate increase of about 13 per cent for the average homeowner.

The council will meet at 8 p.m. in city hall, 3600 Kirchhoff Rd.

City Treasurer Robert B. Cole began preparing the report last week at the request of the council. Aldermen are concerned over decline in sales tax revenue below last year's levels in four of the first six months of the fiscal year. Some officials have indicated they anticipate similar declines may be felt in the city's revenue from state income and motor fuel taxes. Revenue-sharing receipts are certain to be lower than last year because the federal government is compensating for an error which resulted in overpayment to the city, Cole said.

The losses in revenue, approval of two property purchases which were not budgeted and the effects of inflation have combined to put in doubt the city's balance at year's end. Aldermen agreed two weeks ago to suspend all hiring, including the filling of any vacancies from voluntary resignations or firings. The no-hiring policy "probably" will remain in effect for the rest of the fiscal year, Mayor Roland J. Meyer said last week.

The policy covers all city departments, including police and fire.

Aldermen also have deferred approval of new equipment purchases that were included in this year's budget, pending receipt of Cole's report. They have declined to consider unbudgeted equipment purchases.

THE PROPOSED sewer-rate increase has been presented as a means of improving the balance in the sewer department, which is expected to have a deficit of $68,425 this year if the hike is not approved. In previous years, the deficit has been $47,091 and $14,981. Surpluses of less than $8,000 annually between 1968 and 1972 have been more than exhausted, and the city has made up the deficits from its general corporate fund.

The increase is expected to generate about $125,000 per year in sewer fund revenue. This year's sewer budget was set at $106,000, and inflation could add $20,000 to that figure next year, aldermen have said.

IF THE SEWER charge hike is approved tonight, residents would not realize individual increases until they receive their April bills covering next January through March. The new rate would be effective Jan. 1.

The increase is to be produced by changing to a different billing system. Increases would vary according to the amount of water used in individual (Continued on page 5)

Home-rule referendum a possibility next April

The City of Rolling Meadows can hold a home-rule referendum in conjunction with April's city elections if the city council approves, City Atty. Donald M. Rose said Monday.

Rose said he researched the law, and found nothing to prevent holding the referendum on the day of the city elections. The city council has not decided yet if it will hold a referendum, but is considering the possibility.

A referendum represents the city's only option to obtain home-rule status in the foreseeable future. The state constitution provides two methods for communities to get home rule. When a city reaches 25,000 persons, it automatically qualifies as a home-rule municipality.

A referendum also can be held by smaller cities to adopt home-rule by majority vote.

Home-rule status would allow the city to levy new taxes and increase its capacity to issue bonds, both of which now are outside city authority.

ONE EXAMPLE is a hotel-motel user tax, which city aldermen have considered. The tax, which would be paid by persons using the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn, or any future overnight accommodation facilities, would be directed almost exclusively at persons living outside town. Arlington Heights recently adopted the tax, but Rolling Meadows cannot do so because it is not a home-rule community. The current population is less than 20,000.

City officials sought Rose's opinion on the combined election-referendum question because of the cost factor. With combined voting, the cost to the city would be only the amount required to print ballots, but the city could use the same election judges and polling places which will serve the aldermanic and mayoral balloting. With a separate referendum, the city would have to pay additional judge and space rental costs.

City may be forced to ease ethics bill

Rolling Meadows aldermen may be forced to drop some of the more stringent disclosure requirements planned for a city ethics ordinance.

City Atty. Donald R. Rose said Monday he has reviewed the proposed ordinance and intends to compare it with the state ethics law.

City aldermen "can adopt an ethics law that's consistent with the state code. But they have to keep it within reasonable bounds," Rose said. One provision aldermen have considered adding may go beyond reasonable limits, Rose said.

The provision would require disclosure by relatives of persons covered in the ordinance of any financial interests. The aldermen had hoped to extend the requirement to cover relatives such as children living away from the parents' home.

ROSE SAID THAT type of disclosure could be an invasion of the privacy of the children.

"I think it goes beyond what's anticipated in a disclosure act," said Rose, suggesting it might be an unreasonable demand.

The Rolling Meadows ordinance proposal is copied from one proposed for Palatine village trustees. Extending coverage to officials' children was considered by Palatine, but trustees there felt it might infringe on the privacy rights of those children, and questioned their ability to enforce it.

The proposed ordinance would apply to elected officials or candidates for elective office, appointed officials, key public employees and their immediate families.

It would include the mayor and aldermen, city clerk and deputy clerk, plan commission and zoning board members, city manager and any assistant managers, treasurer, lawyer, engineer, planner and department chiefs.

OFFICIALS WOULD BE required to file a disclosure statement and a conflict-of-interest disclaimer when filing nominating petitions for elective office or within 30 days of election or appointment to any office or city position.

The statements and disclaimers would be available for inspection, but persons wishing to inspect the documents would have to file request with the city clerk. The request forms would show the examiner's name, occupation, address, telephone number, date of examination and reason for examination. A copy of the form would be sent to the official whose statement was examined.

The disclosure statement covers five general areas. Persons covered by the law would have to disclose any property owned by themselves or their immediate family within Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg or Palatine townships. They would have to reveal ownership by themselves or immediately family members of five per cent or more of any business entity, or the holding of an office or directorship in any business entity, identifying their relationship to the firm and the type of product or service produced by the firm.

DISCLOSURE WOULD be required for any debts of officials or their immediate family members, if the debts exceeded (Continued on page 5)

Huntington Commons woman gives up eviction fight

by BARRY SIGALE

The Mount Prospect woman who was fighting eviction from her apartment at the federally-subsidized Huntington Commons complex has lost her battle and will move out by Sunday.

The decision is a blow to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which made a public issue of the plight of Patricia Orr. She was characterized by SCLC as a woman alone, having to care for five children without a husband to lend support.

The 37-year-old divorcee has decided not to pursue her eviction in court and has found a new place to live. Originally scheduled to be out of her apartment by Oct. 31, Mrs. Orr had additional time to look for a new home because of the behind-the-scenes negotiations between her attorney and the attorney for The Littlestone Co., managers of the complex. "This is a normal way to end" an eviction controversy, said Bill McNally, SCLC attorney representing Mrs. Orr, in explaining why a courtroom confrontation did not take place. "Usually," he said, "a tenant says, 'to heck with it,' and drops attempts to challenge the order."

THE MAIN REASON Mrs. Orr didn't continue the battle, according to SCLC officials, is that the burden of proof was upon her to refute the charges made against her and her family that led to the eviction notice. The odds, said the officials, were against her.

The legal action was threatened by SCLC at a press conference Oct. 24. It was an immediate reaction after Mrs.

Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cate, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandalism charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

Petitions back ex-director of Dwyer School

Petitions containing more than 250 signatures will be sent to State School Supt. Michael Bakalis this week in support of school psychologist John Whipple, former director of the Dwyer School for emotionally disturbed children in Arlington Heights.

The petitions are being gathered by parents who have children in Dwyer, staff members at the school and another facility for troubled children, and residents of the community who support Whipple. They call on Bakalis to reject a recommendation from the State Teacher Certification Board that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked.

Frieda Krueger, a secretary for the Center for Child and Family Studies where Whipple now works and informal coordinator of the petition drive, said petitions with about 250 signatures were given to her Monday morning.

UNTIL LAST summer Whipple was clinical director of Dwyer, located in Arlington Heights. At that time he was transferred to the Center for Child and Family Studies, an outpatient treatment center for children with learning and emotional problems, after charges of child abuse were made against him by County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick and former teachers from Dwyer.

The Teacher Certification Board last week cleared Whipple of the child-abuse charges but recommended to Bakalis that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked because he had worked as an administrator at Dwyer without the administrative certificate required by law. If the certificate is revoked, Whipple will not be able to work for public schools in the state.

Michael Stramaglia, associate superintendent for Bakalis, said Monday he will turn the certification board's recommendation to Bakalis early next week. He also said members of Bakalis' staff are researching the implications of the board's recommendation and will present a separate recommendation to Bakalis.

Stramaglia said the recommendation from the staff "may be the same as the certification board or it may be different." He said he does not know how soon Bakalis will rule on the case, but said a ruling will come before Bakalis leaves office Jan. 13.

Attorneys for Whipple have said they will take the case to court if his certificate is revoked.

Hilton to assume operation of Arlington Towers

by KURT BAER

Hilton Hotels Corp. will take over operation of Arlington Park Towers and O'Hare International Tower hotels Dec. 16.

The two hotels will be renamed the Arlington Park Hilton and the O'Hare Hilton.

Madison Square Garden Corp. will retain ownership of the two properties.

Alan N. Cohen, president of Madison Square Garden, and Barron Hilton, president of Hilton Hotels, announced the management contract Monday at the O'Hare International Tower Hotel, capping several months of speculation.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. However, Hilton management contracts generally are based on either a percentage of hotel revenues or percentages of both revenues and profits.

MADISON SQUARE Garden executives said the management contract would have no effect on plans for a 5,000-unit housing development on 180 acres directly north of the Arlington Park hotel.

"The Hilton management contract does not diminish our continuing interest in the Chicago area," Cohen said.

Hilton said the promotion of the Arlington Park hotel as a resort and convention hotel was "ideally suited to our marketing concept." He said Hilton also will profit from a direct association with O'Hare Airport, which he noted is "the busiest and one of the most efficient airports in the world."

The 450-room Arlington Park Towers Hotel opened in April, 1969. It was built in just 10 months while the race track property still was unincorporated and under the direction of Marjorie Everett.

The O'Hare Hilton, adjacent to O'Hare Airport's passenger terminals, has nearly 1,000 guest rooms. An enclosed moving sidewalk connects the hotel and the airport terminals.

COHEN SAID THE two hotels would benefit from Hilton's computerized reservation system. Madison Square Garden chose Hilton because it wanted "the best professional management available," he said.

The new management contract will not affect the operation of the Arlington Park Theatre or the Arlington Park Race Track, which share a 430-acre site with the hotel at Euclid Avenue and Ill. Rte. 53, officials said.

A City of Chicago official said the city will continue to receive either $1 million or 10 per cent of the gross operating revenue of the O'Hare hotel, whichever is greater, in yearly rent for use of city airport property.

$3,000 or 25 per cent of annual income. The Palatine ordinance doesn't cover home mortgages but Rolling Meadows aldermen suggested listing mortgage debts in the city's ordinance.

Gifts exceeding $50 from firms doing business with the city would have to be disclosed. The recipient of gift, giver, his address, the date the gift changed hands and its market value would have to be specified.

The conflict-of-interest disclaimer would require only the signature of the person covered by the ordinance. It denies any direct or indirect interest in contracts being let by the city, if the person must vote on the contract; and prohibits receiving income from persons owning or having interest in real estate for which the official might be required to vote on a request for such measures as zoning. It also prohibits receiving income from persons owning or interested in real estate for which any petition is filed seeking zoning or other approval for a full year after the filing of the petition.

IT PROHIBITS ANY activity in conflict with public responsibilities, including the acceptance or retaining of economic opportunities which "present a substantial threat to... independence of judgment." It prohibits soliciting or accepting gifts, loans or services from persons affected by the public official's actions, and bars the official from owning stock in any financial institution empowered to accept deposits of city funds.

The penalty for falsely signing a disclaimer is a fine of up to $500.

La Grange official describes project

Tunnel blasts to 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rolison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rolison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY DISTRICT announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rolison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts bounded off the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rolison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jelly" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Stickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rolison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lonnquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Sirens not loud enough for $ grant

Civil Defense sirens in Rolling Meadows still do not sound loud enough to meet federal standards for a grant to pay half the cost.

The city purchased the sirens in December 1970 after the federal government said it would pay half the $30,000 cost if the sirens registered 130 decibels. However, the highest level independent testers have recorded from any of the three sirens is 124 decibels.

City Mgr. James Watson and City Atty. Donald M. Rose met last week with the three contractors who manufactured and installed the equipment in hopes of heading off trial of a lawsuit over the failure of the sirens to meet contract specifications.

The city has filed suit against the firms, but Watson said there still is no hearing scheduled.

If the system cannot be made to meet federal requirements and the companies do not install an alternate system that will, the city will demand payment of the $15,000 from them.

The three companies are Great Lakes Fire and Equipment, which supplied activating devices; Watson said appear to function well; Thorn Electric, which installed the system; and Alerting Communications of America, which manufactured the sirens.

The suspects' car was stopped at Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue after it allegedly ran a stop sign. They reportedly told Arlington Heights patrolman Michael Ossler they were on their way back to Chicago after completing a job.

Ossler said their car, at this point, ran out of gas and they offered him $30 to get them some. After noticing a screwdriver in Kostantouros' pocket and a money bag in the car, Ossler radioed for backup police on the pretext of calling for a tow truck.

No gas in tank, police nab 'em

TWO Chicago men were arrested early Monday within minutes after they took $1,300 from an Arlington Heights restaurant, police said.

Arrested were Panagiotis Kostantouros, 31, and Kostantinos Livas, 23. They were charged with the $1,323 burglary of the Evans House Restaurant, 900 W. Northwest Hwy., during which the dishwasher was reportedly threatened with a knife.

homes. But for the family using about 21,000 gallons of water per year, the change computes to about 83 per cent. The sewer bill would increase from $1.92 to $3.58 per quarter.

Under the new sewer billing system, residents would pay 25 per cent of whatever their water bill totals for sewer service. The sewer charge would be in addition to the water bill.

Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report

The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down. Some feel they must work too hard to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburbs are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them, the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 58 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $5,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 48 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live."

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

Huge deficit looms; village acts to cut it

Several spending cuts have tentatively been approved by the Palatine Village Board to reduce a projected deficit of more than $300,000 this fiscal year.

Trustee Richard W. Fonte, chairman of the administration, finance and legislation committee, estimates the cutbacks will reduce the projected deficit to about $12,000 by April 30, the end of the fiscal year.

The cutbacks include an $8,500 weed-control program, a $3,000 beautification program, a $3,000 public relations program, $10,000 for a special census and reductions in departmental budgets.

"We just can't do everything in one year. If there is anything this board could be criticized for it is trying to do too much," said Trustee Robert J. Guss Jr.

THE $32,000 DEFICIT in the general fund can be made up from federal revenue-sharing funds, Fonte said. He added he believed the village's finances were in good shape and a $32,000 difference between revenue and expenditures is not bad on a total general fund budget of $2,097,000.

The cutbacks were tentatively approved at a Sunday session of Fonte's committee to review the spending trends during the first six months of the 1974-75 fiscal year and projected expenditures and revenues for the remaining six months.

Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig opened the committee meeting by telling the board it was "faced with a problem in the magnitude of $300,000 to $400,000."

Funds for the special census were removed from this year's budget because an annexation election is expected to be held in the Heatherlea, English Valley and Pepper Tree subdivisions soon, but the annexation may not be completed before April 30.

INFLATION AND POOR planning in the preparation of the budget were cited as reasons for the increase in expenditures over revenues. Unbudgeted expenditures such as a $100,800 land purchase, which will be reimbursed to the general fund from the motor fuel tax fund, and $53,000 in legal fees from the Colfax Street special assessment, which has been dropped, have added to the financial problems.

Expenditures in all village departments except building and health are expected to exceed the budgeted allotment. The building and health department budgets, which were slashed during the spring budget sessions, will show a surplus of $33,969 and $15,515 respectively at the end of the fiscal year.

Administrative changes in personnel, a automobile maintenance costs, consultant fees, legal fees and volunteer firemen's pay contribute to the deficit in other departments.

The public works department budget was not reviewed at Sunday's budget review but it is not expected to have a significant impact on the village's financial outlook. Figures on the public works department budget, which is scattered in several funds, will be compiled by Finance Director John Hedstrom for board review.

HELPING TO OFFSET the increase in expenditures in the general fund is an estimated $280,000 in revenue the village did not budget. Sales tax revenue is $105,000 higher than anticipated, state income tax is $15,000 higher and reimbursement for police and fire programs is more than $33,000. There also have been transfers to the general fund that were not budgeted.

The revenue-sharing fund, which will be used to offset any deficit in the general fund, is expected to have $60,000 in it at the end of the fiscal year.

Coughlin, Stern will run to retain trustee posts

Palatine Village Trustees Bryan P. Coughlin Jr. and Philip E. Stern announced Monday night they will seek to retain their seats in the April election.

Both indicated they will seek slating by the village's Republican Party. Coughlin was elected to the board on the Republican ticket in 1973 and Stern was appointed to the board last year by Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones, a Republican.

Their candidacies open the field of candidates seeking GOP backing to four. John Serio, 321 S. Cedar St., and Donald Payton, 235 N. Bethwell St., earlier announced they are candidates for the three GOP nominations.

A REPUBLICAN convention to select nominees will be at 9 a.m. Dec. 14 at the American Legion Hall, 122 W. Palatine Rd.

Delegate filing for the convention starts today at 9 a.m. at the Palatine Township Republican Organization headquarters in the Village Oasis. The first 100 persons from the 23 village precincts to sign up will be named delegates. Delegate filing will be open on weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Dec. 4.

The delegates will select the three candidates to be slated by the village's Republican Party for the village board elections.

The only incumbent yet to announce if he will seek reelection is Trustee Fred H. Zajonc, who was elected to the board on a Village Incumbent Party ticket four years ago.

Coughlin, 43, of 512 MacArthur Dr., was elected to a two-year term on the board. He cited completion of programs started in accounting, planning and land use as reasons for seeking reelection.

problems since June, forcing him to miss several meetings. He said, however, his health is steadily improving and he does not feel it will interfere with his work on the board. He is an 11-year resident of Palatine and vice president of the Midwest Stock Exchange in Chicago.

Stern, 39, of 448 Warwick Dr., was appointed to the board to fill the unexpired term of Clayton W. Brown. He cited lowering of village taxes and fees, ethics

Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cale, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandalism charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

Chicago burglary suspects' caper runs out of gas

Two Chicago men were arrested early Monday within minutes after they took $1,300 from an Arlington Heights restaurant, police said.

Arrested were Panagiotis Kostantouros, 31, and Konstantinos Livas, 23. They were charged with the $1,323 burglary of the Evans House Restaurant, 900 W. Northwest Hwy., during which the dishwasher was reportedly threatened with a knife.

The suspects' car was stopped at Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue after it allegedly ran a stop sign. They reportedly told Arlington Heights patrolman Michael Ossler they were on their way back to Chicago after completing a job.

Ossler said their car, at this point, ran out of gas and they offered him $30 to get them some. After noticing a screwdriver in Kostantouros' pocket and a money bag in the car, Ossler radioed for backup police on the pretext of calling for a tow truck.

POLICE REPORTED finding $1,323 in the money bag. Also found in the car were a shotgun, a pistol, a starter's pistol, a can of disabling chemical spray, a switchblade knife, ski masks and tools.

The alleged burglars entered the restaurant, 900 W. Northwest Hwy., through a basement window and prying open the office door. Police said Livas had threatened the dishwasher with the switchblade during the crime.

Kostantouros was charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools. He was released on $10,000 bond pending a Dec. 6 appearance in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Livas was charged with burglary, possession of burglary tools, unlawful use of a weapon, aggravated assault and being an illegal immigrant. Police said other charges are pending against him. They said the shotgun was reported stolen from Trenton, N.J. He is being held at the County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

and open communications as programs he hopes to continue if elected.

Candidates for the Village of Palatine Republican Party nomination must file nominating petitions with 100 signatures of Republican voters between Dec. 4 and Dec. 10.

"THE CONVENTION opens things up. The more people that do participate the better for the party," said Bernard E. Pedersen, Palatine Township Republican committeeman.

Pedersen said candidates for the Republican nomination will have to work hard to line up delegates to secure the nomination.

To be eligible to serve as a delegate at the convention a person must be a Palatine resident who voted in the 1974 Republican primary.

Crime compensation

What are the major changes in the Illinois Crime Victims Compensation Act?

Any person related to the victim of a crime of violence, even though he was not dependent on the victim for his support, is now eligible for reimbursement of funeral and medical expenses which he paid for the victim. Another amendment authorizes the filing of claims for as little as $200.

Petitions with 250 names lend support to Whipple

Petitions containing more than 250 signatures will be sent to State School Supt. Michael Bakalis this week in support of school psychologist John Whipple, former director of the Dwyer School for emotionally disturbed children in Arlington Heights.

The petitions are being gathered by parents who have children in Dwyer, staff members at the school and another facility for troubled children, and residents of the community who support Whipple. They call on Bakalis to reject a recommendation from the State Teacher Certification Board that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked.

Frieda Krueger, a secretary for the Center for Child and Family Studies where Whipple now works and informal coordinator of the petition drive, said petitions with about 250 signatures were given to her Monday morning.

UNTIL LAST summer Whipple was clinical director of Dwyer, located in Arlington Heights. At that time he was transferred to the Center for Child and Family Studies, an outpatient treatment center for children with learning and emotional problems, after charges of child abuse were made against him by County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick and former teachers from Dwyer.

The Teacher Certification Board last week cleared Whipple of the child-abuse charges but recommended to Bakalis that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked because he had worked as an administrator at Dwyer without the administrative certificate required by law. If the certificate is revoked, Whipple will not be able to work for public schools in the state.

Michael Stramaglia, associate superintendent for Bakalis, said Monday he will turn the certification board's recommendation to Bakalis early next week. He also said members of Bakalis' staff are researching the implications of the board's recommendation and will present a separate recommendation to Bakalis.

Stramaglia said the recommendation from the staff "may be the same as the certification board or it may be different." He said he does not know how soon Bakalis will rule on the case, but said a ruling will come before Bakalis leaves office Jan. 13.

Attorneys for Whipple have said they will take the case to court if his certificate is revoked.

Hilton to assume operation of Arlington Towers

by KURT BAER

Hilton Hotels Corp. will take over operation of Arlington Park Towers and O'Hare International Tower hotels Dec. 16.

The two hotels will be renamed the Arlington Park Hilton and the O'Hare Hilton.

Madison Square Garden Corp. will retain ownership of the two properties.

Alan N. Cohen, president of Madison Square Garden, and Barron Hilton, president of Hilton Hotels, announced the management contract Monday at the O'Hare International Tower Hotel, capping several months of speculation.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. However, Hilton management contracts generally are based on either a percentage of hotel revenues or percentages of both revenues and profits.

MADISON SQUARE Garden executives said the management contract would have no effect on plans for a 5,000-unit housing development on 190 acres directly north of the Arlington Park hotel.

"The Hilton management contract does not diminish our continuing interest in the Chicago area," Cohen said.

Hilton said the promotion of the Arlington Park hotel as a resort and convention hotel was "ideally suited to our marketing concept." He said Hilton also will profit from a direct association with O'Hare Airport, which he noted is "the busiest and one of the most efficient airports in the world."

The 450-room Arlington Park Towers Hotel opened in April, 1969. It was built in just 10 months while the race track property still was unincorporated and under the direction of Marje Everett.

The O'Hare Hilton, adjacent to O'Hare Airport's passenger terminals, has nearly 1,000 guest rooms. An enclosed moving sidewalk connects the hotel and the airport terminals.

COHEN SAID THE two hotels would benefit from Hilton's computerized reservation system. Madison Square Garden chose Hilton because it wanted "the best professional management available," he said.

The new management contract will not affect the operation of the Arlington Park Theatre or the Arlington Park Race Track, which share a 430-acre site with the hotel at Euclid Avenue and Ill. Rte. 53, officials said.

A City of Chicago official said the city will continue to receive either $1 million or 10 per cent of the gross operating revenue of the O'Hare hotel, whichever is greater, in yearly rent for use of city airport property.

La Grange official describes project

Tunnel blasts to 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rorison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rorison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY district announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rorison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts "bounced off" the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rorison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jell" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Stickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rorison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lonnquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

63% in survey want referendum on library

by LYNN ASINOF

More than 63 per cent of the 636 persons responding to a Herald survey on the need for a new Mount Prospect Public Library said the issue should be put to the voters in a referendum.

Those who responded, however, were more evenly split about whether a new library is needed. Nearly 59 per cent, or 374 persons, said a library is not needed, while 37 per cent, or 233 persons, said a new library is needed.

Twenty-nine persons said they were undecided on the issue, with 27 of the group calling for a referendum.

The Herald realizes results of a survey of this type are not conclusive but are a means of getting some idea of public opinion about such a project.

Many of those favoring a library referendum included comments that the village board was exceeding its powers by authorizing a $4 million bond issue without a referendum. Several personally criticized Mayor Robert D. Telchert, saying he was refusing to listen to the wishes of the people.

MOST OF THOSE who voted against a referendum favored construction of a new library. Of the 233 in favor of the new library, 84 per cent, or 197, said no public vote is needed on the issue. Many said the need for a library is obvious and therefore money should not be wasted on a referendum.

The village board used a similar argument when it voted to issue the bonds for the $3.2 million library under its home rule powers rather than schedule a referendum. Sale of the bonds was authorized by the board last week.

Survey respondents gave a variety of reasons for not wanting a new library. Nearly 20 per cent of those opposing the library cited poor economic conditions and charged that the citizens could not afford the increase in taxes. The bond issue is estimated to cost residents $16 a year for 20 years on homes with an assessed valuation of $10,000.

Another 50 respondents said there is no need for a new library, with many citing excellent service and declining school enrollment. Several said the schools already provide service to their children, and a few even suggested the school libraries be open to the public instead of building a new library.

THOSE WHO FAVORED a new library cited crowded conditions, lack of book storage space and the need to promote education and culture in the village. Several said that construction should begin immediately to prevent increased cost from inflation.

About 10 per cent of the respondents suggested an addition be built onto the present library at 14 E. Busse Ave. Some suggested adding additional floors to the building, while others called for expansion into the library's parking lot.

More than 92 per cent of those who favored the new library said they were frequent users of the library, compared with only 54 per cent of those who oppose the new library. Likewise, 94 per cent of those opposed to the library rated present facilities as good to excellent, while 67 per cent of those favoring a new library said present facilities are fair to poor.

Those in favor of a new public library expressed satisfaction with the present direction of the village in this matter. More than 87 per cent of the pro-library respondents said they would like the library built at the Central School site, Central Road and Main Street. The village is already committed to purchase this property for $675,000, for the library.

ONLY 20 PERSONS opposed to the library said they favored the Central School site if a library was built. Most, however, said they didn't want the library built anywhere.

The location proposed by consultants working with the downtown commission, the northeast corner of Busse Avenue and Emerson Streets received little support from those answering the survey questions. Only 2 per cent, or 16 persons, said they wanted the library built there. The consultants recommended the site, saying that it would create a more cohesive service district once the village moves into administrative offices across the street to the Mount Prospect State Bank building.

Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report

The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down. Some feel they must work too hard to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburbs are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them; the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 58 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $5,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 48 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live."

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

Huntington woman quits eviction fight

by BARRY SIGALE

The Mount Prospect woman who was fighting eviction from her apartment at the federally-subsidized Huntington Commons complex has lost her battle and will move out by Sunday.

The decision is a blow to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which made a public issue of the plight of Patricia Orr. She was characterized by SCLC as a woman alone, having to care for five children without a husband to lend support.

The 37-year-old divorcee has decided not to pursue her eviction in court and has found a new place to live. Originally scheduled to be out of her apartment by

Patricia Orr

Oct. 31, Mrs. Orr had additional time to look for a new home because of the behind-the-scenes negotiations between her attorney and the attorney for The Littlestone Co., managers of the complex.

"This is a normal way to end" an eviction controversy, said Bill McNally, SCLC attorney representing Mrs. Orr, in explaining why a courtroom confrontation did not take place. "Usually," he said, "a tenant says, 'to heck with it,'" and drops attempts to challenge the order.

THE MAIN REASON Mrs. Orr didn't continue the battle, according to SCLC officials, is that the burden of proof was upon her to refute the charges made against her and her family that led to the eviction notice. The odds, said the officials, were against her.

The legal action was threatened by SCLC at a press conference Oct. 24. It was an immediate reaction after Mrs.

Mental health board seeks land from Elk Grove

by JILL BETTNER

The Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center Board of Directors is seeking a land donation from Elk Grove Village for a $300,000 headquarters building.

Village Pres. Charles Zettek of Elk Grove Village said he received a letter from mental health center board president Paul Rittberg requesting a two-acre site. Zettek said the request will be placed on the village board agenda in the near future.

Donald Stocker, chairman of the facilities planning committee of the mental health center board, said the directors are hoping to obtain a site west of Ill. Rte. 53. A building in that area, he said, would be centrally located and convenient to residents of both townships.

Saying plans for the new facility are in the "very beginning stages," Stocker was unable to provide details on financing for the building or a timetable for construction.

A meeting is being set up this week with U. S. Health, Education and Welfare representatives to explore the possibilities for federal funds, he said. There are no plans to approach the two townships for money, Stocker added.

THE MENTAL HEALTH center board has been discussing the need for the proposed facility for more than a year. The center is in "The Farmhouse" in front of Alexian Brothers Medical Center on Biesterfeld Road in Elk Grove Village.

"Our caseload is constantly increasing as the two townships grow and it's getting very tight at the Farmhouse," Stocker said. "We put on a four-room addition about five months ago, but even with that we're just overcrowded."

No architect has been hired to draw plans for the new building, but Stocker said it appears at least 15 counseling rooms and several large meeting rooms will be needed.

Another member of the mental health center board, Marilyn Quinn, said plans are to design the building as "non-institutional" as possible.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE was responsible for setting up the center in 1966. It then was known as the Community Services and Mental Health Board and served only the community.

Operating funds come from the two townships, the Illinois Dept. of Mental Health, the United Funds of Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village and clients' fees.

Therapists handle an average of 55 cases a month, including whole families, executive director Jordan Rosen said.

In addition to the facility in Elk Grove Village, the center operates an outpost at Roselle and Schaumburg roads, Schaumburg.

For now, the front yard. Tomorrow—who knows?—the Big Ten.

Huntington woman quits eviction fight

Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cate, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandalism charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

Compromise over driveway feud?

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree.

Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 16 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday that the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 16 feet.

The Twardziks said they are unsure whether they will accept the compromise, if actually offered, since they want to keep the driveway which was installed six years ago. Mrs. Twardzik said she was told the county's contractor would come to remove six feet of black top Thursday.

Last week, the Twardziks parked their vehicles in the driveway to prevent workmen from ripping it out. Mrs. Twardzik said she is still keeping a close watch over the driveway.

5-year budget meeting topic

The Mount Prospect police chief, fire chief and other department heads tonight will have the chance to tell the village board what they think their departments will be like in five years.

The department heads have been asked by Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten, head of the board's finance committee, to present five-year budget projections at tonight's committee-of-the-whole meeting.

Some of the projections, which include manpower, equipment and space needs, are quite detailed. Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said. The manager said some department heads have prepared floor plans for a possible revamping of the present village hall to be used as part of the presentation tonight.

Scholten said the information will be used in preparation for upcoming budget decisions.

In previous years the budget has been prepared by the village manager and then submitted to the village board for approval. This year, Scholten said the board will make known their priority items so the manager can prepare a budget based on the board's wishes.

Groups to push for seniors' housing, community center

Two committees have been formed to push for housing and a community center for senior citizens in Mount Prospect.

The committees were set up last week by the village's advisory council after it heard from a dozen residents who singled out lack of senior citizen housing and a center as major concerns facing the elderly.

Village Trustee O. T. Gustus urged the council to establish a committee to work on bringing a senior citizens center close to the center of town.

"I urge you to suggest things like volunteering to help yourselves keep the budget down so we can do more things with the money available," he added.

As a result the two committees were formed to start plans to bring senior citizen housing and a center to Mount Prospect.

The housing committee includes Edna Bowler, Howard Harden, Joseph Demma, Marguerite Hincley and Reese Miller.

Committee members for the center are Ruby Ziehlen, Phyllis Demma, Marie Bowler, Hedvic Valasah, Mary Ruane, Glenn Faragher.

Kathleen Stoga, program coordinator for the Mount Prospect Senior Services, said the village "definitely" needs housing for the elderly. She said there are about 4,000 elderly persons in Mount Prospect and there is a "real need" for such housing.

Gustus said village officials are willing to listen to ideas for a senior center.

"We on the (village) council are sympathetic," he said.

MEMBERS ALSO discussed the problems of early retirement. Persons who retire before the age of 65 are not eligible for the village discount and cab programs, members said. They also are excluded from many federal programs because they were forced out of work just a few years too early.

Phyllis Nonkes, director of the New Horizons senior citizens' group at St. Thomas Becket Church, suggested a six-month calendar be prepared so clubs won't schedule special meetings and events on days other clubs hold theirs.

A CALENDAR of this sort would eliminate a lot of the misunderstanding and apparent conflict among the clubs, Mrs. Noakes said.

Other concerns expressed at the meeting ranged from installing suggestion boxes at club meetings to getting more senior citizens involved.

Three library sites under study tonight

Mount Prospect's downtown commission will meet tonight to consider three alternate site plans for a new public library.

The site plans, prepared by consulting firm Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., will be compared with a list of criterion developed by the commission. Cost of building the library will be the commission's first consideration, but the impact on the development of the downtown area also is important in choosing a site.

The village board is currently proceeding with plans to construct the $3.2 million library at the Central School site, Central Road and Main Street. Board members said, however, they will consider another site if recommended by the commission.

The commission's recommendation is scheduled to be presented to the village board next week, and chairman Robert Bennett said there is an outside chance a decision will be reached at tonight's meeting.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Tunnel blasts 'like thunder'

Prospect would be the possible completion of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rorison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lomquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Youth, 18, arrested for possession of pot

An 18-year-old Mount Prospect youth was arrested for possession of marijuana early Monday after Mount Prospect police stopped the car in which he was a passenger for a traffic violation.

Charged on the drug count was Steven J. Houdek, 501 W. Sunset Rd. Police charged the driver, Scott D. Kuhn, 18, of 114 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect, with disobeying a stop sign at Pine and Lincoln streets. The arrests were made at 4:45 a.m.

Both are to appear Jan. 8 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

$40 in coins taken in burglary Sunday

A burglar took $40 in coins Sunday from an entryway at the Gleebe Danner residence, 510 Holly Ave., Mount Prospect police said Monday.

The cash was taken between 4:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. from the unlocked entryway, police said.

Suburbanites' mood—they believe...

A Herald Staff Report

The people are optimistic. They believe things may not be exactly right but they also believe deeply there is good sense in the way we live. They believe the nation and the things that make America strong will endure.

The people believe in themselves. They believe in God, in the hope that rests with little children and in the worth of their work. They believe hard work pays off and they believe nothing can keep them down to get along.

The people don't believe they live in a perfect world or a perfect country. They are worried about money and some fear the future. Sometimes some of them are on the brink of despair. Yet even in moments of depression they remain self-confident.

The people who live in the Northwest suburbs are not angry at anybody or anything. They place their families above almost all else. Many of them include their country when they talk of the things most dear to them. They are quiet rather than loud, thankful rather than jealous.

The people seem to be waiting for what comes next. Some are apprehensive but most are resolute. Many are dissatisfied — but not all. They are generally kind to one another.

Most of all, people have a lot on their minds.

During the past few days, Herald staff writers talked to a lot of people who live in the suburbs. We asked them to speak openly about the way they live and the way they feel about things.

This is what they had to say. Their words are as they said them, the people who said them are real:

The sales manager

"I consider myself a religious man. I'm 58 years old, I have four children — two of them married, one in college and one mentally retarded. I go to the county jail once a week for discussions with the convicts there. I think they need to find a commitment in life like the one I've found in my religion.

"I always wanted to be married and have a family. The driving motive was to get a job and have economic security first. I felt that if I could make $5,000 a year I would have it made. The Depression had a terrific impact on my whole life. I married at 28 when I knew I had economic security.

"We are definitely going through a recession now. It worries me but it doesn't scare me. People will adjust.

"I like this area the best of any place I have lived. The people here are great. I enjoy all those I've met and the friends I've made. There is opportunity here for community service."

Any dreams? "Well, I wish I was 38 instead of 58. I would go back and get my law degree and defend these guys that don't have any money."

How do you feel about getting old? "Here's my definition of a young man: a man one year older than I am. I try to enjoy life and I am enjoying life more today than I have ever enjoyed life. I just thank the Lord I have another day to live."

"I like my job, too. I don't plan to move up or move on... I'd like to retire (Continued on Page 4)

Tough fight looms for parks vote

by JOE SWICKARD

The Arlington Heights Park District apparently will be facing a tough and reluctant electorate if it attempts to sell a tax-increase referendum.

The citizens' committee studying the park district's financial situation heard Monday night homeowners association representatives' reactions to a referendum that could include a tax increase and the construction of revenue-generating activities.

The representatives, invited by the committee, said any referendum in today's economic climate would have to be carefully packaged and presented. The representatives also said there are still unanswered questions about the efficiency of the park board and administration and their ability to live within a budget or provide good planning.

The citizens' committee was empowered by the park board to recommend solutions to its financial problems. The board has said it cannot continue to provide services or maintenance at the present level without additional income.

UNDER STATE LAW, park districts can raise money only through property tax rates and activity fees. The committee is considering a referendum to increase the tax rate to the maximum and perhaps build new facilities. Committee chairman John G. Woods, former village president, said any solution would provide relief for only three to five years.

Ralph Gruenewald, of the Northgate Civic Assn., said a referendum would have to be tied to a "concrete long-range plan." He added he has not seen any long-term plans, and if there are any, they have not been known to the public.

Gruenewald said a referendum would have to be sold as "not just a bandage because the park district is going broke." He questioned whether the parks "have a real feel for dollars and cents."

Inflation makes any referendum to increase taxes less than universally appealing, said Richard Goedke, president of the Westgate Civic Assn. He said that after meeting with other homeowners, he is unsure the issue would pass.

"I doesn't look good," Goedke said, but added that so far there is no concerted opposition to a referendum.

The representative from Ivy Hill told the committee, "You gentlemen have a job to sell it."

HE ALSO RAISED the question of whether the parks were being run as well as they could be. He advised the committee to avoid a "pork barrel" referendum of new projects for each section of town.

Woods challenged the last point, terming it the "drawbridge syndrome." He said residents of one area tend to vote against new improvements once their area is supplied.

Woods said the parks and he were facing similar situations: "I have to put a new roof on my house. I can't afford, but I can't afford not to."

Committee member Marcia Troch said without a referendum, residents could look forward to a steady deterioration of the park facilities and services.

County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick and former teachers from Dwyer.

The Teacher Certification Board last week cleared Whipple of the child-abuse charges but recommended to Bakalis that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked because he had worked as an administrator at Dwyer without the administrative certificate required by law. If the certificate is revoked, Whipple will not be able to work for public schools in the state.

Michael Stramaglla, associate superintendent for Bakalis, said Monday he will turn the certification board's recommendation to Bakalis early next week. He also said members of Bakalis' staff are researching the implications of the board's recommendation and will present a separate recommendation to Bakalis.

Stramaglla said the recommendation from the staff "may be the same as the certification board or it may be different." He said he does not know how soon Bakalis will rule on the case, but said a ruling will come before Bakalis leaves office Jan. 13.

Attorneys for Whipple have said they will take the case to court if his certification is revoked.

Hilton to assume operation of Arlington Towers

by KURT BAER

Hilton Hotels Corp. will take over operation of Arlington Park Towers and O'Hare International Tower hotels Dec. 16.

The two hotels will be renamed the Arlington Park Hilton and the O'Hare Hilton.

Madison Square Garden Corp. will retain ownership of the two properties.

Alan N. Cohen, president of Madison Square Garden, and Barron Hilton, president of Hilton Hotels, announced the management contract Monday at the O'Hare International Tower Hotel, capping several months of speculation.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. However, Hilton management contracts generally are based on either a percentage of hotel revenues or percentages of both revenues and profits.

MADISON SQUARE Garden executives said the management contract would have no effect on plans for a 5,000-unit housing development on 190 acres directly north of the Arlington Park hotel.

"The Hilton management contract does not diminish our continuing interest in the Chicago area," Cohen said.

Hilton said the promotion of the Arlington Park hotel as a resort and convention hotel was "ideally suited to our marketing concept." He said Hilton also will profit from a direct association with O'Hare Airport, which he noted is "the busiest and one of the most efficient airports in the world."

The 450-room Arlington Park Towers Hotel opened in April, 1969. It was built in just 10 months while the race track property still was unincorporated and under the direction of Marjorie Everett.

The O'Hare Hilton, adjacent to O'Hare Airport's passenger terminals, has nearly 1,000 guest rooms. An enclosed moving sidewalk connects the hotel and the airport terminals.

COHEN SAID THE two hotels would benefit from Hilton's computerized reservation system. Madison Square Garden chose Hilton because it wanted "the best professional management available," he said.

The new management contract will not affect the operation of the Arlington Park Theatre or the Arlington Park Race Track, which share a 430-acre site with the hotel at Euclid Avenue and Ill. Rte. 53, officials said.

A City of Chicago official said the city will continue to receive either $1 million or 10 per cent of the gross operating revenue of the O'Hare hotel, whichever is greater, in yearly rent for use of city airport property.

Laseke to outline rate-hike bid

The Laseke Disposal Co. is scheduled to outline its case for an additional 2-to-3-cent increase in the monthly residential garbage collection rate before the village board's finance committee tonight.

The increase, above the 5 per cent rate hike already approved by the village board for 1975, is being sought because of higher dumping fees charged the Laseke firm, by the Wauconda landfill, where village refuse is dumped.

Laseke's exclusive contract with the Village of Arlington Heights permits the firm to seek an adjustment in the garbage pickup rate if its own dumping costs are raised.

As it stands, residents will pay $5.36 a month for trash pickup beginning in January, up from the present $5.08. Besides the 5 per cent increase, the new figure includes several additional cents to pay for extending half-price garbage service to residents 62 years of age and receiving Social Security payments.

The finance committee also is scheduled to make a mid-year review of the current village budget, and to consider a recent report on the village's insurance program.

Tonight's meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Get-away car sputters to halt

Chicago burglary suspects' caper runs out of gas

Two Chicago men were arrested early Monday within minutes after they took $1,300 from an Arlington Heights restaurant, police said.

Arrested were Panagiotis Kostantouros, 31, and Konstantinos Livas, 23. They were charged with the $1,323 burglary of the Evans House Restaurant, 900 W. Northwest Hwy., during which the dishwasher was reportedly threatened with a knife.

The suspects' car was stopped at Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue after it allegedly ran a stop sign. They reportedly told Arlington Heights patrolman Michael Ossler they were on their way back to Chicago after completing a job.

Ossler said their car, at this point, ran out of gas and they offered him $30 to get them some. After noticing a screwdriver in Kostantouros' pocket and a money bag in the car, Ossler radioed for backup police on the pretext of calling for a tow truck.

POLICE REPORTED finding $1,323 in the money bag. Also found in the car were a shotgun, a pistol, a starter's pistol, a can of disabling chemical spray, a switchblade knife, ski masks and tools.

The alleged burglars entered the restaurant, 900 W. Northwest Hwy., through a basement window and prying open the office door. Police said Livas had threatened the dishwasher with the switchblade during the crime.

Kostantouros was charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools. He was released on $10,000 bond pending a

Dec. 6 appearance in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Livas was charged with burglary, possession of burglary tools, unlawful use of a weapon, aggravated assault and being an illegal immigrant. Police said other charges are pending against him. They said the shotgun was reported stolen from Trenton, N.J. He is being held at the County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Petitions back Dwyer's Whipple

Petitions containing more than 250 signatures will be sent to State School Supt. Michael Bakalis this week in support of school psychologist John Whipple, former director of the Dwyer School for emotionally disturbed children in Arlington Heights.

The petitions are being gathered by parents who have children in Dwyer, staff members at the school and another facility for troubled children, and residents of the community who support Whipple. They call on Bakalis to reject a recommendation from the State Teacher Certification Board that Whipple's school psychologist certificate be revoked.

Frieda Krueger, a secretary for the Center for Child and Family Studies where Whipple now works and informal coordinator of the petition drive, said petitions with about 250 signatures were given to her Monday morning.

UNTIL LAST summer Whipple was clinical director of Dwyer, located in Arlington Heights. At that time he was transferred to the Center for Child and Family Studies, an outpatient treatment center for children with learning and emotional problems, after charges of child abuse were made against him by

Mount Prospect woman gives up eviction battle

by BARRY SIGALE

The Mount Prospect woman who was fighting eviction from her apartment at the federally-subsidized Huntington Commons complex has lost her battle and will move out by Sunday.

The decision is a blow to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which made a public issue of the plight of Patricia Orr. She was characterized by SCLC as a woman alone, having to care for five children without a husband to lend support.

The 37-year-old divorcee has decided not to pursue her eviction in court and has found a new place to live. Originally scheduled to be out of her apartment by Oct. 31, Mrs. Orr had additional time to look for a new home because of the behind-the-scenes negotiations between her attorney and the attorney for The Littlestone Co., managers of the complex.

"This is a normal way to end" an eviction controversy, said Bill McNally, SCLC attorney representing Mrs. Orr, in explaining why a courtroom confrontation did not take place. "Usually," he said, "a tenant says, 'to heck with it,'" and drops attempts to challenge the order.

THE MAIN REASON Mrs. Orr didn't

continue the battle, according to SCLC officials, is that the burden of proof was upon her to refute the charges made against her and her family that led to the eviction notice. The odds, said the officials, were against her.

The legal action was threatened by SCLC at a press conference Oct. 24. It was an immediate reaction after Mrs. Orr, a black woman and SCLC member, came to them for assistance.

Mrs. Orr was ordered to vacate, said Sue Cate, general manager of Littlestone, because she was habitually tardy with her rent payments and her children were causing damage to the building at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Mrs. Orr claimed she was ill and unable to make prompt payments and offered a guarantee that she would pay on time if allowed to stay. She also defended her children, saying the vandalism charges were untrue.

Now, Mrs. Orr is making arrangements to live at the Rand-Grove Apartment complex in Palatine Township under a six-month trial period. She has promised to make her payments by the first of every month and SCLC has agreed to help her fulfill the obligation.

GRETCHEN LEWIS, SCLC board member, said she doesn't consider the turn of events a defeat for the organization. "I don't have that view," she said. "What we wanted was for Pat to stay in the area. We would have liked her to stay at Huntington Commons but she was lucky enough to have found other housing."

Mrs. Lewis said the issues brought up in the case have led SCLC to challenge several examples of "insensitivity" it has found toward persons living in similar federally funded projects. A series of hearings are scheduled to bring the problem into the open for discussion and solution, she said.

For now, the front yard. Tomorrow—who knows?—the Big Ten.

In preparation for election slatemaking

Caucus adds 4 new questions to candidate interviews

by KURT BAER

Four new questions, reflecting current issues in the village, have been added to the list used by the Arlington Heights Caucus Party in its interviews of prospective candidates for the village board.

Included among the questions are: "What are your views regarding park development in Arlington Heights and the relationship of the park district to village government?" and "What method would you use to cause the village administration to be more responsive to the village board and the village board to be more responsive to the residents?"

Caucus candidates also will be asked to give their view of high-rise development in Arlington Heights, and to comment on solutions to the vandalism problem in the village.

VILLAGE BOARD candidates who go through the Caucus Party's system will be interviewed secretly by the party's candidate recommendation committee. Neither the names nor their answers to the questions are made public.

Chairwoman Joan Hammerstone of the candidate recommendation committee said 195 letters have been sent out soliciting prospective candidates. The letters were mailed to individuals and organizations within the village, including 22 homeowners' associations.

So far, Mrs. Hammerstone said she has received only five affirmative replies, while 26 persons have written to say they are not interested.

"I would encourage people to go for the (village board) positions because so far it has not been a very good turn out," she said.

THE CANDIDATE recommendation committee is directed by the Caucus by-laws to interview all persons interested in being elected by the party and must recommend at least two candidates for each village board vacancy. A final slate of Caucus candidates will be chosen from among the recommended persons at a public meeting later this winter.

Ten of the 15 questions the committee will use during its candidate interviews pertain to the individual's background. Persons will be asked to complete these questions in writing before their interviews, Mrs. Hammerstone said.

Other questions candidates will answer during the interview call for comments on the problems of ecology, traffic, development of the central business district, the promotion of commercial and industrial development, revenue, the cost of village government, apartment versus single-family construction, mass transportation, low-and moderate-income housing, garbage collection and social service programs.

Persons will be asked whether they believe the present system of village government is best suited to village needs. They will also be asked to identify five key issues likely to face the village in the next four years.

Mrs. Hammerstone said the committee is tentatively scheduled to begin its closed-door interviews early next month.

Village sends out 2nd letter on need for housing here

The Village of Arlington Heights has sent out a second letter to businesses in the village attempting to get information on the low and moderate-income housing needs of their employees after an initial survey ran into some opposition.

The housing information is being sought by the village's community development policy team which is preparing the village's application for federal funds under the U.S. Housing and Community Development Act.

A key provision of that act is a requirement for housing assistance plan for low and moderate-income persons, including persons working but not now living in the village.

At a recent meeting, policy team members were told that a number of employers refused to complete the survey because they viewed it as a violation of their workers' privacy, and because of the time and expense of interviewing each employee.

Another concern of the employers is the income levels eligible for housing assistance.

IN A LETTER mailed last week, Asst. Village Mgr. Frank Charlton listed the maximum eligible incomes as $6,615 for one person to $11,070 for a family of nine or more.

"Please be assured that we are interested in preserving privacy; however individuals interested in government assistance should furnish the data needed to establish eligibility," Charlton said. "An acceptable alternative to furnishing all the data requested is for the employee to state the size of his household and whether the total annual income of the household is less than or more than the applicable amount shown."

At a public hearing on the community development act held Nov. 7, several representatives of local industry said their employees' needed lower-cost housing in Arlington Heights. Spokesmen for both Xerox Corp. and Amersham-Searle said low and moderate-income housing would help expand the local labor pool.

Compromise over driveway feud?

Stanley Twardzik and the county highway department can't even agree on how much they disagree.

Twardzik and his wife, Marian, have been locked in a dispute with county highway officials, who want the width of the driveway at the Twardzik home, 1764 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, reduced to 18 feet from its present 30 feet to conform with county standards.

Mrs. Twardzik said Monday that the county has now offered to accept a 24-foot driveway width. But Dan Cohen, county highway construction supervisor, said he is unaware of any compromise and the county still plans to reduce the driveway width to 18 feet.

The Twardziks said they are unsure whether they will accept the compromise, if actually offered, since they want to keep the driveway which was installed six years ago. Mrs. Twardzik said she was told the county's contractor would come to remove six feet of black top Thursday.

Last week, the Twardziks parked their vehicles in the driveway to prevent workmen from ripping it out. Mrs. Twardzik said she is still keeping a close watch over the driveway.

La Grange official describes project

Tunnel blasts 'sound like thunder'

Mount Prospect residents can expect a noise comparable to thunder when the Metropolitan Sanitary District begins blasting for its tunnel sewage system in a year to two years, the superintendent of a similar project in LaGrange says.

Glen Rorison, project superintendent for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel, another MSD tunnel system, said residents' fears of excessive noise when shafts are dug may be unfounded.

The blasts "sound like thunder," he said, adding that residents probably wouldn't know what caused the sound unless they were aware of the blasting.

Rorison also discounted the likelihood of damage caused by the blasting. He said about a dozen complaints of damage were filed in LaGrange, but the blasting firm was only held responsible for two broken windows.

THE SANITARY district announced plans Thursday to dig seven 160-foot deep shafts in Mount Prospect, connecting to its tunnel system carrying sewage from the Northwest suburbs to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines.

Residents of the areas where the shafts will be dropped have expressed concern that the blasting may damage their property.

Rorison, however, says the similar project in LaGrange, where five shafts were blasted in 1970, caused only two broken windows. He said the damage occurred on an overcast day when air coming out of the shafts bounded off the clouds, causing a "concussion." The problem did not recur because the shaft openings were then covered, Rorison said.

His company, Jay Dee Contractors Inc., used some dynamite and another explosive called "water jell" that he said is similar to nitroglycerin for the LaGrange-Brookfield tunnel. The tunnel stores sewage 250 feet underground until it can be pumped for treatment at the MSD's West Southwest Sewage Treatment Plant in Stickney.

THE TUNNEL SYSTEM under Mount Prospect will collect storm and sanitary sewage from Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and a portion of Des Plaines, as well as Mount Prospect.

The sanitary district said the only permanent environmental impact in Mount Prospect would be the possible compaction of soils around the shaft sites.

It acknowledged there may be other problems, such as exhaust fumes and dust, but said they would be temporary.

Rorison said that in LaGrange, Jay Dee hired a blasting consultant to advise on blasting in residential areas and used a seismograph to measure the blasts' impact. The firm also took a door-to-door survey before beginning the blasting to record and photograph existing damage to protect itself against unfounded claims.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT blasting is expected to last about a month at each shaft, with one blast every two to three days. The starting date has not been set, but it is expected to begin in a year to two years.

Shafts are planned for the following Mount Prospect sites: Weller Creek and Central Road, Weller Creek and Lincoln Street, Weller Creek and Wa-Pella Avenue, Weller Creek and Elmhurst Road, Weller Creek and Mount Prospect Road, Williams Street and Lonnquist Boulevard, Isabella Street and Rand Road. An eighth shaft will be at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.
